For many the first few hours at the University were uneasy, lonely hours. For others they were a welcome relief from home. Whatever the feeling it was short-lived. Friends, registration, and drop-add came into the picture and the lines of the year began to form.

The weather was calm. The class you wanted was full. Books and partying emptied pockets quickly. The last traces of summertime were grasped before the first test marked the beginning of school.

Snow fell and the spring semester started a day late. It was a day for staying in or throwing snowballs and cleaning up the slush. The days went faster as the first semester was suddenly over. Carter was elected president, Lily Tomlin entertained students and local townspeople; there were no concerts. The Razorbacks headed for Cotton won five and then lost five, no Cotton — no bowling. Rumors were born, grew, and were squelched within hours. Yes, Frank Broyles resigned and picked a successor in one day. A man came and tried to save souls on the Union Mall, no it wasn't Jesus. Basketball season started and relieved the woes of football. Students gathered in long lines for tickets, only for them to run out every game. So instead they listened on the radio and Eddie Sutton and his Running Razorbacks won eight in a row, beating Big Eight powers Kansas and Kansas State within three days, they beat Tech at Lubbock, lost to Dexter Reed and Memphis State, were ranked in the top 20 in the country and for the first time in the school's history, Basketball was king in Razorback country. Oh yea, the Bicentennial was over.

Weekends!!!

And then the week was over — the school week that is — the exams, the 7:30's, the meetings. Some students studied while others slept. Most students started in full speed or above full speed during weekends. Relaxing, taking a long awaited trip, getting involved, playing, and yes "partying." With students doing these things so well, it's a shame that weekends are only two days.

R. Guyan

As you walk through campus, you begin to look at the world around you — the one you've rented for four years. All of a sudden, you realize that you have a very nice campus for your investment. When you look back on that investment, what do you remember about the year 1976-1977? The campus-wide construction surge? Frank Broyles' resignation? Jimmy Carter's election? A slippery, snowy spring semester?

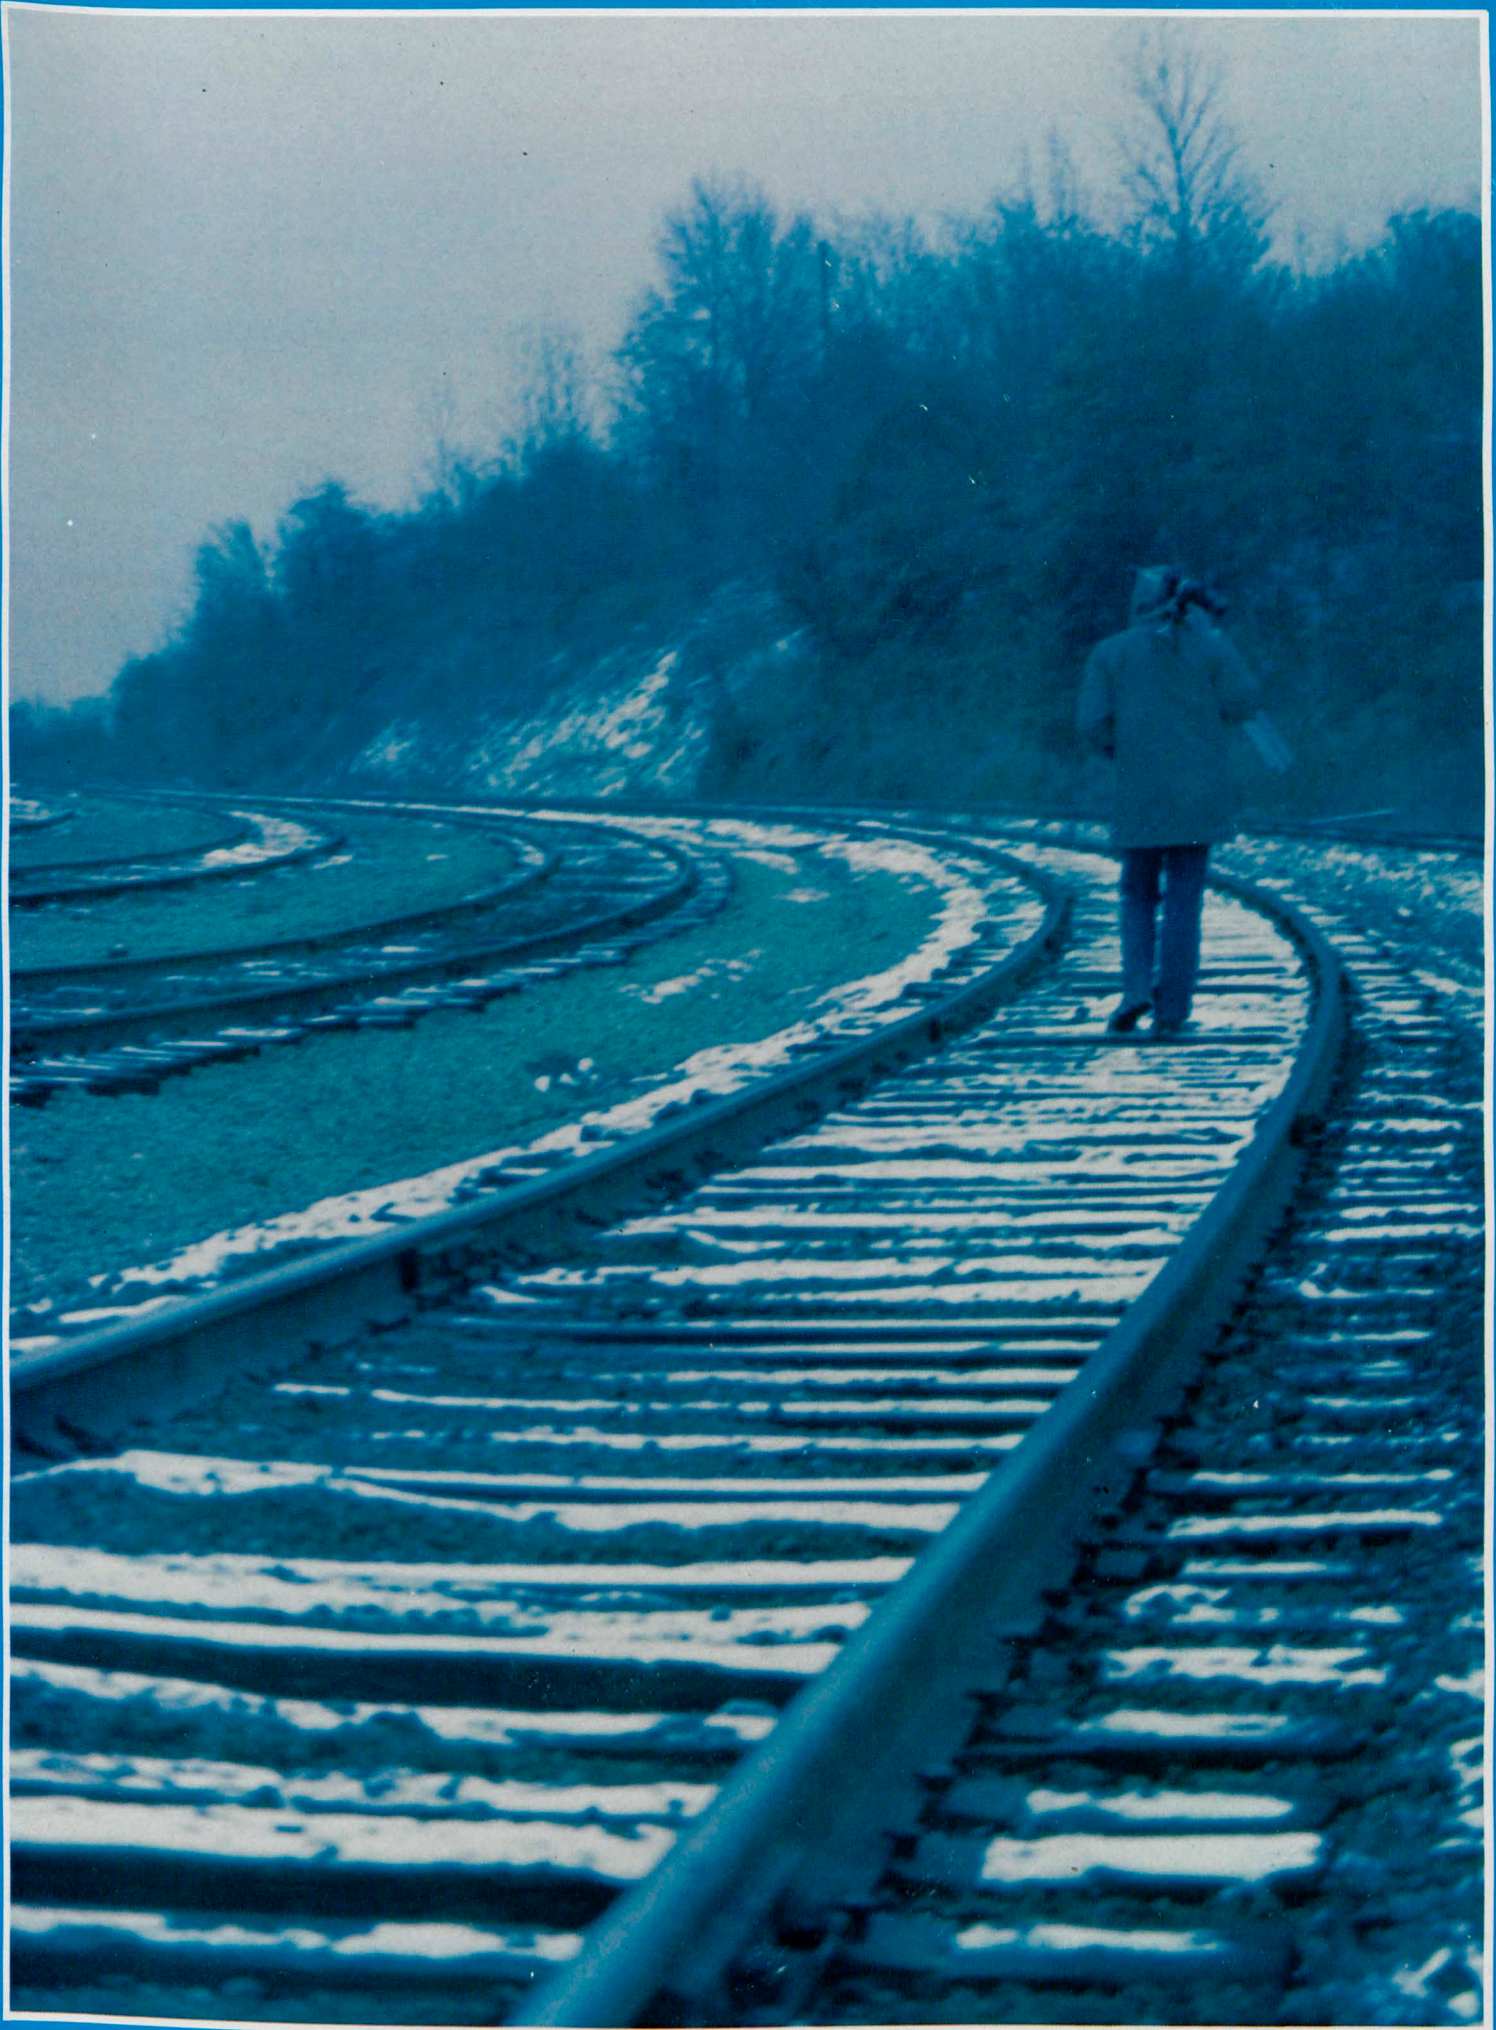

Who did you get to know? Blacks? Whites? Enemies? Professors? Or did you step out of the campus crowd and get to know yourself?

What was it that made the year special for you? The guy you met? The girl you met? The friends you made? The activities you were involved in? Was it your first year? Or was it the fact that if you stuck it out one more year you could receive sheep-skin proof of the four years of headaches you spent trying to graduate?

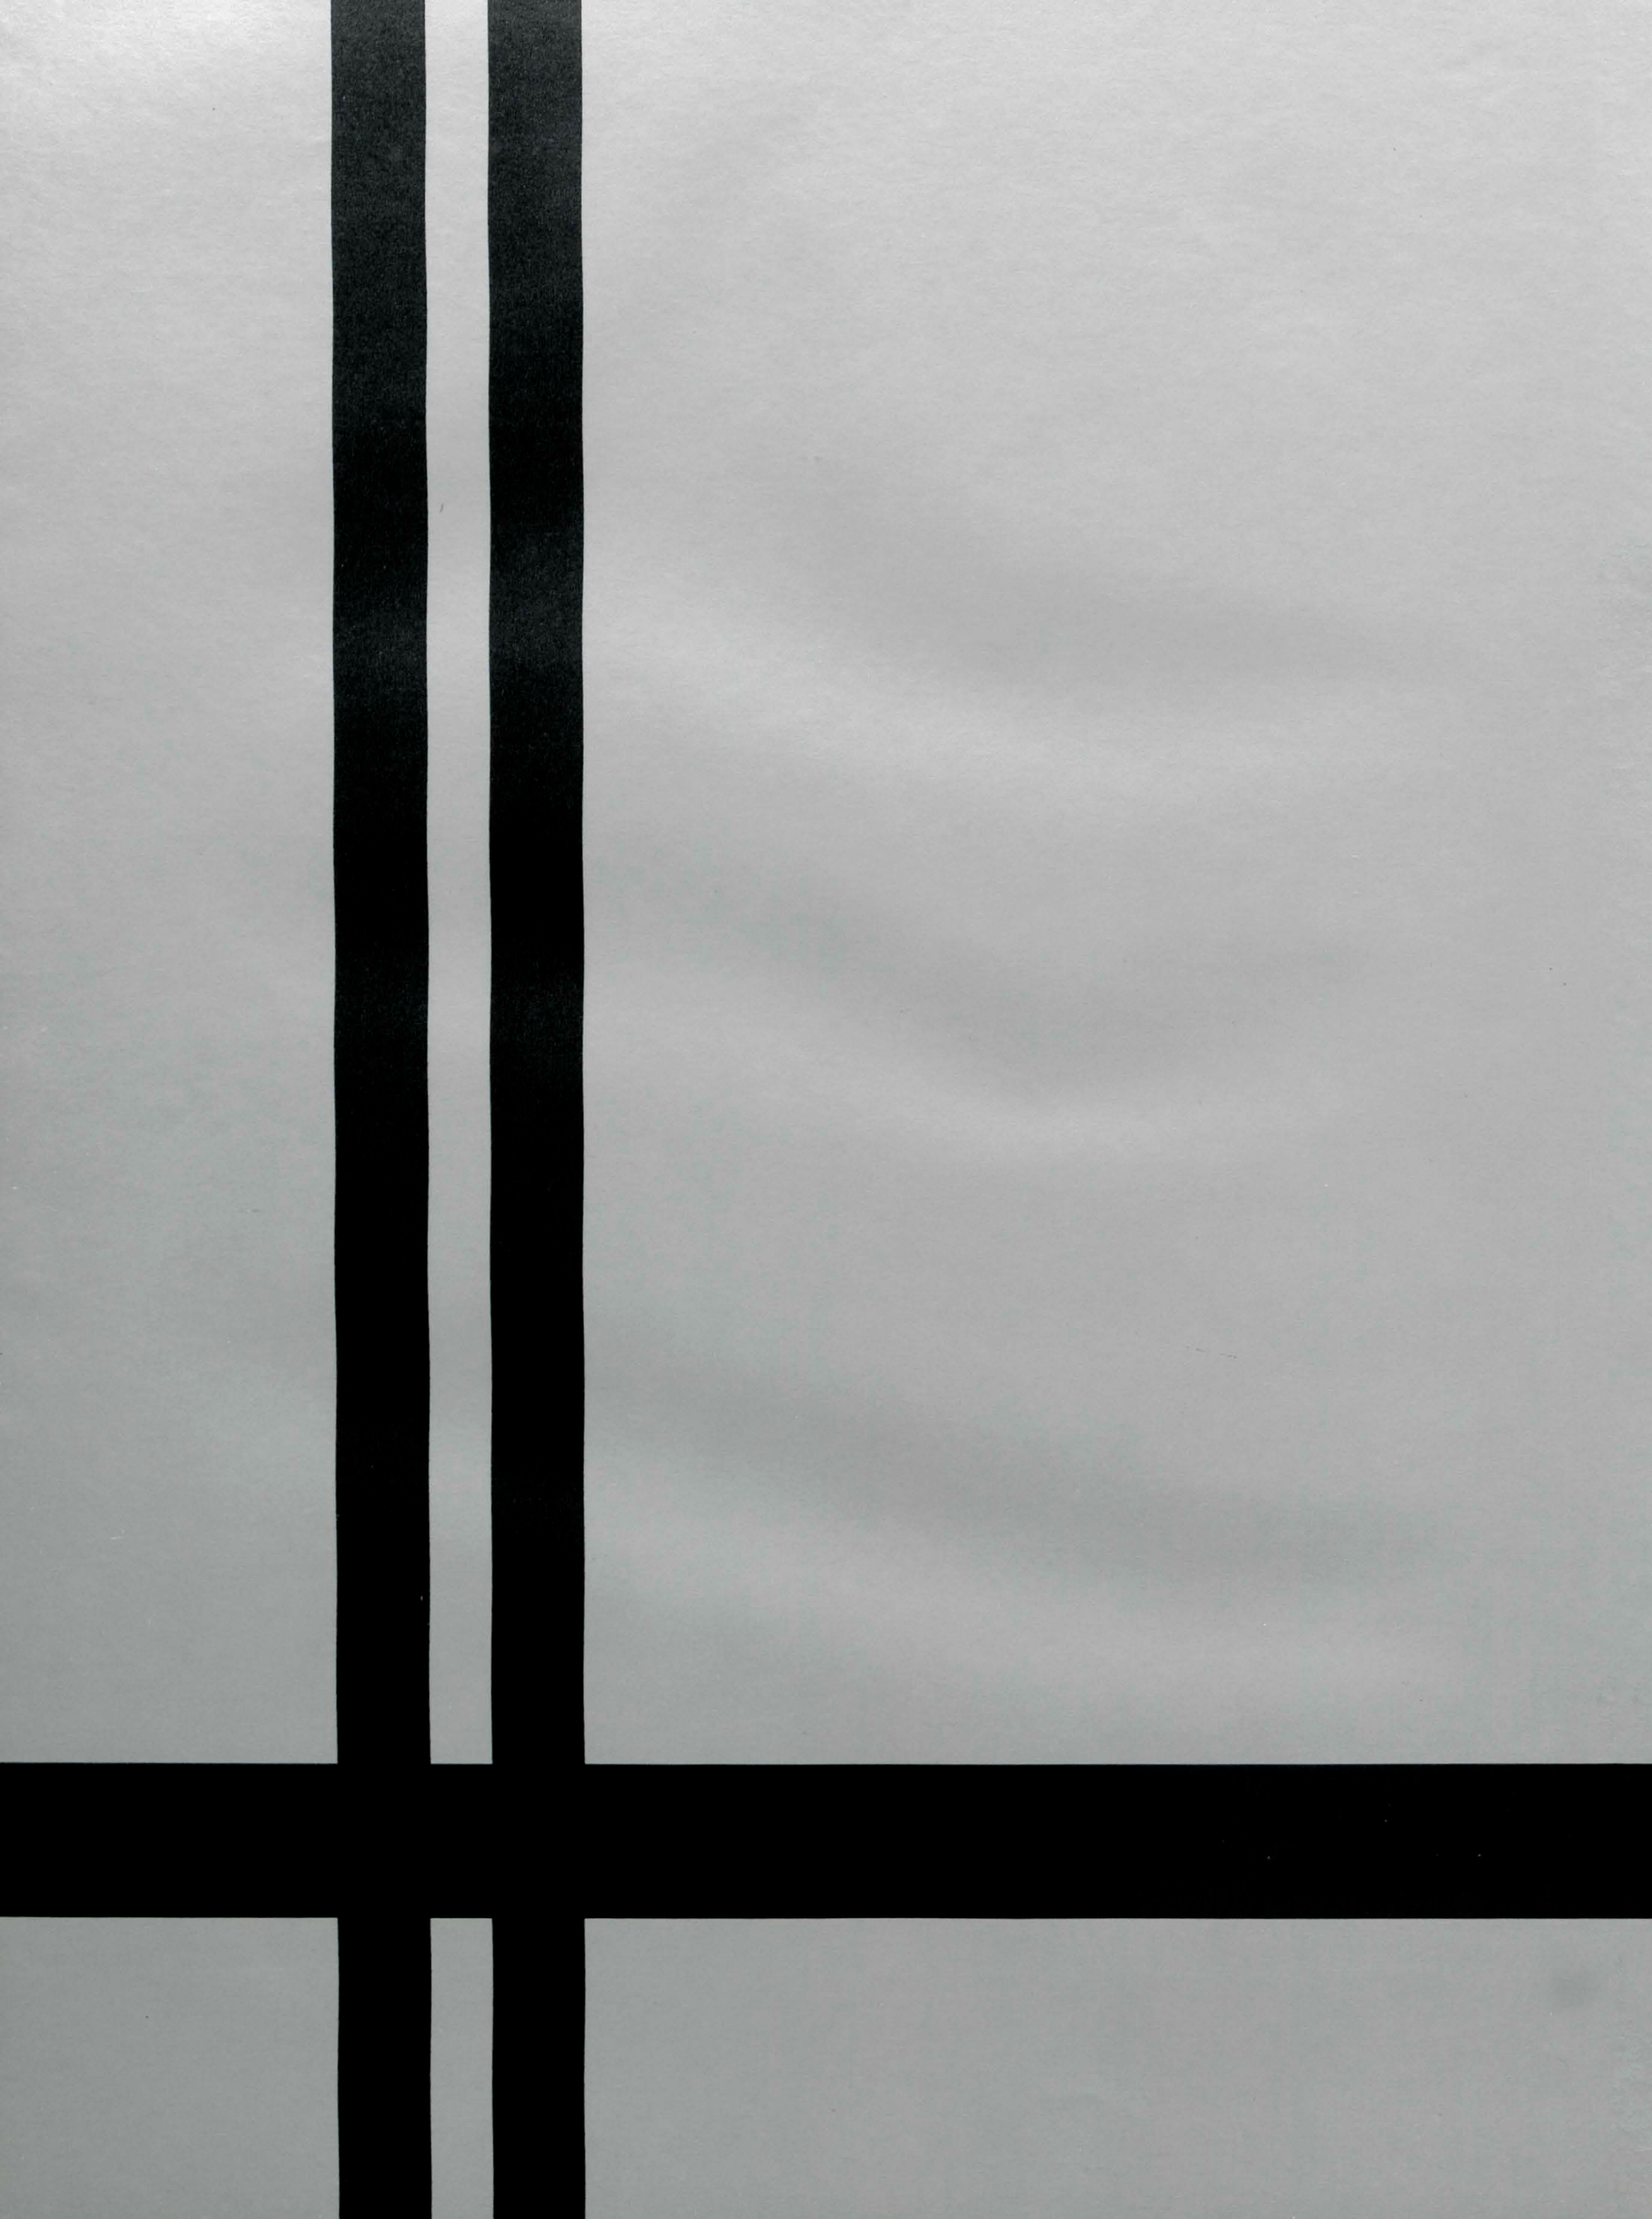

What was your contribution to the U of A? Were you involved with athletics? Student government? Organizations? Publications? Arkansas Union? Or were you involved with the apathetic majority?

How did you spend your spare time? Drink beer at the D-Lux? Cruise the town? Float the Buffalo? Attend Church? Explore Fayetteville? Work? Study? Or was all your time spare time?

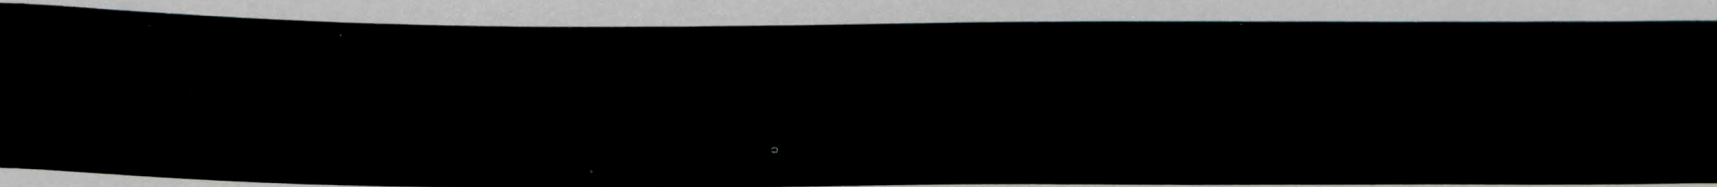

When you gather up your memories of the whole year, possibly you will realize that 1976-1977 was a pretty good year on the Hill after all. You learned a few things (not exclusively academic), you made some friends and you had some really good times . . . wasn't that a fairly profitable investment?

C. Cunningham

STUDENT LIFE

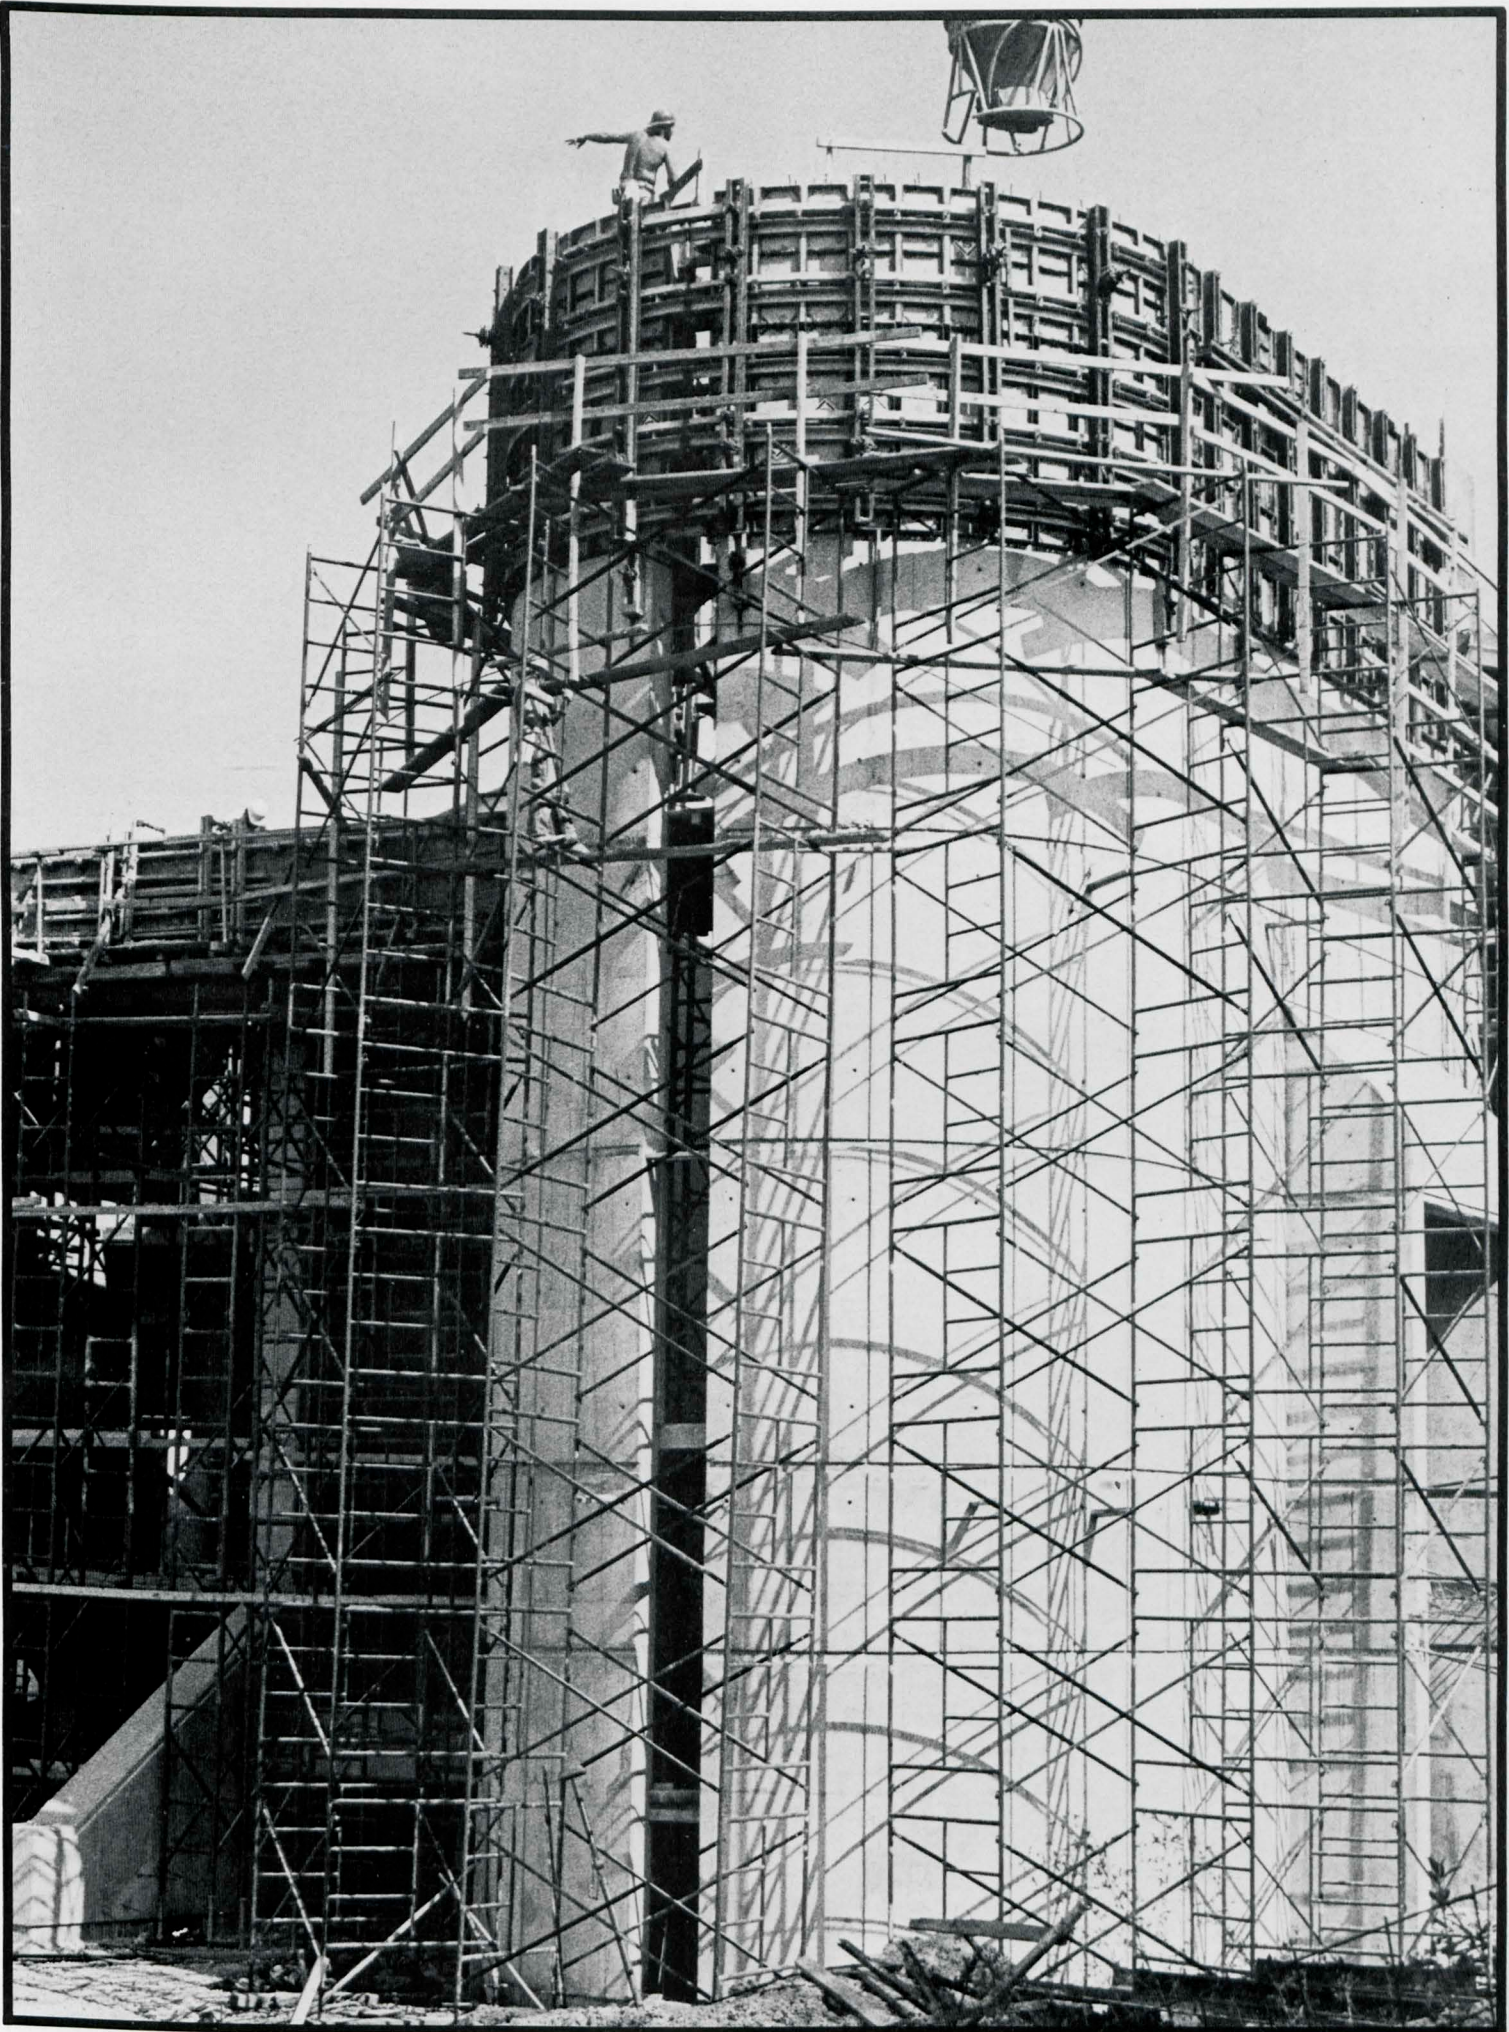

Each year construction plays the all-important role of developing the University of Arkansas campus, and 1977 is no exception.

Students are confronted every day with signs marked "Detour" and "Danger — Hard Hat Area." Getting to class is probably the hardest thing about school. Students have even been known to return to their rooms and plot a path to their classes.

Students, remarking how hard it is to get to some classes, realize construction is here to stay, at least for a while. According to Minor G. Wallace, Director of Facilities Planning and Construction, there are six major project areas. These include the Fine Arts Addition; renovation of Memorial Hall; Botany Greenhouse; Business Administration Building; Plant Science Building, phase I and Barnhill Fieldhouse, phase I.

Housing

The Future Problem?

Despite the housing scare experienced by UA administrators before the opening of school, students were able to find a place to stay, either in the dorms or in their cars for a few days.

According to Jim Gibson, UA housing director, the University did not have to turn anyone away. As for apartment hunting, the task was more difficult as all of Fayetteville's apartments were filled to capacity two weeks before the start of school as the UA enrollment reached a record high.

Minor housing problems arose, causing a few students to be temporarily located in the study rooms of Reid until regular dorm rooms were available. At no time were any dorm rooms occupied past the capacity for which they were built.

"If enrollment goes up as figures have indicated, in the next few years, we won't have the space for more students," explained Gibson. "However, if tuition costs rise we probably won't have to worry about lack of space."

Junk Food

The College Diet

Junk food — everybody knows what junk food is. It is the basic college diet consisting of food that has been grilled or dipped in grease, packaged and served at supersonic speeds over a formica counter top.

College students practically live off junk food. We all are aware of the low nutritional value of junk food, and few of us will abandon it from our diets.

CONSUMER REPORTS magazine recently tested some of the most common fast food restaurants to see just how nutritional they are. Here are the results:

McDonalds — Two all beef patties special sauce lettuce cheese pickles onions on a sesame seed bun, french fries and a shake are the order of the day. This tasty meal contains 1,100 calories and is low in vitamin A and other essential nutrients.

Pizza Hut — A 10 inch "Supreme" pizza with sauce, cheese, sausage, mushrooms, pepperoni, onions, and green pepper, washed down with an ice cold cola totals to 1,200 sumptuous calories. This is the best food buy for the money, and two people can fill their protein needs with one pizza. But, it lacks vitamin C and contains too much salt for those on salt-free diets.

Burger King — The typical "Have it your way" meal of a Whopper, fries, and a shake has more protein than the average burger meal and contains 1,200 calories.

Kentucky Fried Chicken — The colonel's "real goodness" meal consists of three pieces of chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, and two buttered rolls. This meal has more protein than the burgers but just happens to have 1,400 "finger-lickin good" calories.

The fact remains that junk food is very un-nutritious. As long as we can "have it our way" at Burger King and as long as McDonald's keeps "doing it all for us," we'll just remain Collegiate Junk Food Junkies.

Soap Operas

A Search for Another World

Soap Operas — mass confusion for the person who has never watched them and just a quick review for the person who has missed out on them since the start of school. You see, it takes things longer to happen in the soap opera world than in real life.

Robin Brown, a sophomore said, "We should feel fortunate because our lives aren't like the soap operas. Something tragic is always happening — an illegitimate child, a rape, a death or a love affair." It tends to make your own life a little dull, doesn't it?

To some students, these daytime dramas are a big part of their lives. They cannot bear to miss them. Some students even go so far as to schedule their classes around their favorite soap operas. Few instructors teaching two o'clock classes realize they are in competition with "ANOTHER WORLD."

Just what are all the daytime serials we have to choose from? The chain of catastrophes begin in the morning with RYAN'S HOPE and end with SOMERSET in the late afternoon with the following thrown in between: LOVE OF LIFE, THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS, SEARCH FOR TOMORROW, ALL MY CHILDREN, DAYS OF OUR LIVES, AS THE WORLD TURNS, THE DOCTORS, THE GUIDING LIGHT, ONE LIFE TO LIVE, ANOTHER WORLD, GENERAL HOSPITAL and THE EDGE OF NIGHT.

From talking to students, the campus consensus seems to rate RYAN'S HOPE, THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS and ALL MY CHILDREN as the three biggies among daytime soap operas. And now for a quick rundown:

RYAN'S HOPE: The setting is in the basic small town. It makes an easy outlet for scandal. The characters include: The Ryan family, Frank Ryan and his wife, Delia, and their son, John; Pat Ryan, Frank's brother and Mary Fenille, Frank's sister and her husband, Jack; Roger, Jill and Faith Coleridge; Dr. Synica Bolack and his nephew, Bucky. So the story goes: Frank, a political candidate, and his wife, Delia, are getting a divorce. Frank is involved with Jill Coleridge, a lawyer, who is pregnant by Synica. Synica is in love with Jill. Delia was once involved in an affair with Roger, Jill's brother. Roger is trying to rekindle the flame. Bucky and Faith were once in love. The problem is Frank and Delia. Who should get custody of little John after their divorce.

Now for ALL MY CHILDREN: Three families are involved in this penetrating drama — the Martins, the Tylers and the Canes. The Martin family consists of Dr. Martin, who married Ruth Brent. They have a daughter, Tara, and a son, Jeff. Dr. Martin has a brother, Paul. Ruth Brent was once married to Nick, and they have a son, Phil. Nick married Anne Tyler, they got a divorce and he married Kitty Shea. Again Nick got a divorce. He is still in love with Anne. The Cane family consists of Mona Cane, a widow who is seeing Dr. Tyler whom she works for, and her daughter Erica. Erica was married to Jeff, Dr. Martin's son and then to Phil. Phil, Tara, Chuck, Jeff and Erica were all high school buddies. Phil and Tara were secretly married before Phil left for Vietnam. Phil was believed to be dead, so Tara married Chuck. Now that Phil is alive, Tara cannot decide whether she should divorce Chuck and marry Phil, or spare Chuck's feelings and hide her love for Phil. Also, Dr. and Mrs. Martin have separated because she has been seeing a younger man. The latest on Nick is he has been seeing Erica, which is strange because they never got along very well before.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: There has always been a rivalry between the four Brook sisters: Leslie, Laurie, Chris and Peggy. Chris went through a terrible time after she was raped. She fully recovered and is married to Snapper. Leslie, a concert pianist, is married to Brad, who has gone blind but does not want to tell Leslie because he is afraid it will hinder her career. Before Brad and Leslie were married, Leslie thought Brad loved Laurie. Laurie, who was jealous of Leslie, told Leslie that Brad was in love with her. This caused Leslie to have a nervous breakdown. Laurie is the hateful sister and is always causing trouble. She posed nude in a magazine to promote the book she wrote about herself and Leslie. Laurie is in love with Lance Printess, who does not really love Laurie at all but loves Leslie. Peggy is the baby of the family. She had an affair with one of her instructors, Jack. Another family involved is the Foster family. Mrs. Elizabeth Foster has two sons, Greg and Snapper, and a daughter, Jill. Their father has returned after he left them several years ago. Greg is a lawyer and Chris, Snapper's wife, works for him. Snapper is a doctor. Jill worked for Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Chancellor, a very wealthy family. Jill and Phillip had an affair. He got a quick divorce and married Jill, but was killed in a car accident. Jill, who was pregnant with Phillip's child, tried to get the Chancellor estate, but the court ruled that Phillip's divorce and marriage to Jill were not legal. Mrs. Chancellor has a son, Brock, from a previous marriage. Jill and Brock were married for a short time.

Oh, the excitement of the daytime serials! AS THE WORLD TURNS in THE EDGE OF NIGHT, THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS SEARCH FOR TOMORROW by THE GUIDING LIGHT with ONE LIFE TO LIVE for ANOTHER WORLD.

The Senior Panic

"What am I going to do when I graduate?"

"After careful consideration of your application, we regret that we are unable to offer you any encouragement regarding employment." Many UA seniors were greeted with cheerful notes of this manner from prospective employers in their search for "the job" after graduation. On the other hand, some were more fortunate as they breezed through job interviews and spent their final semester deciding which job offer to accept.

Finding success and achieving a career may sound easy when a student enters college as a freshman. The real slap in the face comes during the senior year as the college senior realizes the books, papers and exams were a tea party as compared to the reality of finding a job after graduation. The panic button is pressed and the crucial job hunt begins. There is the race to the Placement Office signing up for interviews with every company from IT&T to McDonalds. The resumes are carefully compiled, blowing up every activity and bit of job experience in order to pull the ultimate snow job on the employer. Typing skills get a real workout as countless letters of application are prepared and mailed to prospective employers. And if the job hunter is really on the ball, he'll hit those all important contacts: "Mr. Smith, remember me? How are things at the bank?"

After the initial moves of applying and interviewing for jobs are accomplished, the waiting period arrives. Sometimes the responses are encouraging and you pat yourself on the back for having studied so diligently during the past four years. But when the rejection letters and "come back in ten years" letters start rolling in, you wonder, "Why in the hell did I go to college for four years?"

For those jobless individuals and sad victims of rejection letters — cheer up! Every cloud has a silver lining. Just look at all the options of post graduation!

Option 1 — Go back to school, change your major or get another degree.

Option 2 — If you're a girl, get married (but by all means make sure he's landed a good job!).

Option 3 — Join the Army.

Option 4 — Enter a convent.

Option 5 — Live with Mom and Dad the rest of your life.

Option 6 — Sell Fuller Brushes.

Option 7 — Retreat to Alaska and work on the pipeline.

Option 8 — Become a recluse and write a future best seller — Why I Spent $12,000 and Four Years of My Life to Obtain a College Degree to Write a Book on Why I Did It.

Homecoming 76

Homecoming '76, as in previous years, was uneventful. A tradition started in the early 1920's by Crip Hall, Homecoming has lost all of the color and excitement of parades, pep rallies, and parties associated with the word homecoming.

This year there were no parades; the pep rally was cancelled due to rain. A few floats did appear on campus on Saturday, but only after living groups were sure that the rain was gone.

Saturday brought the game and cold Razorback football weather. The only way you could tell that it was homecoming was by a few mums here and there and the scoreboard flashing happy homecoming.

The game was not typical. Fans saw Rice play the first half and Arkansas the second. The only good thing about the game was that the Razorbacks scored more points during "their" half, beating the Owls 41-16.

Halftime brought another sign of homecoming as antique cars brought in the 1976 Queen, Diane Johnson of Springdale, and her court. The crowd was entertained by a special homecoming show by the Razorback Band and the UA Pom-Pon Squad. One interesting thing that occurred on the field that many fans may not have noticed was that two UA Pom-Pon girls broke all records for dressing as they performed with the squad and then reappeared minutes later being introduced as members of the court.

After the game, fans piled out of the stadium with wilted mums and a few balloons. Wind-torn floats were the only signs that homecoming had even happened. Maybe everybody was waiting on Texas Week.

Students Caught Without Anti-Freeze

R. Guynn

A large white circle is centered on a black background. Inside the circle, the text "What Happened?" is written in a serif font.

What Happened?

Editors note: For the first time since many of us have been here, something a little bit out of the ordinary happened. Within a weeks period three UA students attempted suicide. Two succeeded, one by means of a self-inflicted gunshot, the other from the tenth floor of Yocum hall. Both were graduate students and one from a foreign country. These two deaths made many students stop to wonder what was happening. Were the pressures of school really that bad or were they compounded with personal problems?

The following editorial appeared in the Traveler weeks later, perhaps to bring the question of why a little closer to the student body.

A Lesson on Friendship

Two friends committed suicide recently. While aware of each others existence, they were not aware of each others death. The cases were unrelated.

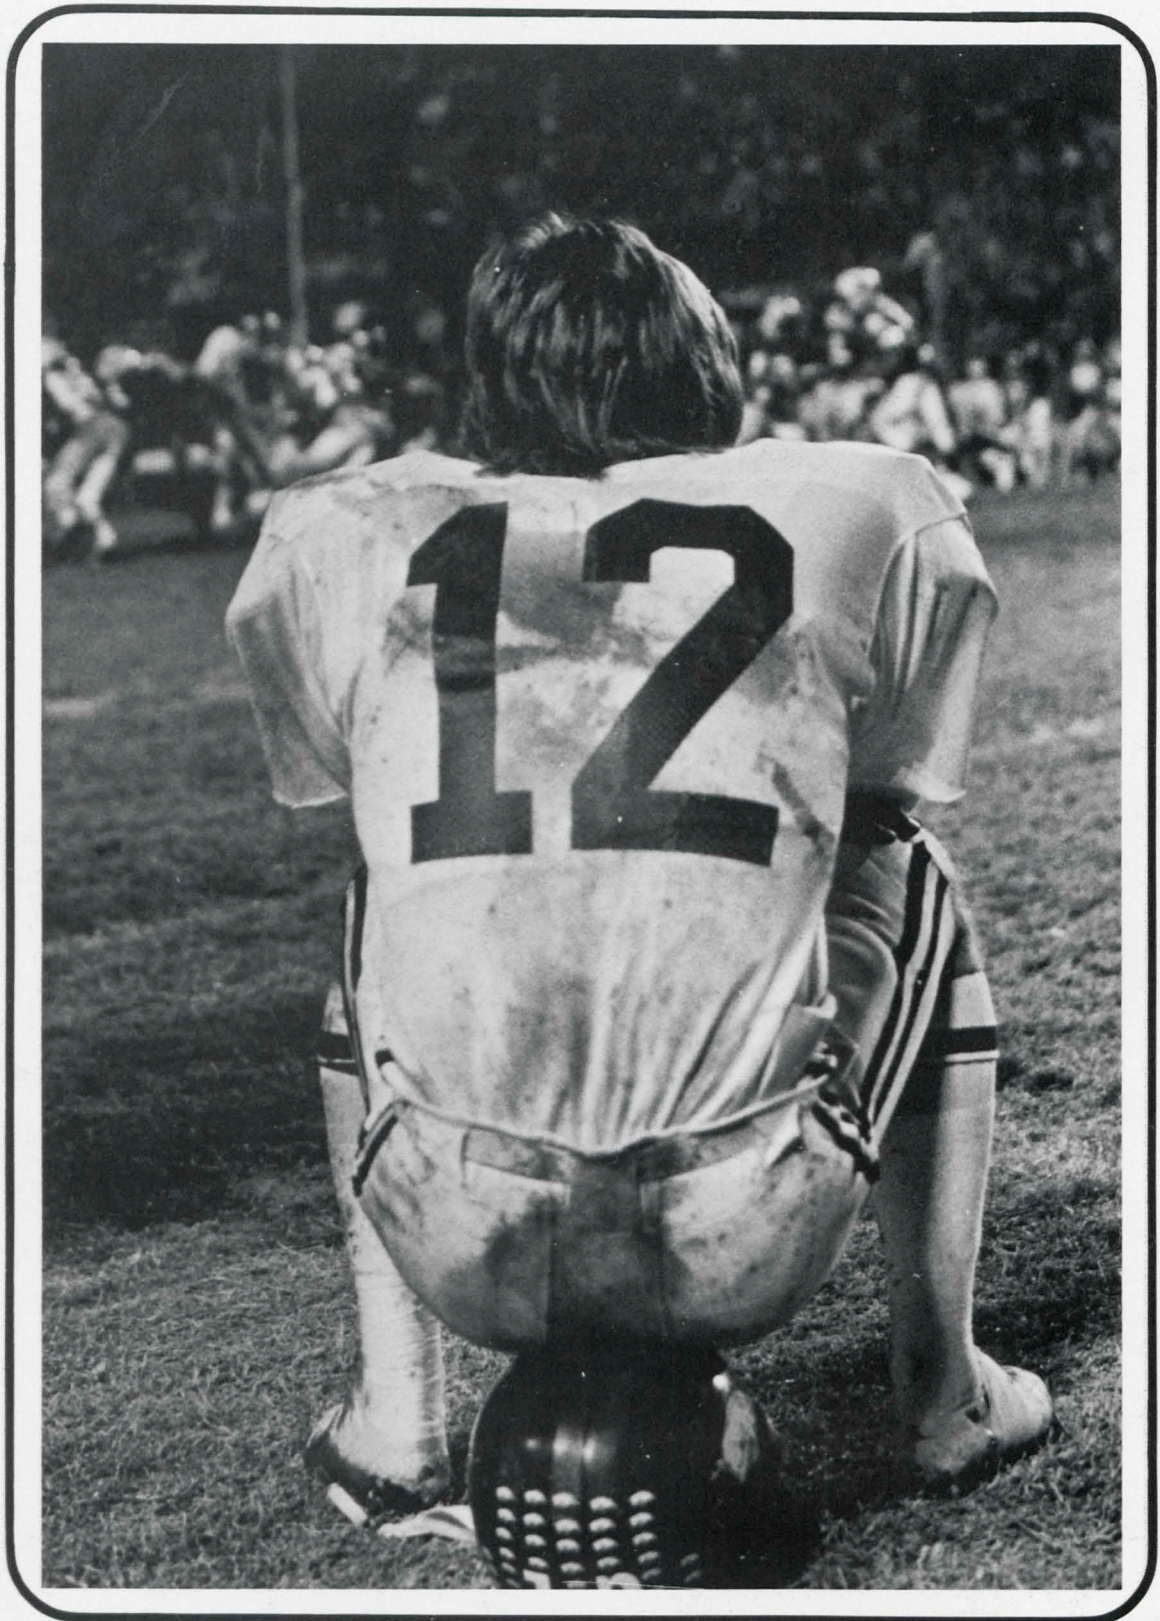

Suicides are strange lessons in friendship. The friends of the deceased suddenly realize their own inadequacy and "guilt." Later they may become angry and confused: Why didn't he let me help him? If only he had given me a second chance . . .

Death, unfortunately, is the final deadline for friendships. Once past, no words can be taken back, no silence broken. The dead have "cheated" their friends out of the last word or "laugh?"

Yet in another sense the survivors do have the last say. With the fatal move, the suicide victim loses his rights and privileges of friendship. The survivors have the opportunity to try again, hopefully learning from past mistakes.

If a memorial is to be made to a person who commits suicide, it should be a living one. Perhaps the best memorial to the lost friend is friendship — a living friendship — with someone in need of a friend.

Student Stereotypes . . .

There's one in every crowd!

C. Cunningham

12,600 students at the University and not one of us is exactly alike. Although everyone has their own individual style, students tend to fall into a certain group or get classified as a stereotype. Often stereotypes carry a bad connotation such as a “cocky black student” or a “snobby sorority chick.” The RAZORBACK feels that the best way to look at stereotypes is to sit back and laugh at them. In the following pages the RAZORBACK displays some typical UA stereotypes that may just fit your particular college lifestyle. Which one are you?

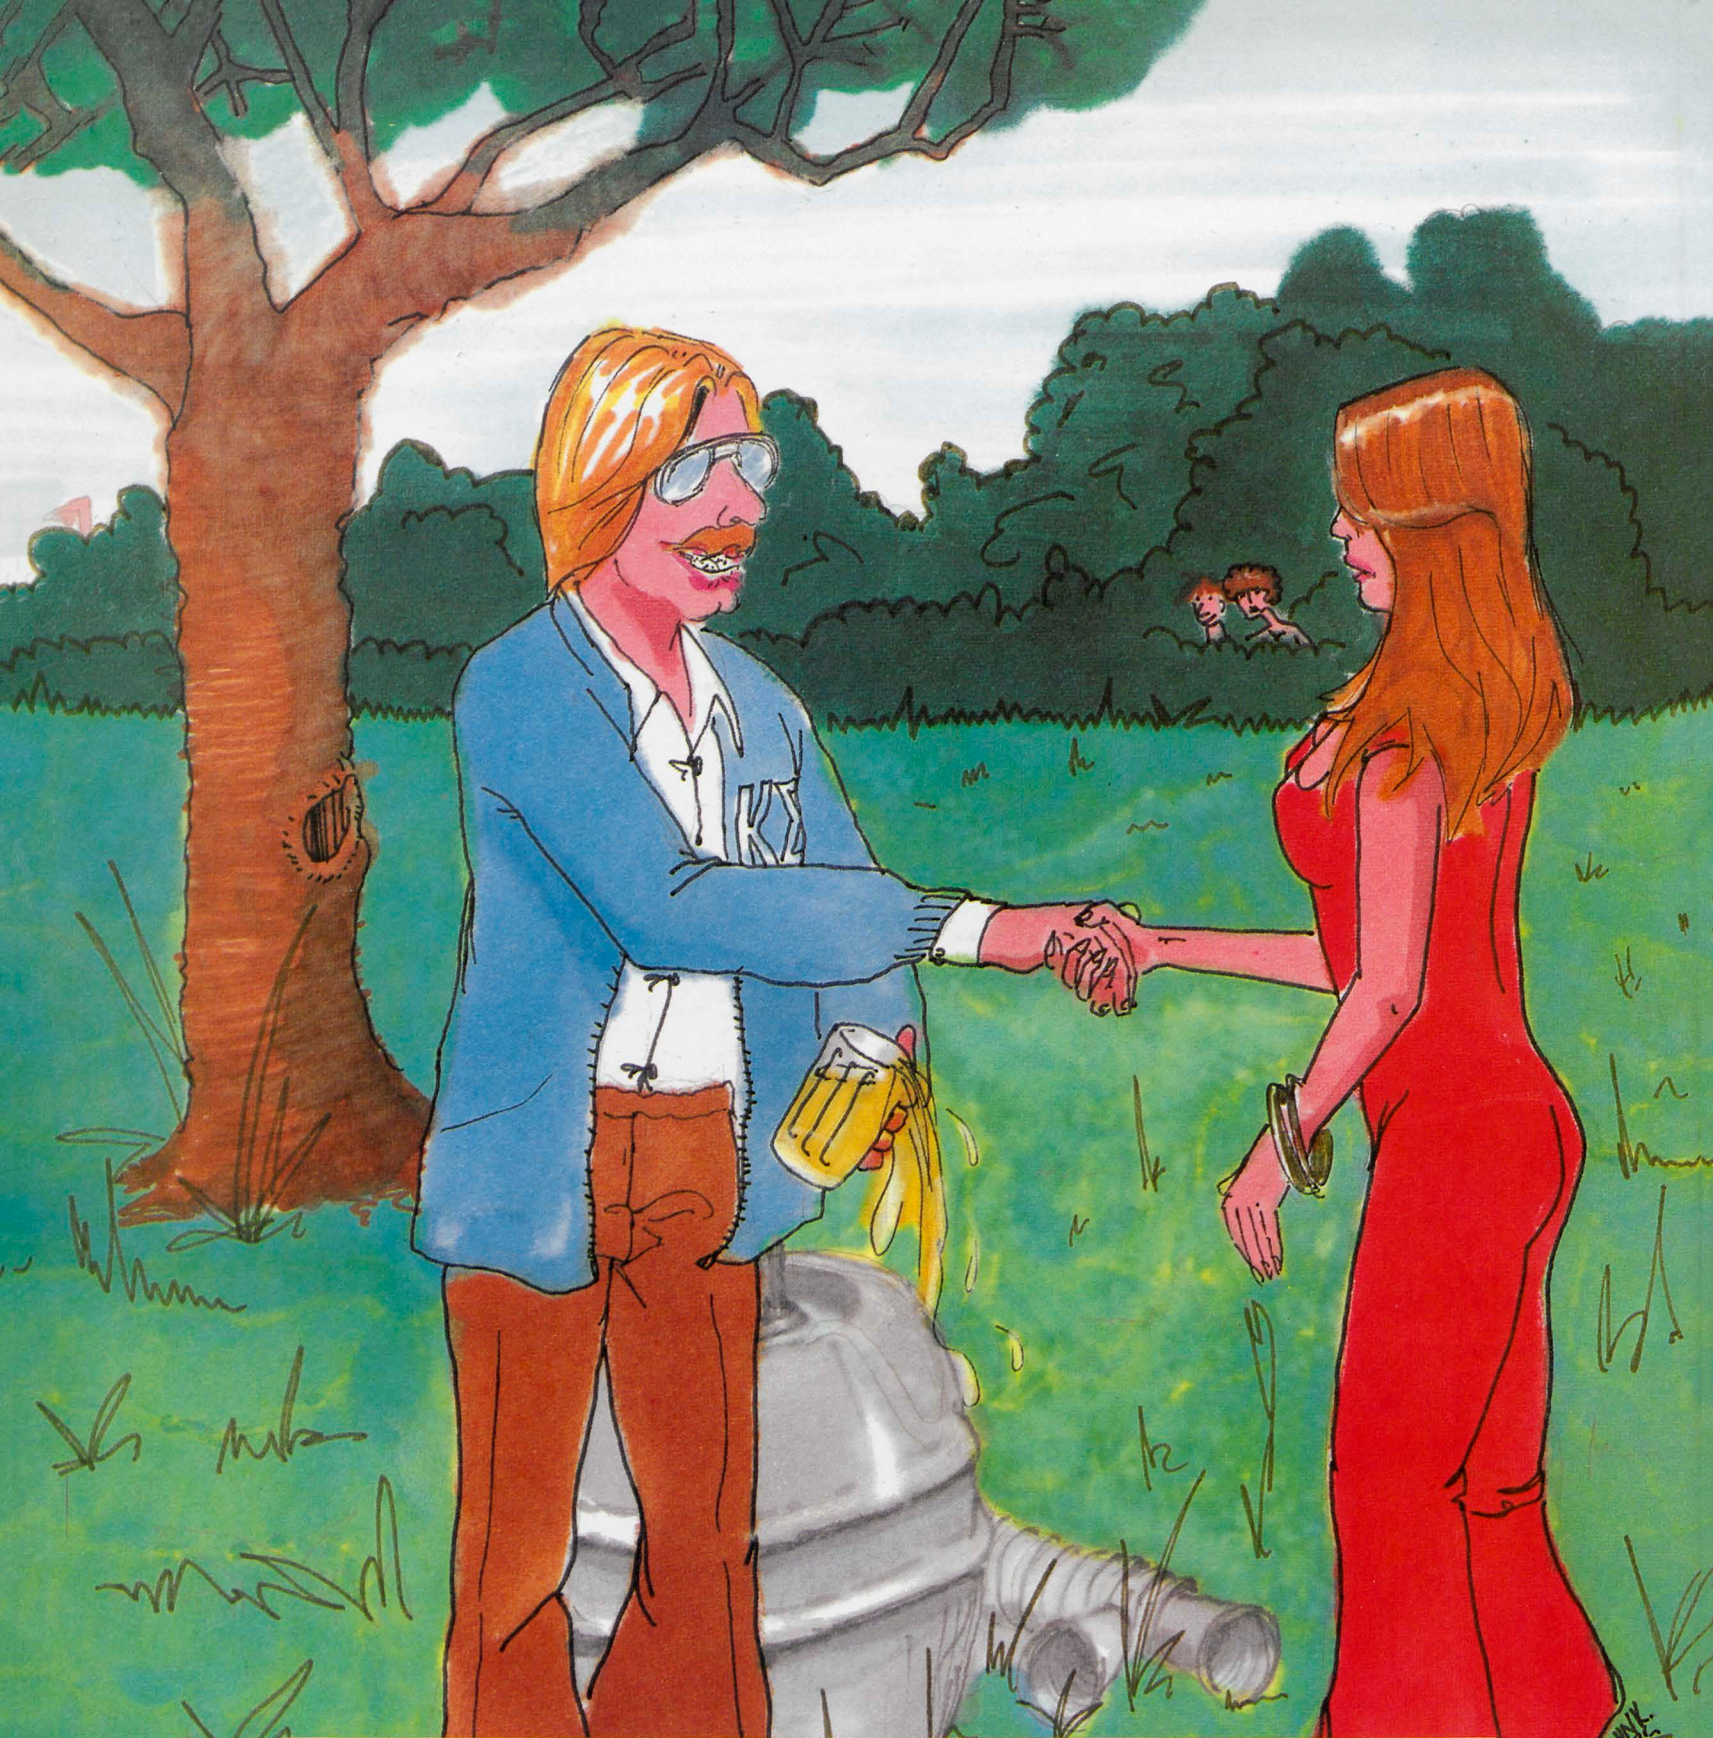

Freddie and Fran Freshman

With a sparkling Walt Whitman High senior ring on one hand and a sack of mom's homemade peanut butter cookies clutched in the other, Freddie and Fran encounter the freshman shock — that wonderful taste of freedom that going away to college brings. Innocent high school ideals are destroyed from that freedom of "I don't have to go to class and I don't have to come in at twelve o'clock." There is the race to the bookstore to buy every Razorback-UA item in sight and proudly display them to the old high school crowd during their weekly hometown visits.

Betsy Blimp

As a freshman away from home, Betsy discovers the thrills of dorm life such as the midnight smorgasbords of popcorn, pretzels, potato chips, chocolate chip cookies, cokes and those ever popular vending machines. Later in the year she becomes more familiar with the town and learns to take advantage of Baskin Robbins' 39 flavors, Mr. Burger's speedy service and Pizza Hut's 521-3011 delivery. The result is Betsy Blimp's chunky round figure. When she realizes she's spending too many weekends watching television and getting tired of wearing her overalls every day, she hurriedly signs up for three p.e. courses and chokes down meals of cottage cheese and carrots.

Frank Frat

Any aspiring young college man with a feather-cut hairstyle can qualify to be a Frank Frat providing he has a strong line of bull shit and an infinite love for beer drinking. Immediately following his pledgeship, the frat man drops down to ten hours, changes his major to business and collects his school year supply of khaki pants and tasseled loafers. Each day he joins his brothers for the campus cruise with beer in hand and scopes out the blossoming young freshman girls.

Patty Panhel

In order to become a Patty Panhel at the UA the freshman girl must survive a grueling week of cookies, punch and smiling faces called rush. As a pledge, she learns to recite the Greek Alphabet three times before a match burns down, goes out with at least one fraternity man a week and masters the sorority stride holding her nose at a 45 degree angle. Upon her initiation she is given the glory of wearing a sparkling symbol of her sorority over her heart and has 75 girls to call her sisters.

Willie Weed

A devout member of The Great Mandala, the campus freak is known most typically as a bearded blur whizzing past UA pedestrians on his ten-speed bicycle. He is often found lurking about Dixon Street and possesses only a backpack, two pair of patched jeans, a flannel shirt, and a $1,000 stereo system. Often an art or English major, Willie Weed is seen floating down the halls with his eyes half open and has a certain “air” about him.

Lillian Loose

A regular customer at Maxine's, Lillian hits the college scene with a different date each night. She may be a greek, dormie, or from off-campus and usually has some background experience from high school such as smoking in the bathrooms or going braless. Her phone number is found on every fraternity house phone list, and she can be easily amused as long as a pint of Seagram's 7 is close at hand. She is unmistakably spotted on campus wearing her two-sizes-too-small Levis, platform sandals and sleazy satin blouse unbuttoned freely to emphasize her feminine neckline.

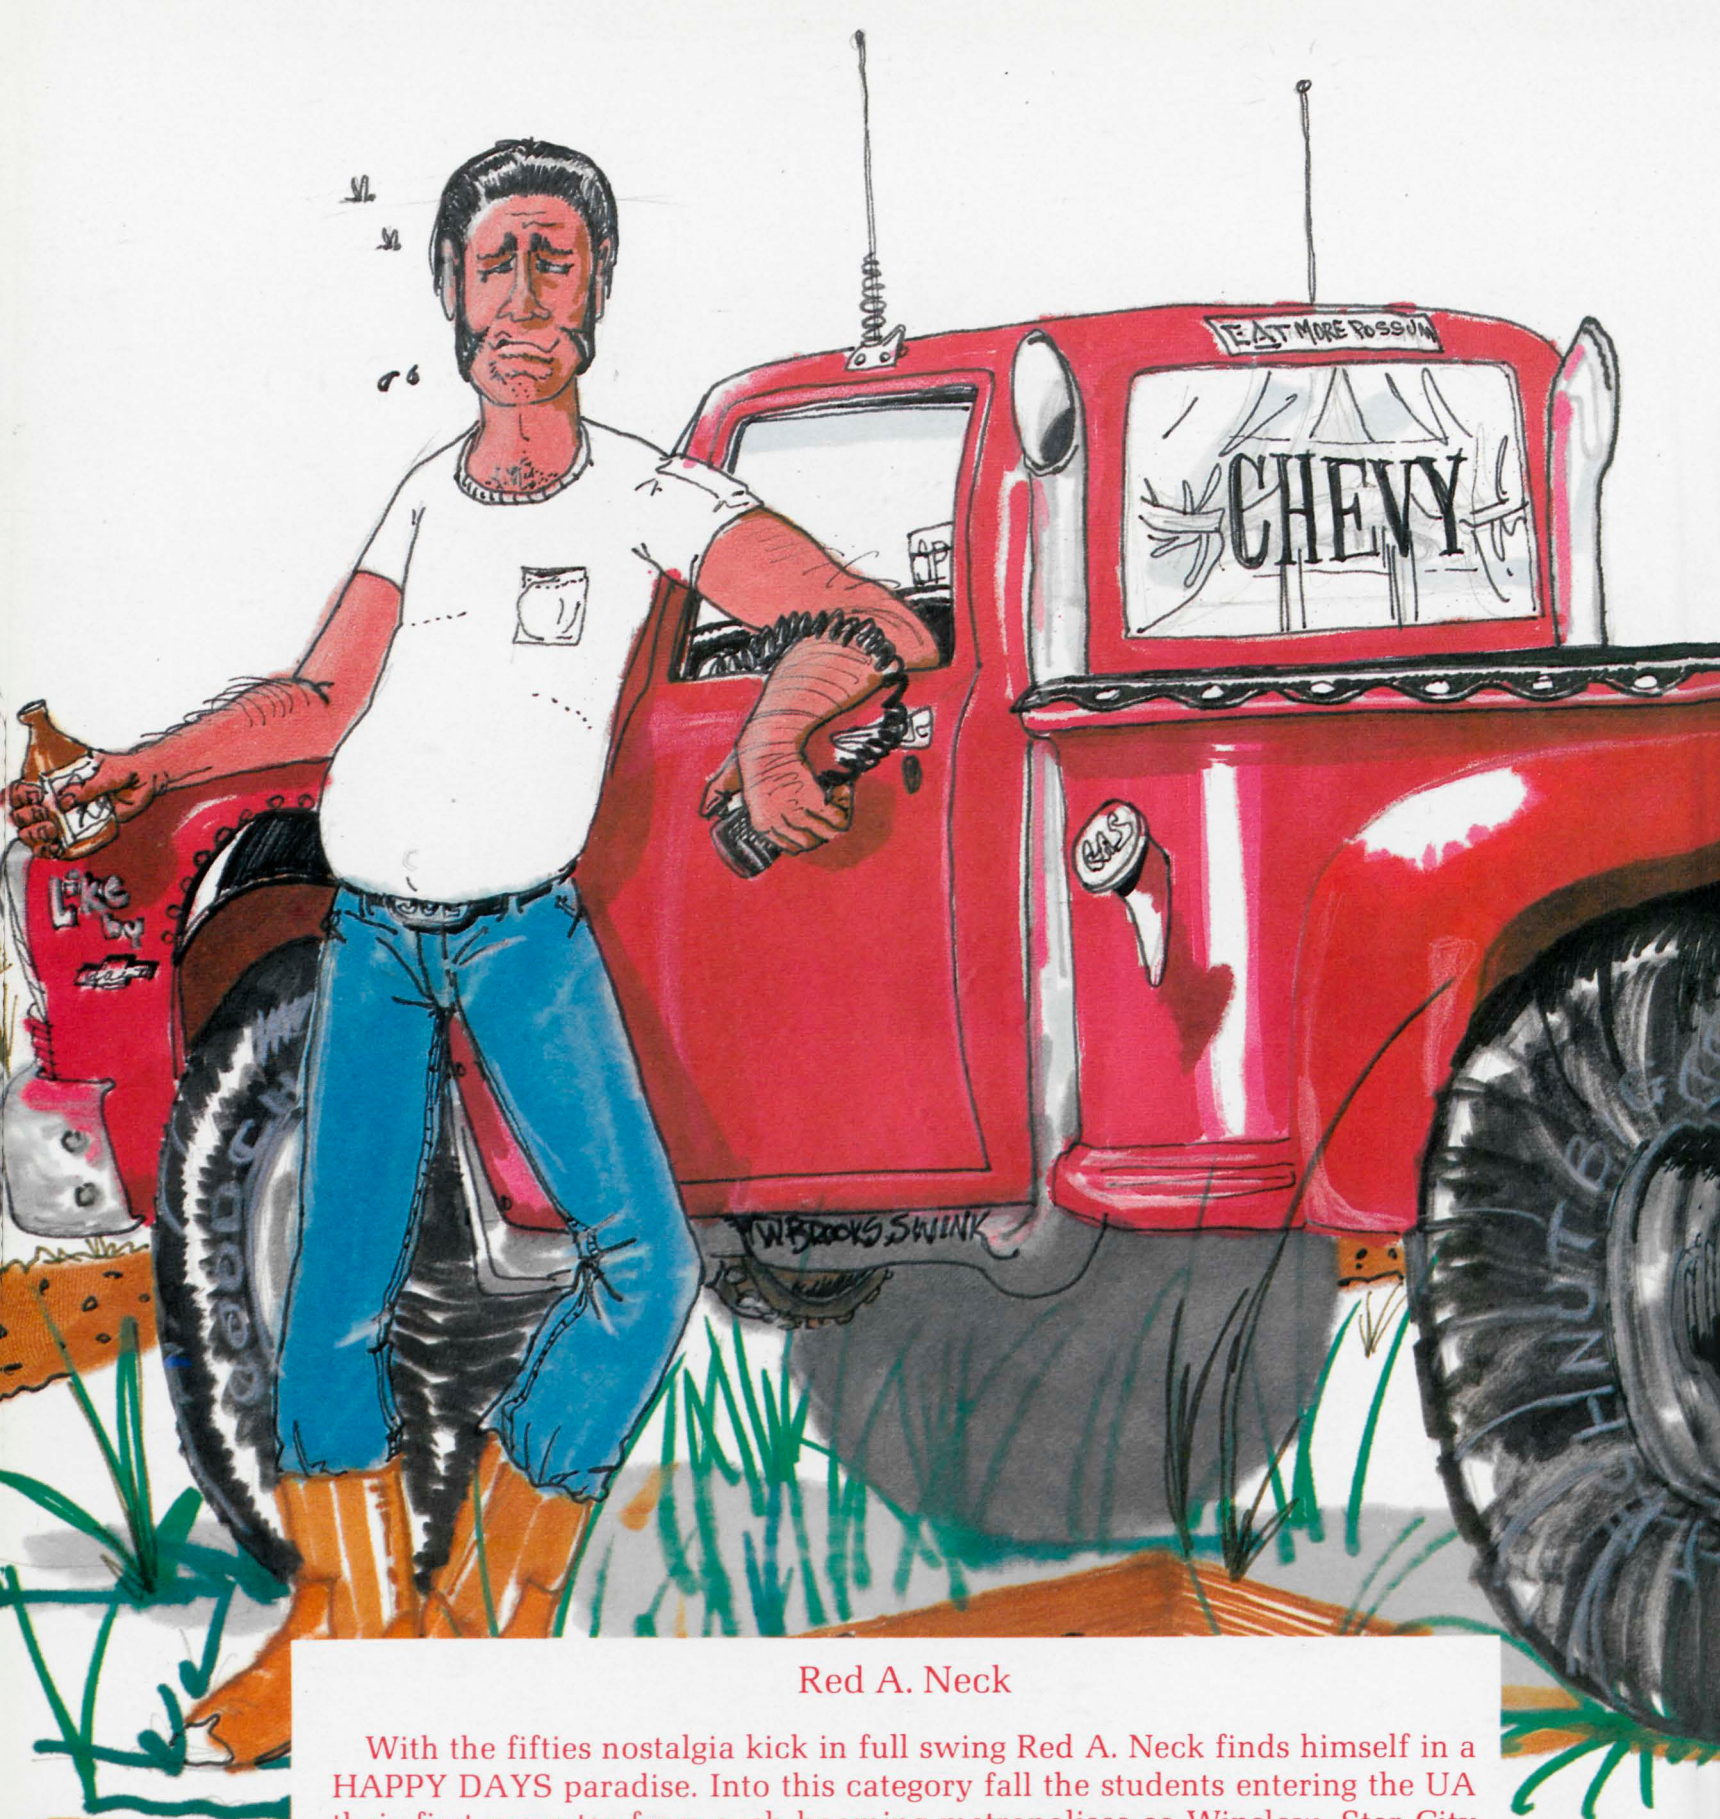

Howard Hog

Many male students dream of living in the Wilson Sharp castle of King Broyles eating steaks weekly and being drooled over by countless curvey co-eds. Little do they realize the high standards demanded of an Arkansas Razorback. To begin with a UA football player must be male. Secondly, he must be able to pass X English and remedial math or weigh at least 235 pounds so that he can amiably persuade the instructor not to flunk him. Finally, and most importantly, he must be strong emotionally in to accept "the agony of defeat and the thrill of victory."

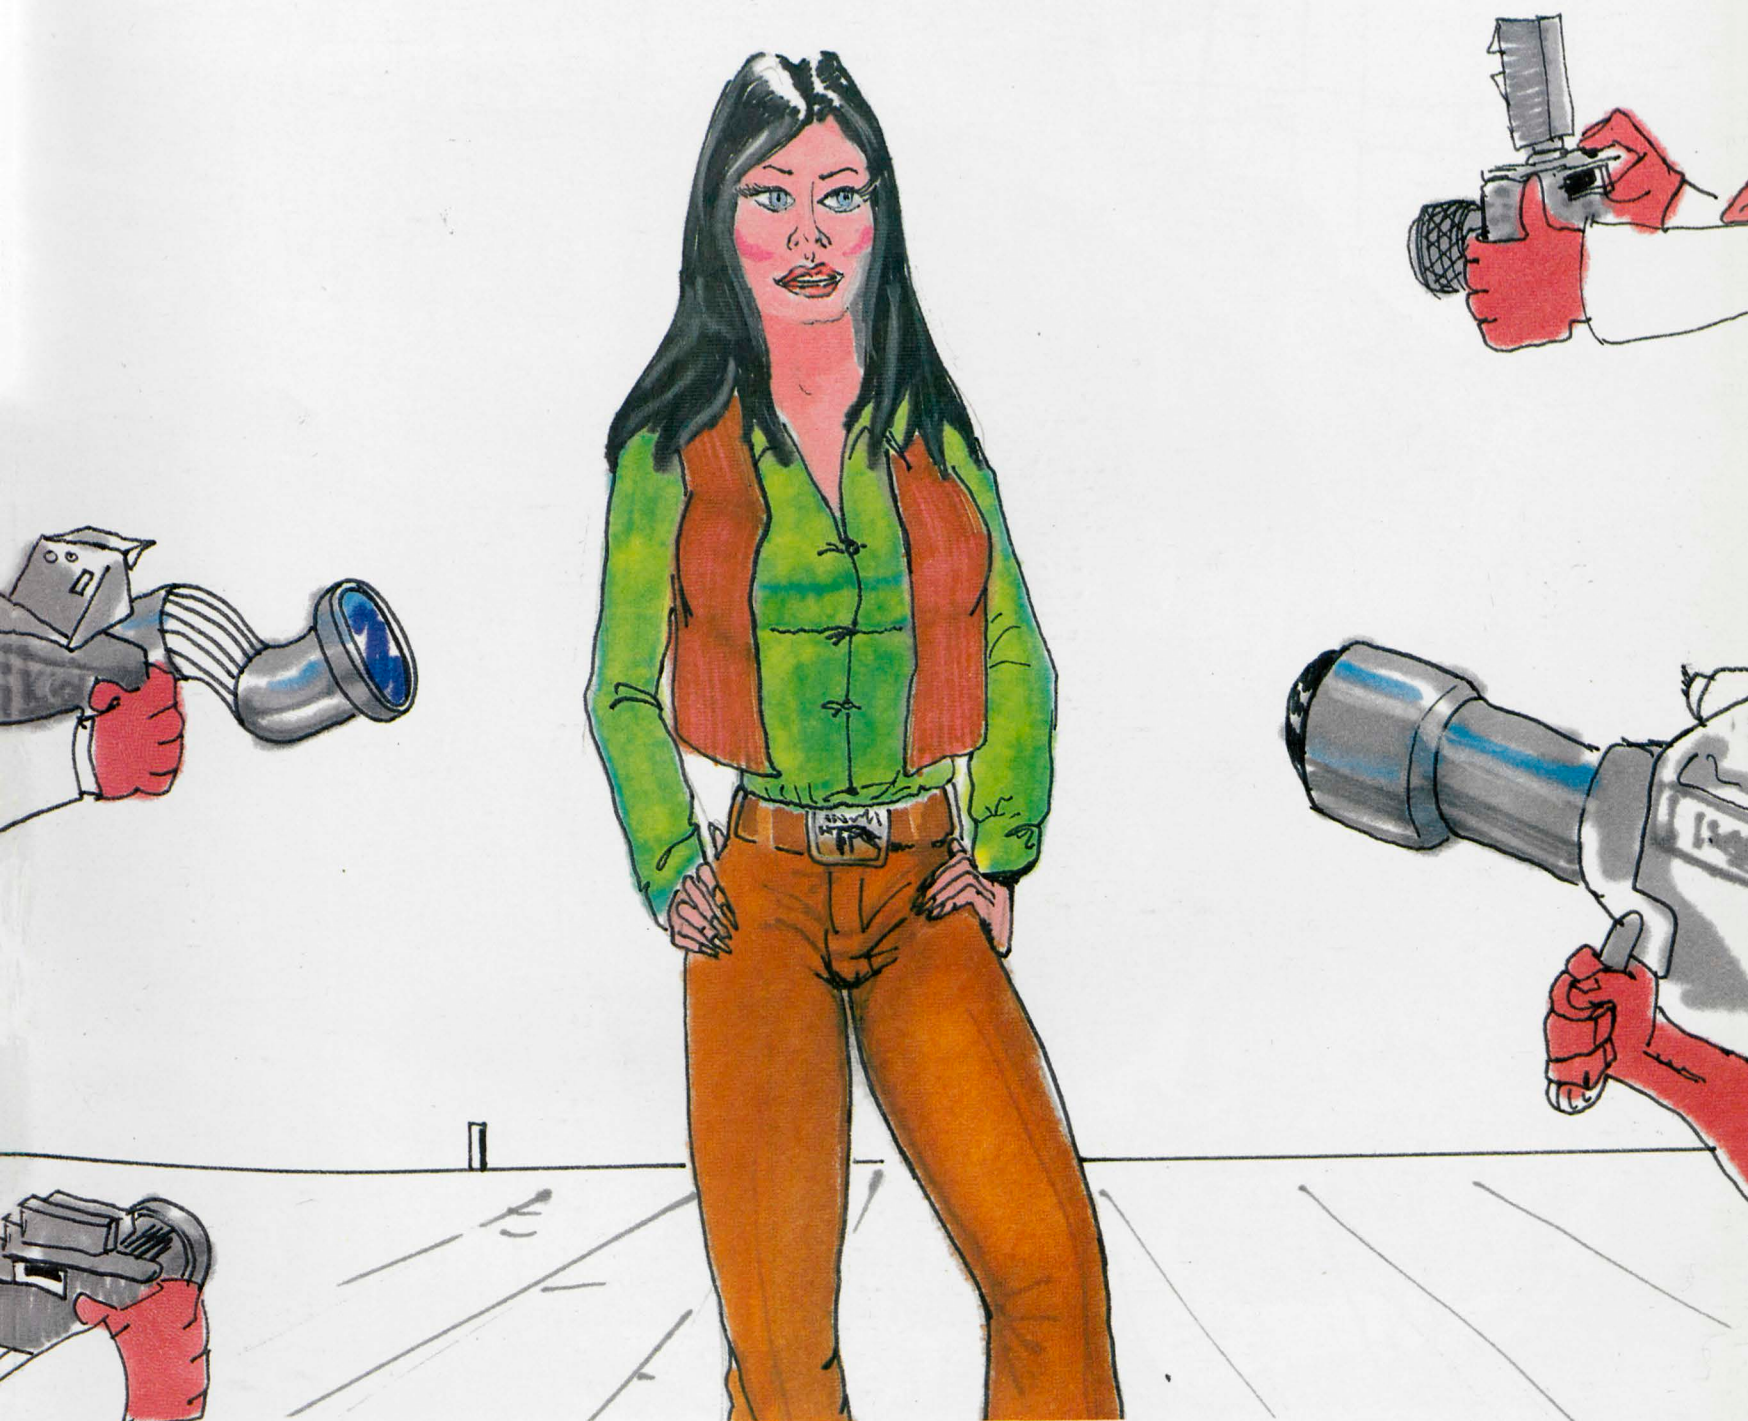

Inez Involved

To be classified as an Inez Involved, a girl must put her schoolwork aside and devote her spare time to campus activities. Minimum requirements call for membership in ABC, Senate, AWS, the RAZORBACK staff, Union committees, Chimes, Cardinal Key, Mortar Board, Angel Flight and Kadettes. She learns to broaden her horizons further by running for president of her living group, serving as editor of the TRAVELER, trying out for the Pom Pon Squad and joining the Tènnis Team. Her ultimate goal is Who's Who and she manages to graduate in no less than five years.

Red A. Neck

With the fifties nostalgia kick in full swing Red A. Neck finds himself in a HAPPY DAYS paradise. Into this category fall the students entering the UA their first semester from such booming metropolises as Winslow, Star City and Redeye, Arkansas. Many of them are found circling the Sonic in jacked-up cars with fur covered dash boards, white t-shirts and socks, hair oil and tooth picks with the dream of becoming "The Fonz" of Fayetteville.

Belinda Beauty

Smiling her way to stardom, Belinda Beauty over-exercises her supply of makeup while seeking every beauty title on campus. Not satisfied with the single title of RAZORBACK Beauty, she continues her quest for glory by being named Homecoming Maid, Miss U of A, Daisy Mae, Derby Darling, Engine Week Queen, Agri Queen, Track Queen and Sorority Pledge Queen. Due to her fortunate female endowments and, of course, personality, Belinda has an offer from every fraternity on campus to become a Little Sister of their group but has too much trouble deciding which one to accept. Although, in order to please them all she graciously accepts the title of Interfraternity Council Sweetheart.

Calvin B. Coolidge

Spending his first few days searching out the brothers and sisters in the dorms, Calvin quickly learns the ropes of the UA and wonders why he didn't go to UAPB. Membership in BAD, a slight lean in his walk, a natural sense of rhythm and knowing the latest dance is a must. A love for soul food, T. J. Swann and Bacardi Rum and a chip on his shoulder help make his stay at the UA a little bit longer. Usually majoring in political science or sociology, Calvin drops out a semester or two, graduates with a 2.5 or lower and sometimes makes it big.

Carol Crusader

Joining UBC, BSU and New Creations is an absolute must in order for the student to be classified a Carol Crusader. Carol must sacrifice free afternoons to knock on dormitory doors during everyone else's nap hour or viewing of the soaps. A plastic smile must be practiced daily in order to prepare for the doorslamming when you try to explain that "Josh is coming!" For those deciding to become a crusader the following items are provided with no extra cost: a pocket-size GIDEON'S BIBLE, a book on spiritual laws, instructions on how to read in a condescending voice and short course on "Why you should wait for sex."

N. O. Job

With the realization that graduation is swiftly approaching, N. O. Job, the UA senior, experiences the panic of job hunting. He carefully reviews his college career — a major in social welfare, a 2.1 grade average, parliamentarian of ABC and summer work as a lifeguard — then realizes his job opportunities tend to be limited. After thoughtful consideration of the doors closed to him, N. O. Job decides to extend his college education and plans to become a professional student.

Kawa Saki

To fit into this category a freshman entering the UA must join the International Club, enroll in speech class 339V, American Speech for Foreign Students and be born Indian, Chinese, or Japanese. The ambitious foreign student should spend a minimum of 40 hours per week in the library and commit himself as a biology or chemistry lab assistant, making certain that the average student thoroughly misunderstands all his instructions given in his pseudo-American vocabulary.

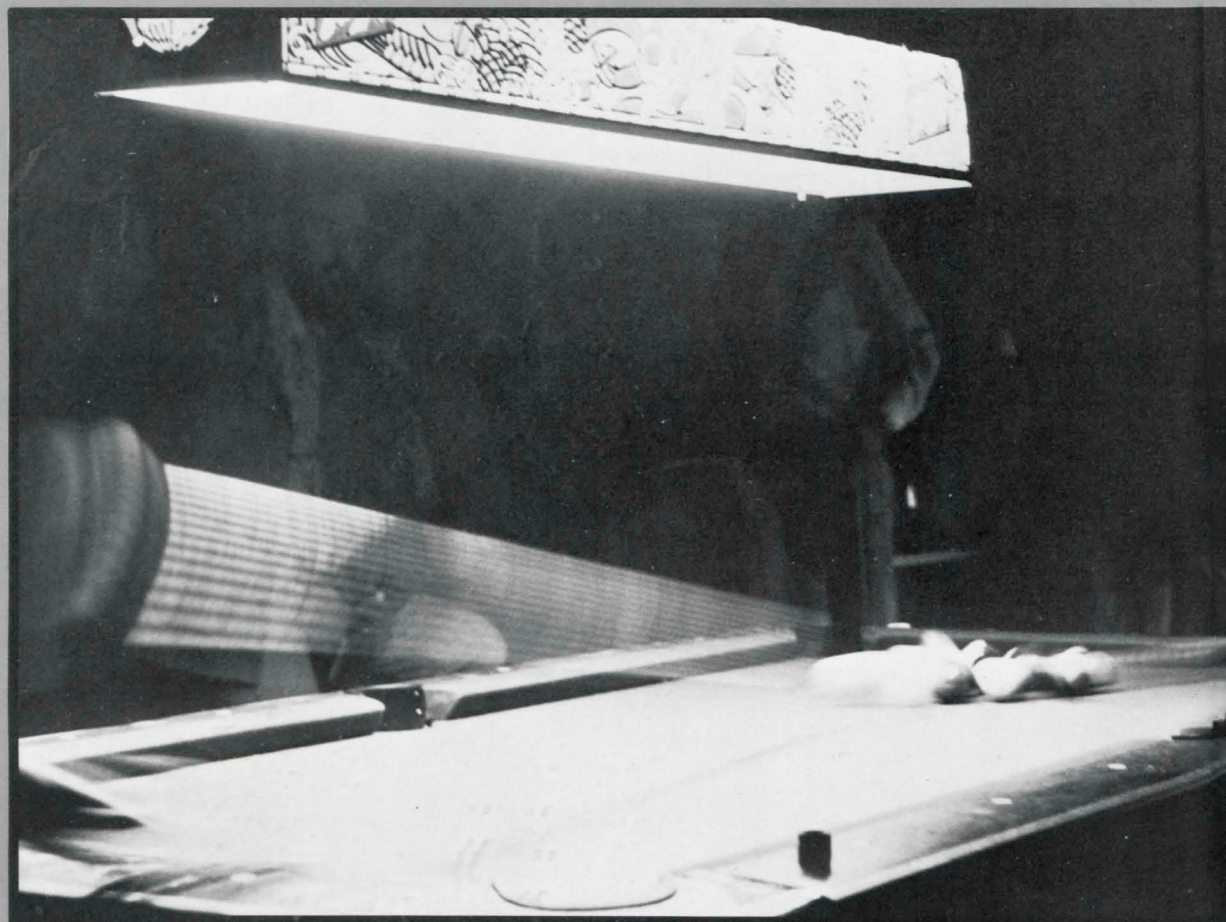

Alex and Alice Alum

Following the four year stretch of college life, each UA student, no matter what type, finds himself approaching graduation, a ceremony in which they are blessed with the end product of college, alumni status. They soon forget the misery of walking to 7:30 classes in the dusk of cold February mornings and the strain of staying awake during a discussion of medieval manorialism in western civilization. As alumni they replace the old blue jean attire with red and white jumpsuits and Razorback tietacks and earrings. When football season rolls around, they line up their Winnebagos at the foot of the stadium with a comfortable supply of beer and fried chicken. From their 50-yard alumni club seats, they sip their totties and chuckle at the college students sitting in the end zone straining their vision trying to follow the ballgame.

Lily Tomlin

On November 11, 1976, University students were entertained by Lily Tomlin in the Arkansas Union Ballroom.

Tomlin incorporated humor, articulate character control and a special acting talent to make her characters work for her. Each has a unique personality; each makes some sort of social statement through actions or dialogue. It is easy for one to visualize the hours of research and practice Tomlin devotes to each character in order to make their part instrumental as well as funny.

As quickly as Tomlin could change from herself to Ernestine to the idolizer of Mildred, she changed again. She stood center stage and laughed an uncanny, chilling witch-laugh and suddenly stood up and said, "Guess who died." The room was filled with nervous laughter as Tomlin went on to satirize funerals.

Her following actions could seem crass and distasteful under certain circumstances, but she presented them with such a humorous twist that the audience couldn't help but laugh. "Betty," she said as she looked the imaginary dead man's wife, "it's a shame you couldn't have Fred's children. Everybody else did."

Tomlin does use cliché phrases and old anecdotes in her performances, but she uses them to make her characters more real-to-life, even when she used the "normal Lily" as a character. Such an instance was the interjection throughout her performance of an unseen reporter. "What do you think about life?" asked the reporter. Tomlin answered "I think life is perverse . . . it could be beautiful, but it won't be." Each encounter with the phantom reporter seemed instrumental in learning what Tomlin thinks about life.

The performance topped any Laugh In show ever screened because it was purely Lily, going from one extreme opposite. The audience was kept attentive not only by the change in characters, but by the little "teaser shocks" the comedienne incorporated into each skit.

"I worry a lot," Tomlin said with a serious tone in her voice. ". . . I worry that Jimmy Carter talks to God . . . but I voted for him . . . I worry that they heard me say that . . . but, most of all I worry about being a success in a mediocre world."

Tomlin also says some things simply because they are funny. "Edith Ann, do you have any brothers or sisters?" "Yes, I have a brother, but we're trying to get rid of him 'cause he has a soft spot on his head," the mischievous character replied.

Tomlin commented on almost every segment of American society from commercials to bisexuality.

She accomplishes her purpose not through fiery statements that leave resentment with those who hear her, but through forcing people to laugh at themselves.

Black Awareness 77: A Disappointment?

Conveyed by most as a disappointment, Black Awareness Week '77 was plagued early as many of the major attractions were cancelled days before the start of the week.

The concert, which was to feature Parliament and Bootsy's Rubber Band, was cancelled due to Barnhill Arena not being able to supply enough power for the group's equipment. Several efforts were made by members of Black Americans for Democracy to remedy this problem, but their efforts were in vain.

Using the theme, "Blackness, Unity and Thoughts for the Future," the week opened on Sunday with a religious service. President Charles Bishop and Debra Holliman, a senior from Ashdown, officially opened the week. A concert featuring "Souls-A-Fire" from Oral Roberts University left many students speechless and with thoughts that the week would be just as moving. Led by director, Raphael Green, the group presented a moving concert of several self-composed religious songs. Students related with tears of joy as members of the group shared their life with God with the audience. The group involved the audience throughout their performance and were presented a long standing ovation as the concert ended. A reception honoring the group was held directly after the concert.

Sunday night brought the second cancellation. "The Leader," a theatrical production was cancelled due to lack of participation.

Monday night, presented a movie, "The Education of Sonny Carson," probing the dilemmas of a ghetto black who learned that school was in the street gaining a real knowledge of life.

A buffet dinner and Mrs. Florence Mattison highlighted Tuesday's events. Mrs. Mattison, a former employee at the University of Arkansas at Monticello, was the featured speaker. Mrs. Mattison was presented the B.A.D. Award for Outstanding Contribution to Blacks in Southeast Arkansas by B.A.D. president, Terry Lee.

A traditional event, the Fashion Show, capped off Wednesday's events. Sepia Fashions including sportswear, African attire and evening wear were accepted enthusiastically by the large crowd. Brenda Mitchell, a sophomore from Houston, Texas and Natalie Hill were coordinators of the show, which included several fashions of the models themselves.

Thursday brought the third cancellation. Dr. Mary Francis Berry, Chancellor at the University of Colorado at Boulder was cancelled due to a call from President Carter. Dr. Berry was recently appointed to a sub-cabinet position in HEW. Instead, students observed Black Awareness Week at Barnhill Arena watching the HOGS dispose of Baylor.

Billed as a Band Festival, students were treated to a dance in Wilson Sharp Dormitory. A large crowd filled the dorm and danced to the sounds of Interpulse.

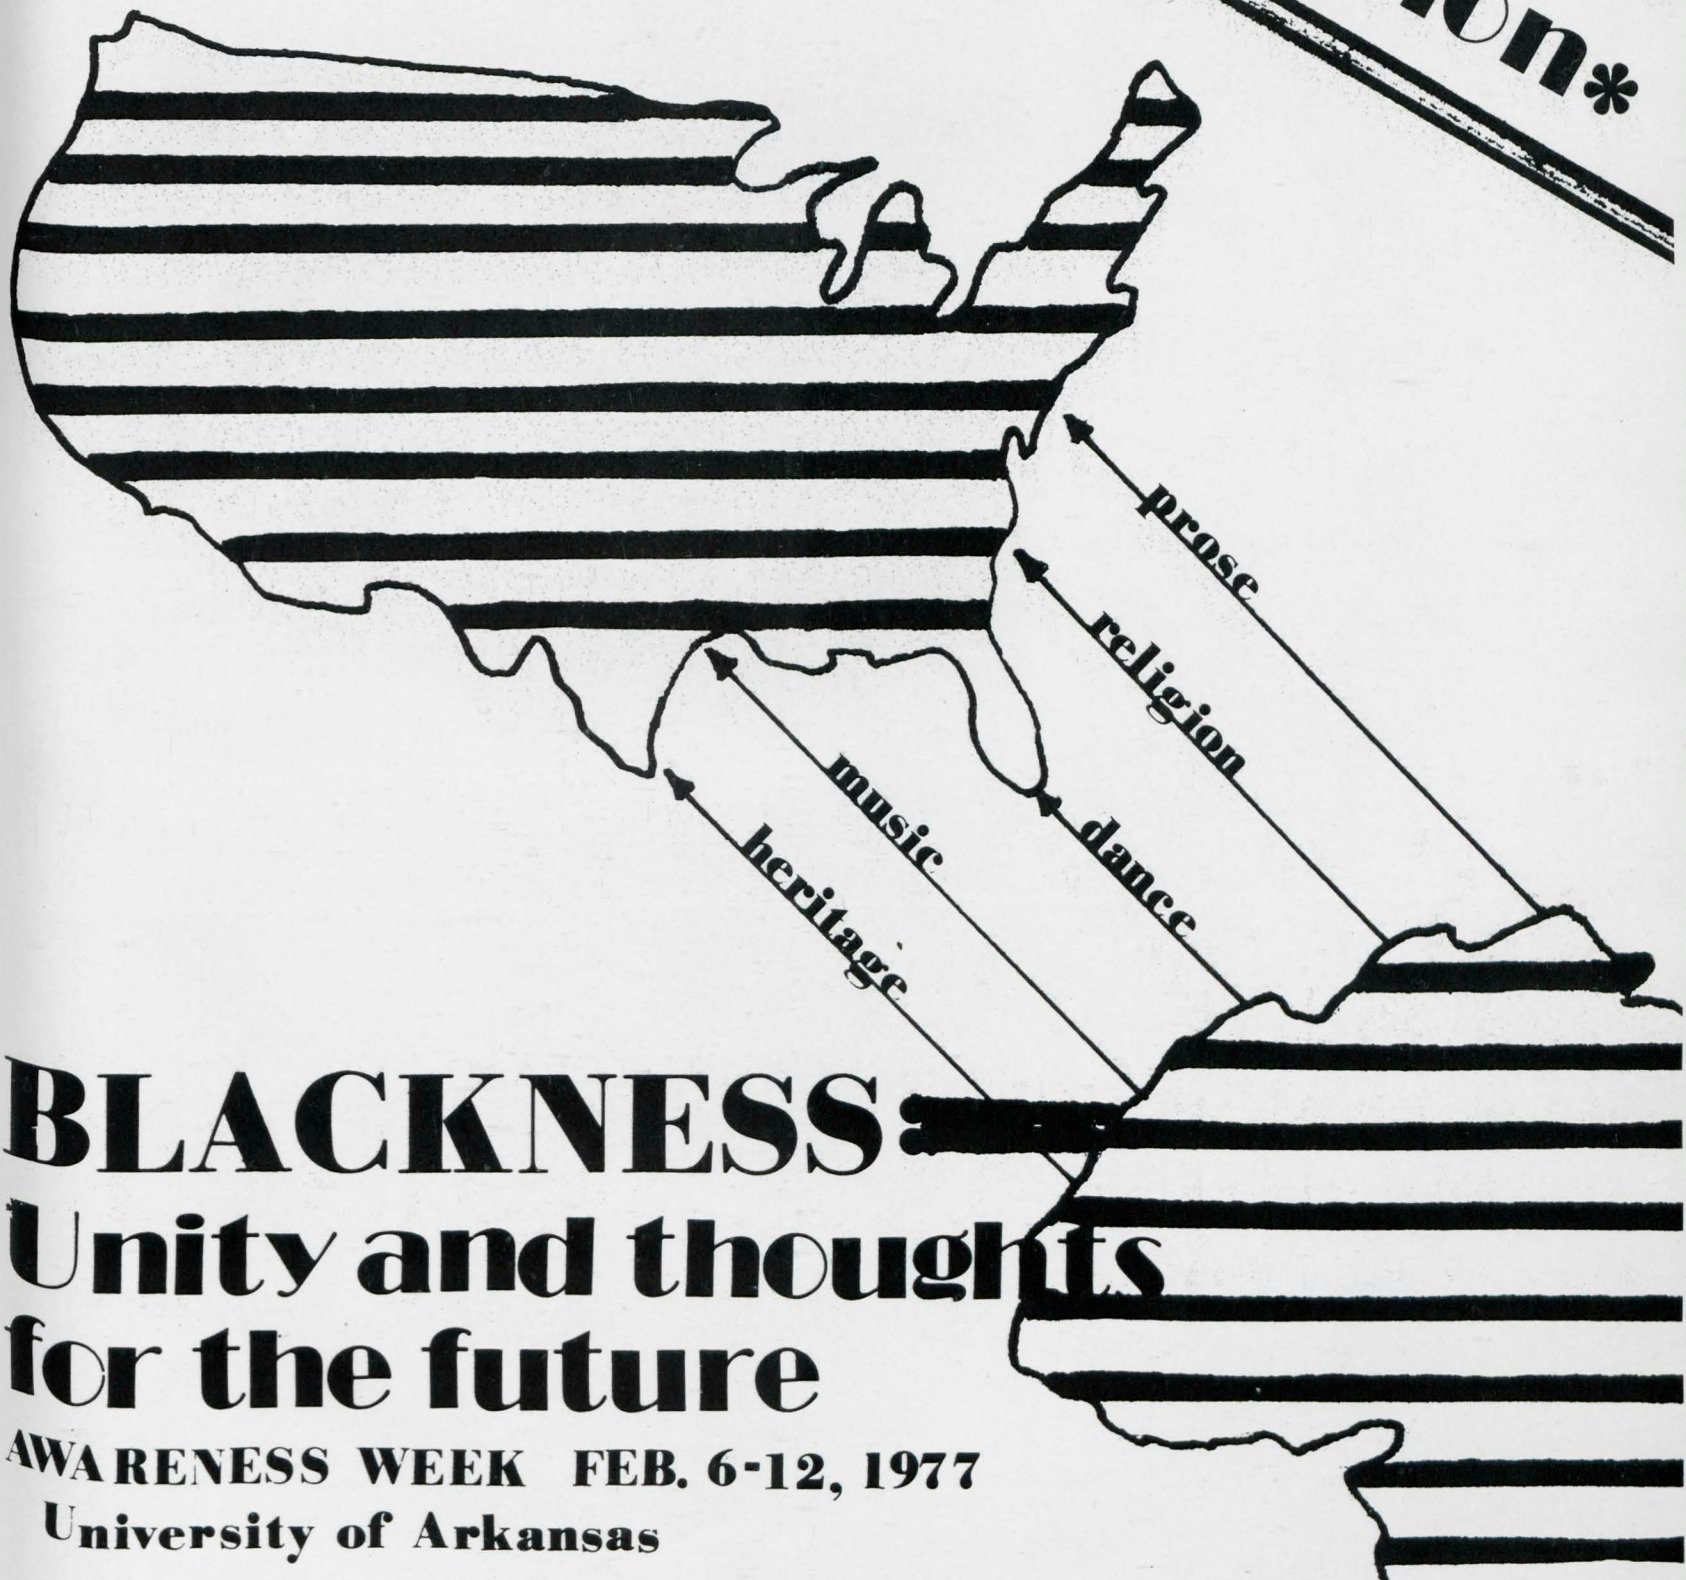

A party sponsored by the Kappa Alpha Psi Scrollers Club followed the dance. Some in attendance commented that it did not end until 6 a.m.

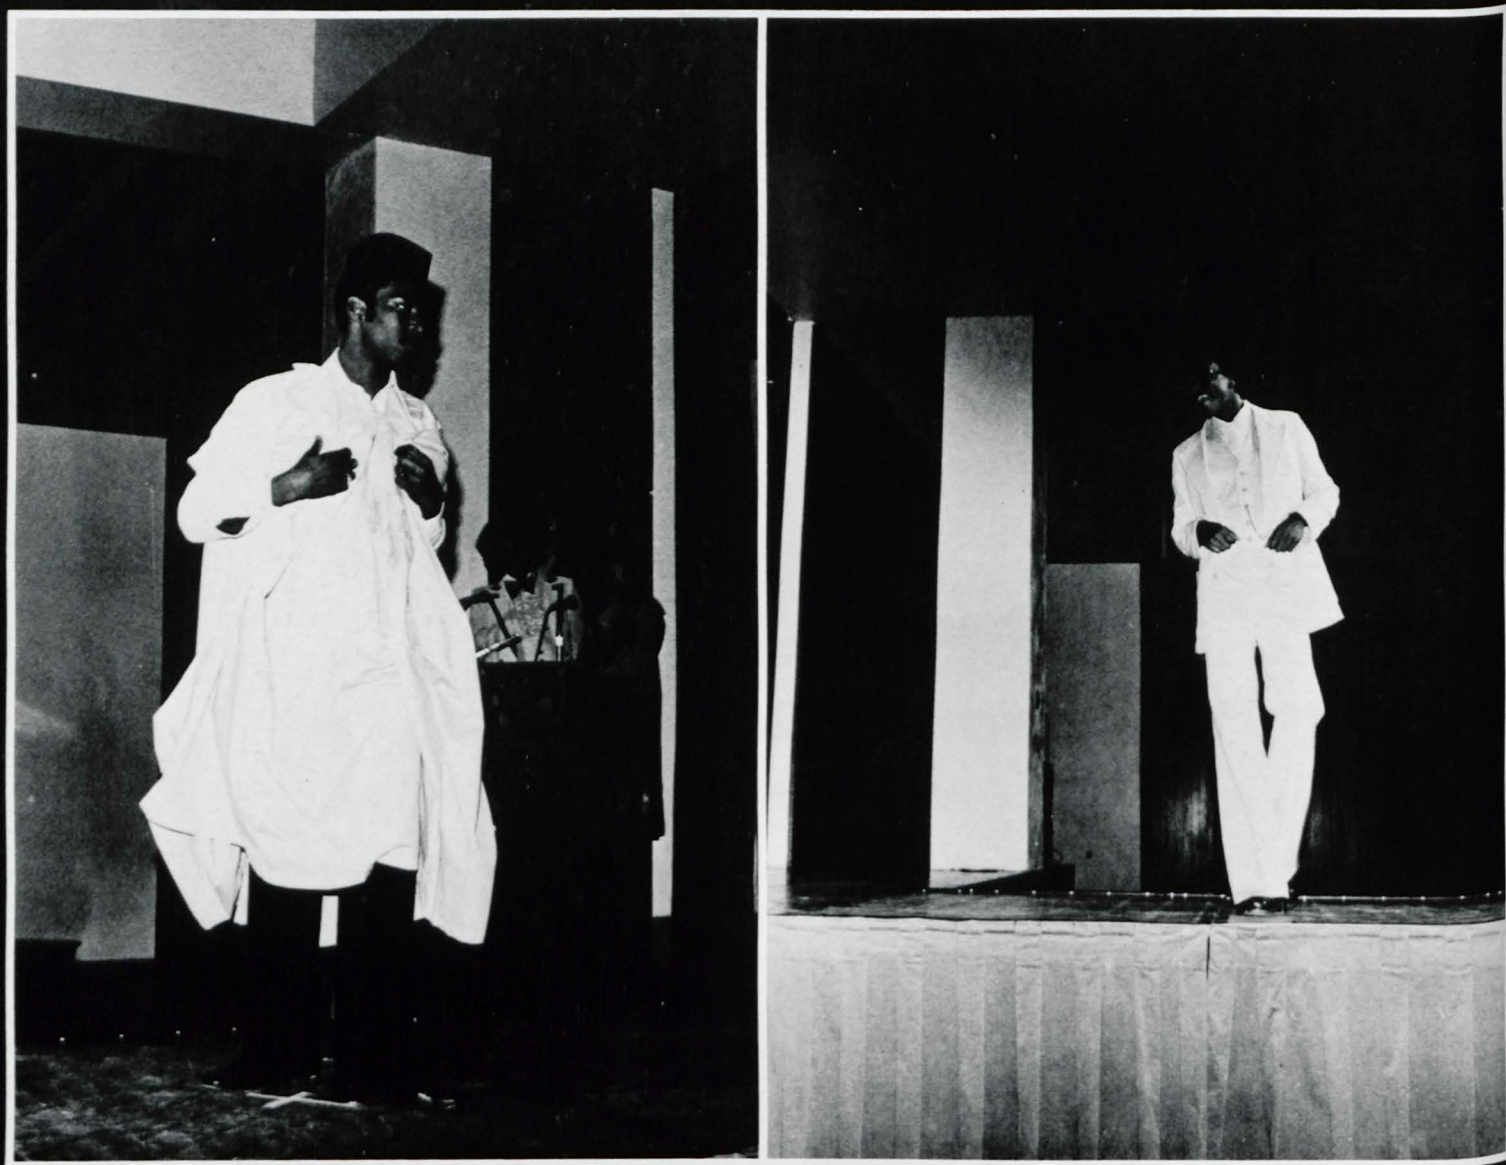

Saturday, several hundred high school students were given a tour of the campus and attended workshops providing information about the University, student-aid and academic planning.

A talent show and a dance ended Black Awareness Week '77. The talent show, headed by Linda G. Johnson, provided music, dance, prose and poetry. Favorites included a local dance group, prose by Lloyd Myers and Paula Whitford and a stirring rendition of "No Regrets," by Jackie Morganfield, a freshman from Aubrey. A disco dance sponsored by Omega Psi Phi Fraternity followed the talent show.

BACKGAMMON

Dice hit the board. Half a dozen spectators watch as disks slide around a twenty-four point board. Another shaker produces a pair of sixes, "a double six comeout," as the roll is called. Play continues as long as the thirty men used for markers roam the board. Once again, the social phenomenon known as backgammon has captured U of A students at the game.

Perhaps more familiar to some as "the game on the other side of the checker board," long-neglected backgammon has emerged as a foremost party game. Hours previously reserved for card games now attend fierce backgammon tournaments. The new-found pastime enjoys prime time whenever students assemble, whether for a study break or during a two hour wait, pre-game, in Barnhill.

Historically, the game, or playing boards suitable for the game, date from 3000 B.C. Greeks and Romans played a game very similar to today's version. Popularity passed through Chaucer's time up to the 1700's when Edmund Hoyle recorded the game's rules and objectives. In the meantime, an intermediate form of backgammon was tric-trac, which the French named for the noisy rattle of the dice used in play.

Fayetteville now hosts this diversion. The play and strategy subscribe to the same rules, but the board itself boasts many descriptions. Backgammon enthusiasts may practice their hobby on sets ranging in price from $5 to $100. The more exclusive models offer handsome leather cases decorated with corduroy, suede, or more leather. And if that is not enough for a U of A student to spend, lovers of the game can invest $700 in a backgammon table, with a set always at hand.

Literature on the subject is presently at a surplus, if bookstores can keep their supplies available on shelves. Some merchants complain of lost sales simply because their orders for more backgammon sets cannot be filled quickly due to nationwide demand. As Fayetteville's streets closed from heavy January snows, students flocked to those in the know for lessons. Interest multiplied after a Christmas gift-giving spree featuring backgammon sets.

Revival of the game seems to be due to the challenge it offers to all players, beginners and champions (Yes, backgammon tournaments are big business.). A new convert can learn the basics of the game in thirty minutes, but may find a lifelong fascination in learning the secrets of backgammon's strategy.

Brotherhood of Vol Walker

The contrast is ironic; the massive and imposing Vol Walker Library housing the College of Architecture. The average campus visitor would be amazed to learn that behind the carved doors and cool marble is the center of liberally creative thought. The same liberality that shows itself in lifestyles and fellowship as well as design.

No other college, class, or club seems to have the same "style" as architecture students. In winter there are ski boots and lots of down-filled jackets as compared to the ultraconservatism of the business college. Then in the spring, frisbees and Minolta cameras are standard equipment for architecture students. But constant throughout the year is a laid-back, casual kind of loyalty to Vol Walker and its inhabitants.

What is it that makes up a mind to spend at least five years on the same campus in classes like Environmental Technology plus inestimable hours in labs building foamboard and straight-pin models? One third-year student what inspired him is the idea of getting out and creating real buildings and complete environmental programs.

"Manipulating the environment, creating a microclimate, is challenging to me."

The Arts and Sciences department that grew into a college incorporates personalities with definite opinions.

"To me, architecture is more disciplined than art. We have to be constantly aware of composition, color, space, and texture. We have to be (aware); this is a profession."

As the years progress in the architecture program, the numbers dwindle and the classes grow smaller and closer. The idea of a common goal of successful creativity embodies itself in a type of brotherhood, but certainly not the type to be confused with "fraternity."

One student expressed a desire for the campus community to show more belief in the College of Architecture. He feels an image problem, lack of credibility, hampers the school being taken seriously; that sometimes it's passed over when its needs are justifiable.

"We're a profession — we shouldn't have to scrape or fight."

Maybe this denial plus constant togetherness is what produces the comradeship shown by the College of Architecture.

Pets, Nature and “the Man”

As school, work, family and roommates get the best of us, it's so nice to have that dog, cat or even plants to talk to. And if we don't feel like we can talk to them, there is always a quiet spot somewhere in the woods where we can talk to the trees or the great “Man” in the sky. They are always there.

For President —

"I strongly believe in building on current programs but if necessary, I would strongly to change or abolish programs. There will be no emphasis placed on one group of students — we want people involved in all segments to get overall input."

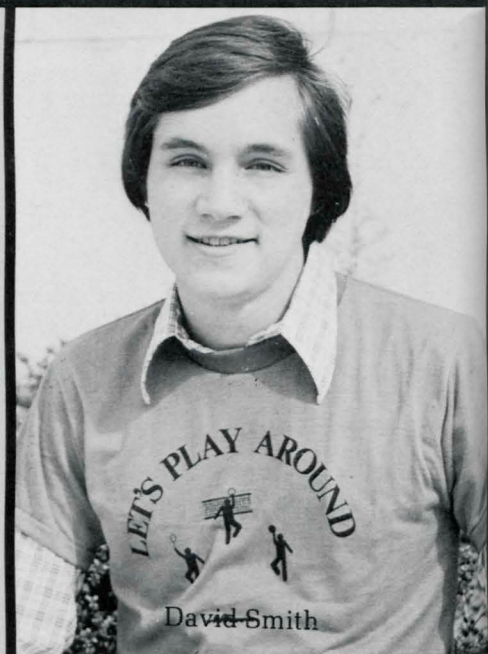

DAVID SMITH

"Involvement is the key issue. We have two types of students: one, the type who doesn't want to get involved. You have to serve those people; and two, those wanting to get involved. You must keep them enthused."

STEPHANIE RILEY

"If enough students get out and put up a fuss, I feel we could get things done. We're as powerful as the people we get out to support us."

ASG Elections —

Despite Quiet Campaigns Election Turnout Big

copy and photos by
Chris Krueger

Although somewhat lacking in the grandeur and frenzy which has typified some ASG elections in the past, Campaign '77 showed, by voter turnout, that the UA student body wasn't uncaring by a long shot.

About 20 per cent of the total student body voted in the general election March 1, an increase of almost ten per cent last year's election.

Sure there were the same old campaign promises, the same candidate forums where only handfuls of people attended (and many times they were supporters of certain candidates), campaign literature and candidate-sponsored automobile rides to the poll.

But the significant factor was that students turned out to the polls in greater force than in the last few years, showing it is possible to raise the multitude from the depths of "I don't care" slumber to exercise that

"Getting the student body involved is not going to be a one-year thing. I'm running for the average guy out there who sits and writes letters to the Traveler, not knowing what to do or where to go with his complaints or suggestions."

LUTHER BRANHAM

For Vice-President —

"Let's bring the executive branch closer to the legislative branch. I'd like to see tangible programs coming out of ASG to benefit the students."

DOUG WEAVER

"The vice-presidency is a troubleshooting and efficiency position. We need to bring the vice-presidency to its full zenith."

CURT ROM

"Let's rid the student body of sectionalism . . . and get everybody fired up."

sometimes flabby voting privilege muscle.

A total of 2,133 persons had voted by the time the polls closed the evening of March 1. About 750 people had voted by noon.

By 7:30 p.m., a handful of students had begun to form around the doors of the south end of the Union Ballroom, where ASG Election Commission members began making preparations to add the totals of the voting machines.

By 8 p.m., that handful of students had grown to a crowd of between 50 and 60 persons.

Some took a seat on the floor to wait out the results. Others sat in small, anxious groups, while still others wandered restlessly in and out of the room. Some students clustered in the halls, talking in hushed but excited tones.

Meanwhile, election commission members checked the last minute points of order in Sturgis' Rules.

At 9:20 p.m., election commission chairman Jim Garrison read the election results, but first emphasizing that at that point the returns were "unofficial" pending any election protests filed before 5 p.m. the following day. (There had been talk of alleged campaign violations committed by two candidates, but that was all it turned out to be — talk. No violations were filed by the deadline.)

The room stood silent as the results of each race were called, but then erupting in resounding screams and shouts as the winners were congratulated.

And the dust had cleared.

*David Smith had taken the president's berth with a whopping 1,048 votes, well over half the total number of votes cast for president. Stephanie Riley, Smith's closest competitor trailed by 289 votes, tallying 759.

*Doug Weaver won the vice-presidency with 950 votes; 209 over Curt Rom, who tallied 741.

At press time, a runoff election had been scheduled March 3 to determine winners in the secretary's and treasurer's races. Beth Martin faced Barbara Womack in the secretarial race, and Mark Kinion and Currin Nichol squared off in the race for treasurer.

Lights!! Cameras!! Action!! And action it was as about 3,000 students and local fans cheered at just about everything at a Basketball pep rally the Friday before the home finale with Texas. Yes, that's right, a basketball pep rally.

This rally was unlike any rally before. First, this was only the second time in recent decades that a rally was held during the basketball season for the basketball team. An attempt was made during Coach Sutton's first year, but drew only about fifty students and the cheerleaders. Second, this rally drew national attention. T.V. cameras were lined up everywhere as NBC Sports and NCCA films, filmed the rally for national telecasts. NBC aired the rally nationally on its popular Grandstand Sports show and the NCCA used it during the NCCA tournament. Thirdly, this time students, cheerleaders, pom-pom girls and yes the Razorback basketball team turned out in large numbers and called the Hogs, chanted "we're #1" and recited poetry for about an hour for the cameramen and the Hogs.

Fans gave standing ovations to just about everyone, but saved the longest and loudest for Coach Sutton and his Razorbacks. Sutton thanked the fans for their support and joined them in calling the Hogs before the rally's end.

Yes, the rally as was the basketball season was termed a tremendous success. With the recent rise of basketball at the U of A, pep rallies in Barnhill Arena (or Hog Heaven) will no longer be a rarity but just one of the UA's expected pleasures.

signs ranging from "bring on San Francisco" to "see you in Atlanta" popped up all over barnhill arena. a student presented an original poem "the year of the hog" and the pom-pom girls gave Sutton a big kiss. Sutton smiled the director . . .

Dr. George Kernodle — A University Theatre Legend

"He is a true phenomenon, an intellectual giant with the sense of zest and rambunctiousness of a precocious child — a complex man who has somehow discovered the secret of perpetual mental youth." Richard Rothrock, professor at Humboldt State College, was absolutely right when he wrote these words describing Dr. George R. Kernodle. However, there are many students here at the University who only know him as the cute elf-like man who wrote "that theatre book that we use in theatre lecture."

True. Dr. Kernodle and his wife, Portia, did write Invitation to Theatre which is used in 200 colleges across the country. However, this book is only one of the many accomplishments which has won Kernodle national recognition in the "world of theatre." He is considered a notable scholar, director, lecturer and historian of theatre, because of his infinite study and application of theatre during 50 years of his life.

The UA was lucky to have this 5-foot intellectual giant for 25 years in the Drama Department. However, Dr. Kernodle (better known as Dr. K. among theatre students) directed his 39th and final play on the University stage this fall, Romeo and Juliet.

Dr. Kernodle brought excitement and diversity to University Theatre and theatres around the world. Even before he directed his first play in Fayetteville, Kernodle had won a name for himself in the realm of theatre. He directed his energies to theatre through his interest in music because he knew theatre was the most sociable of the arts. And until this day, he still feels a youthful zest for every aspect of theatre. When the Kernodles took a trip around the world they saw 150 plays. "We never get tired of seeing plays," Kernodle claims.

Kernodle has proved that he is definitely a theatre buff by the years he has spent studying its history. After receiving a master's degree in drama from the University of Chicago, Dr. K. taught at Ball State Teacher's College, Cleveland College and Tulsa University. At 22 Dr. K. began the research work which established him as an expert in theatre history. In 1929 he studied European theatre and then in the late 1930's he won Sterling and Rockefeller Fellowships to study in Italy, Austria, Germany, France and England. Dr. Kernodle published his findings in numerous articles and in his books, From Art to Theatre: Form and Convention in the Renaissance and Invitation to the Theatre. He was also coauthor of The Renaissance Stage: Documents of Serlio, Sabbatini and Furtenback. Kernodle began his lecturing career in 1943, when he spoke at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Since then he has traveled to Columbia University, the Jewish Theological Institute, Cornell University and Brigham Young University. He also lectured in Holland, England and Canada and taught summer sessions at the University of California, the University of Colorado and the University of Hawaii.

Teaching for 25 years has given Dr. K. plenty time to try to bridge "the gap between knowledge and practice" of drama which he sometimes finds in theatre. In his classes, Kernodle combined theory and practice to "give students an intimate acquaintance with a few plays that they would never forget." Kernodle raises his white eyebrows as if he forgot the best part of his teaching career.

"I have students scattered all across the country," Kernodle boasts. Dr. K. is especially proud of Larry Luckinbill, a current Broadway star, whom Dr. K. called "one of my most promising students." Kernodle remembers when Luckinbill first came here. "Larry was a gawky country boy when he came here, and now he is a sophisticated leading man in New York."

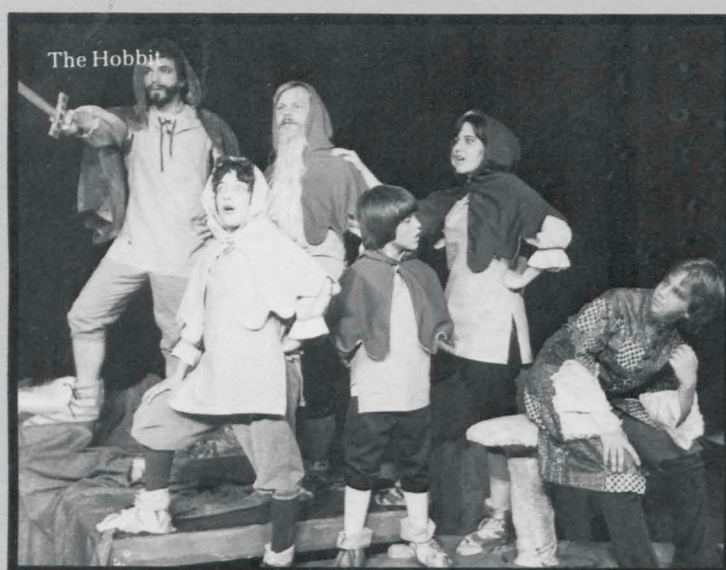

Besides these rewards in his teaching career, Dr. Kernodle has won awards for his work. In 1972 he received the alumni award for Distinguished Research here and in 1974 he was invested as a Fellow of the American Educational Theatre Association. Dr. K. was almost too modest to mention one lecture invitation that he will always remember. He whispered that he once spoke at the Shakespeare Institute in Stratford, England.

What are Dr. K.'s plans for the future? His first priority is to finish the writing jobs he has started. For 25 years the Kernodles have been collaborating on an extensive history of the theatre. They are also awaiting the third edition of An Invitation to Theatre, and have plans to once again travel abroad.

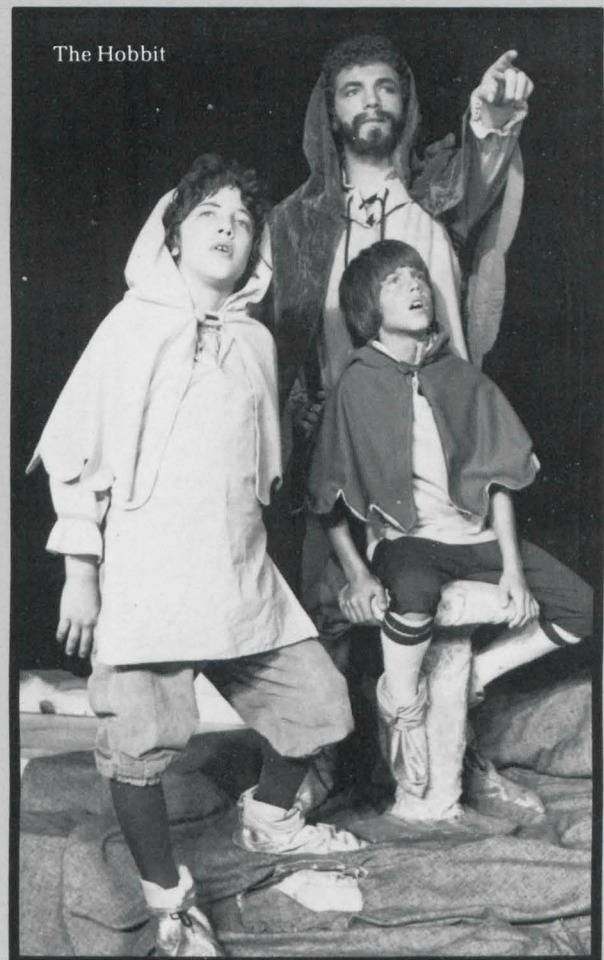

But no matter where the Kernodles travel, Arkansas will always be their home. "I like Arkansas' landscape," Kernodle says. "Arkansas provides pleasant everyday living, but we have also managed to get to big cities to see plays."

Although this intellectual giant will still be living in Fayetteville under the title of professor emeritus, he will take with him those special sparks that he used to set off when he became a Shakespeare character. His colleagues already realize how they will miss him "terribly."

One Last Look . . .

ADMINISTRATION

Honorable David Pryor

Governor David Pryor was born in Camden, Arkansas. He graduated from the University of Arkansas in 1957 with a BA in Political Science, and later became a graduate of the University of Arkansas School of Law. During his years at the U of A, Pryor was active in student government, was a member of SAE fraternity, and was elected "Campus Casanova."

In 1961, David Pryor was elected to the Arkansas House of Representatives and served three terms. He became a member of the U.S. Congress in 1966, where he again served three terms. In 1967, he was elected president of the "90th" Club, which is composed of freshman Congressmen. He was chosen as "Man of the Year" in 1971 by the National Council of Senior Citizens. David Pryor became the governor of Arkansas in 1974. He was the chairman of the Southern Regional Educational Board in 1975, and in 1976 was presented a Citizenship Award by the University of Southern California.

Governor David Pryor still loves and misses the University of Arkansas. He feels that the University has progressed considerably in the last twelve years, but that there is still a need for continuous growth within the future.

Pryor looks forward to working along with Dr. Bishop, the Board of Trustees, and the State Department of Higher Education to help improve areas such as; Agriculture, Forestry, Business Administration, and the Liberal Arts. He feels these areas are vital and need further work.

The Governor also looks forward to increased student participation regarding University legislation. "It's their University, and the students should have a say about what goes on," says Pryor.

Pryor said he would recommend university budgets be increased no more than five per cent. So far, he has received negative reactions from the students regarding that proposal.

President

Dr. Charles E. Bishop

I serve as a liaison with the department of higher education. I prepare request documents and work with the legislature. "I work with all campus personnel in making policy and facility programming." I also affirm the needs of programs before plans go to the architects. Executive Vice-President, Charles W. Oxford

"My position concerns itself with how well campus programs and services respond to student needs, individual and collective. Is the campus environment pro or anti student? Do out-of-class experiences enhance or detract from a student's academic program? Are students being encouraged to value, question, and develop as individuals? Finally, are the various student services really providing for students as they should? Vice-President for Educational and Student Services, W. F. Denman

"I have always believed that the non-academic areas of the University, which are my prime responsibility, are here to serve the students and faculty. It is our job to make the campus a better and more pleasant place to work and study. In my experience at the University I cannot remember a time when our students have not reacted reasonably for the best interest of the University community. The friends I've made among our students and their recognition of this friendship after they leave the campus is a very rewarding factor that gives me great personal satisfaction in this position." Vice-President of Fiscal Affairs, Fred S. Vorsanger

"The Vice President-Provost is primarily concerned with the implementation of the university's academic programs and its research and state service activities. My relationship to students is mostly through the academic support services provided by the Registrar's office and the library. In matters of academic appeals by students, I work to assure that careful procedures are followed and just treatment is obtained." Vice President-Provost, Charles A. Leone

Some of the areas that the Associate Provost has primary responsibilities are "support services provided by the library and computing services on the Fayetteville campus, and Director of Summer School." The official interaction of the Associate Provost with the student body is of indirect nature and deals primarily with academic structure and supporting activities on the Fayetteville Campus. The office functions under an open-door policy relating to matters of direct student concern in the academic environment and welcomes students input regarding quality and effectiveness of the teaching-learning process. Associate Provost, K. R. Cook

"The office of academic planning and development is a university wide operation concerned primarily with academic progress. This office is sensitive to students demand for educational progress and to the potential job market for a university graduate. Outreach programs are planned to provide educational opportunity for students who cannot attend on campus. Through academic planning, efficient delivery systems are established to meet these student needs." Vice-President for Academic Planning, Arthur D. Browne

"My job relates to the student as I assist the President in creating an environment which is conducive to the academic, social and personal development of all students." Executive Assistant to the President, Fred J. Taylor

"I have perceived my role in the university as an advocate of student needs and concerns as an assistant to the President. I try very hard to place myself in the students' position and advise the President from that perspective." Assistant to the President, Merlin J. Augustine

"We are the 'nerve' center, a cross-section where students' requests are kept and determined. We keep the students' records." Registrar, Carter A. Short

"The work of any administrator and most assuredly the development officer cannot be separated from the needs of students. The needs of students must be foremost in the minds of administrative officers." Executive Director of Development, Elton H. Donaubauer

"The word 'space' symbolizes the internal pressures and external constraints that shape the growth of a comprehensive institution. Errors in campus planning, facilities planning and construction impair educational functions and destroy campus unity. It is by avoiding these errors and by looking toward improved utilization of existing resources that this office serves the UA." Director of Facilities Planning and Construction, Minor G. Wallace

"We have an extensive program for publicizing students in their hometown newspapers. We also give information about the UA to students and parents. We make news available to the Traveler by sending news releases every day." Director of Information, William Hughes

"The responsibility of the department is to provide professional law enforcement service to include areas involving traffic violations and criminal investigations. Crime prevention is our main function." Director of Public Safety, Larry Slamons

"It is my philosophy that the director and personnel of physical plant are responsible to serve the students, faculty and other staff members of the University by providing service and facilities maintenance which creates an environment favorable to the University, teachers, research and administrative functions of the institution." Director of Physical Plant, Joe Talley

"This office is responsible for developing and monitoring the University's programs that relate to affirmative action, equal employment opportunity and the elimination of discrimination. Two areas which relate directly to students are the programs for implementing (1) Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin and (2) Title IX of 1972 which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex." Director of Human Relations, Barbara Taylor

"It is my responsibility to furnish the Governor, members of the Legislature and other individuals information concerning the needs of the U of A to meet its obligations in serving the students on its various campuses. It is my responsibility to seek contributions for the President's Club of the University and to promote and coordinate the development of new out-reach programs for the various campuses of the U of A." Vice President for Governmental Relations and Public Service, Carl S. Whillock

"We are in contact with a lot of student organizations and also students receiving financial aid." Our "main service is to the academic department which in turn is responsible for the academic process." Business Manager, O. J. Rinnert

"We have very little direct contact with the students, mainly with the independent student organizations procedure. We keep the general account records of the University of Arkansas. We do the reporting and budgetary control. I also prepare all the pay rolls including the student pay rolls." Controller, John Carney

"I deal with problems outside the University. Our office gives legal advice and assistance to the Board of Trustees, President, and other officials. We deal with the day to day problems of the university." General Council, Ray Trammell

"Any administrative job in the purest sense plays a supportive role for a campus. We respond by giving the best value for the money we spend, and we let the people know about it." Treasurer, Jack W. Woody

"I research student needs, set priorities and develop programs designed to meet the most pressing needs. I also work in those already existing programs in such manner as to facilitate their effectiveness. Our current study skills and career services, for example, need to be more widely understood and utilized. I serve as an advocate for individual students and as an advocate for students within special interest groups, such as for women and minority groups. I am also involved in arbitrating individual and group disputes." Dean of Students, Martha Butler

"The department is in charge of employment of non-academic staff such as the sports staff of the University. The department does the recruiting, screening, and referral of applicants to the non-academic staff of the University. We handle the monetary benefits received by the faculty and staff such as life insurance, disability insurance, and retirement. The department also maintains (leaves) records for the non-academic staff." Director of Personnel Services, Karl R. Lefler

"The computing service is in support of academics and administration of the University. It is in support of programs for students also. The students input their computer programs in the computers in Hotz Hall. The results come out at the terminal or through a print out. Some students are also employed by computing services. Some members of the staff also teach some computer classes." Director of Computer Service, James Shankle

"We basically try to keep the alumni informed about the University, and to keep their interest in the school. We try to keep a 'two way communication' open, between the alumni and the University of Arkansas staff. The association also raises scholarship money and they give out 200 scholarships a year, which the UA appropriates. There are local alumni associations located all over the country. The UA association works with the local chapters." Director of Alumni Association, John Rosso

"We are part of the academic process. No group of individuals or faculty can carry huge amounts of knowledge at once. The library provides the knowledge for the student and faculty. It is a storehouse of knowledge." Director of Libraries, Royal V. Pope

"I serve on the Budget Committee which prepares the operating budget for the Fayetteville campus. I specifically take care of the technical matters such as allocations of funds and getting printed documents for the committee. I am directly and indirectly concerned about the enrollment. I am responsible for the preparation of the budget for the Fayetteville campus to be given to the legislators." Budget Officer, Thomas Dorre

"I provide a service to management by reviewing the university operations. My objective is to assist all members of management with appraisal and recommendations of the activities being reviewed." Internal Auditor, Warren S. King

"My job has two primary parts: First, I am responsible for the Judicial process. I feel comfortable in relating to the students this way. Second, I deal with minority needs and concerns. I am charged with having effective awareness and sensitivities regarding minority needs and concerns so I can develop an operating program that will address itself to these needs and concerns before they manifest themselves into problems." Associate Dean of Student Affairs, Semon Thompson

Dean Glenn W. Hardy

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND HOME ECONOMICS

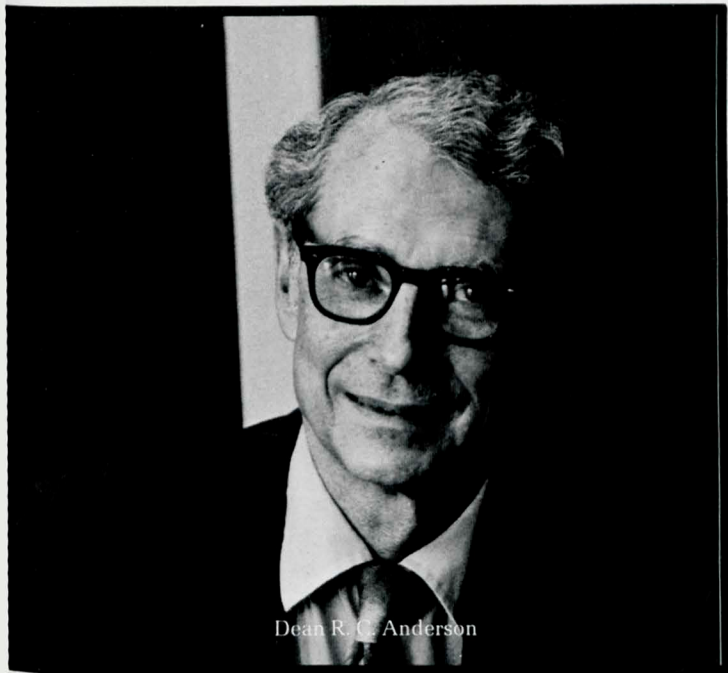

"The dean's office in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics relates to students in two important ways. First, in various ways we attempt to inform students of academic opportunities that will enable them to learn not only how to earn a living, but how to live a rich full life. Secondly, the dean's office has a responsibility to provide leadership which assures quality programs in the college. This is accomplished through careful faculty hiring procedures and providing a climate in which excellent faculty members can maximize the use of their education, experience and creativity." Dean Glenn W. Hardy

SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE

"I feel that the Dean is the link between the student and the larger administration. I feel the dean's office should serve the student, and be supportive and helpful so that the student will get the best possible education. The required studies in the School of Architecture concentrate on materials, design, and basic sciences. The students in the program spend more than half their days in the Vol Walker Library or in an annex on Maple street to complete their days in the five year program." Dean C. Murray Smart

Dean R. C. Anderson

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

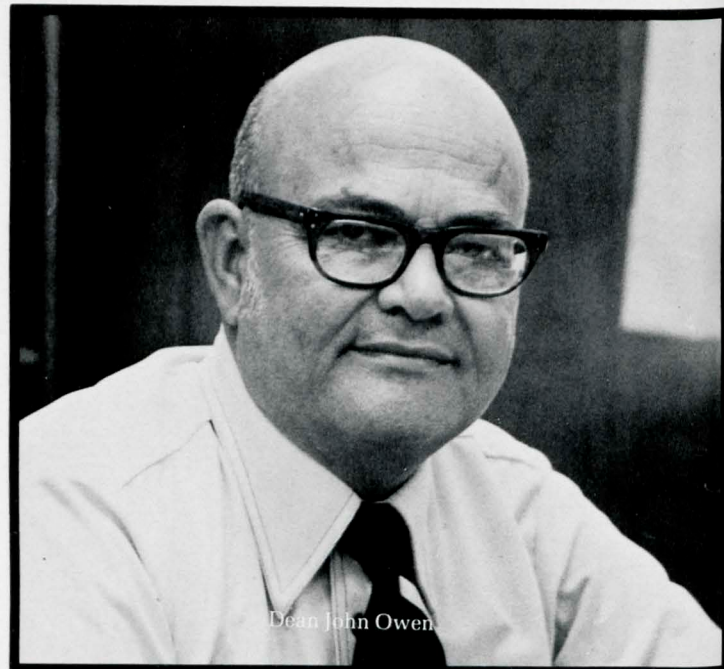

The College of Arts and Sciences offers both unusual problems and unusual challenges and opportunities in our work with students. Much of that work is in preparation for the professions — but not a particular profession or even one type of profession. We help train future lawyers, doctors, anthropologists, artists, journalists, musicians, social welfare workers, speech pathologists, zoologists, and a variety of others. But in a broader sense we are not a school for any single professional field or group of these. Our responsibilities and work lie equally in the area of service to all other colleges and students, as well as our own. There are numerous problems and difficulties in trying to reach all the individual students involved, but that work is challenging in its breadth and diversity — and never monotonous." Dean R. C. Anderson

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

"The College Dean must of necessity serve many constituencies: faculty, central administration, Board of Trustees, Legislators, Governor, Department of Higher Education, general public, business community, students and parents. Although the time I may be able to devote to any single constituency is limited, I know of no dean 'worth his salt' who does not strongly feel that his primary commitment and responsibility lies in service to his students."

Dean John P. Owen

Dean Hugh Mills

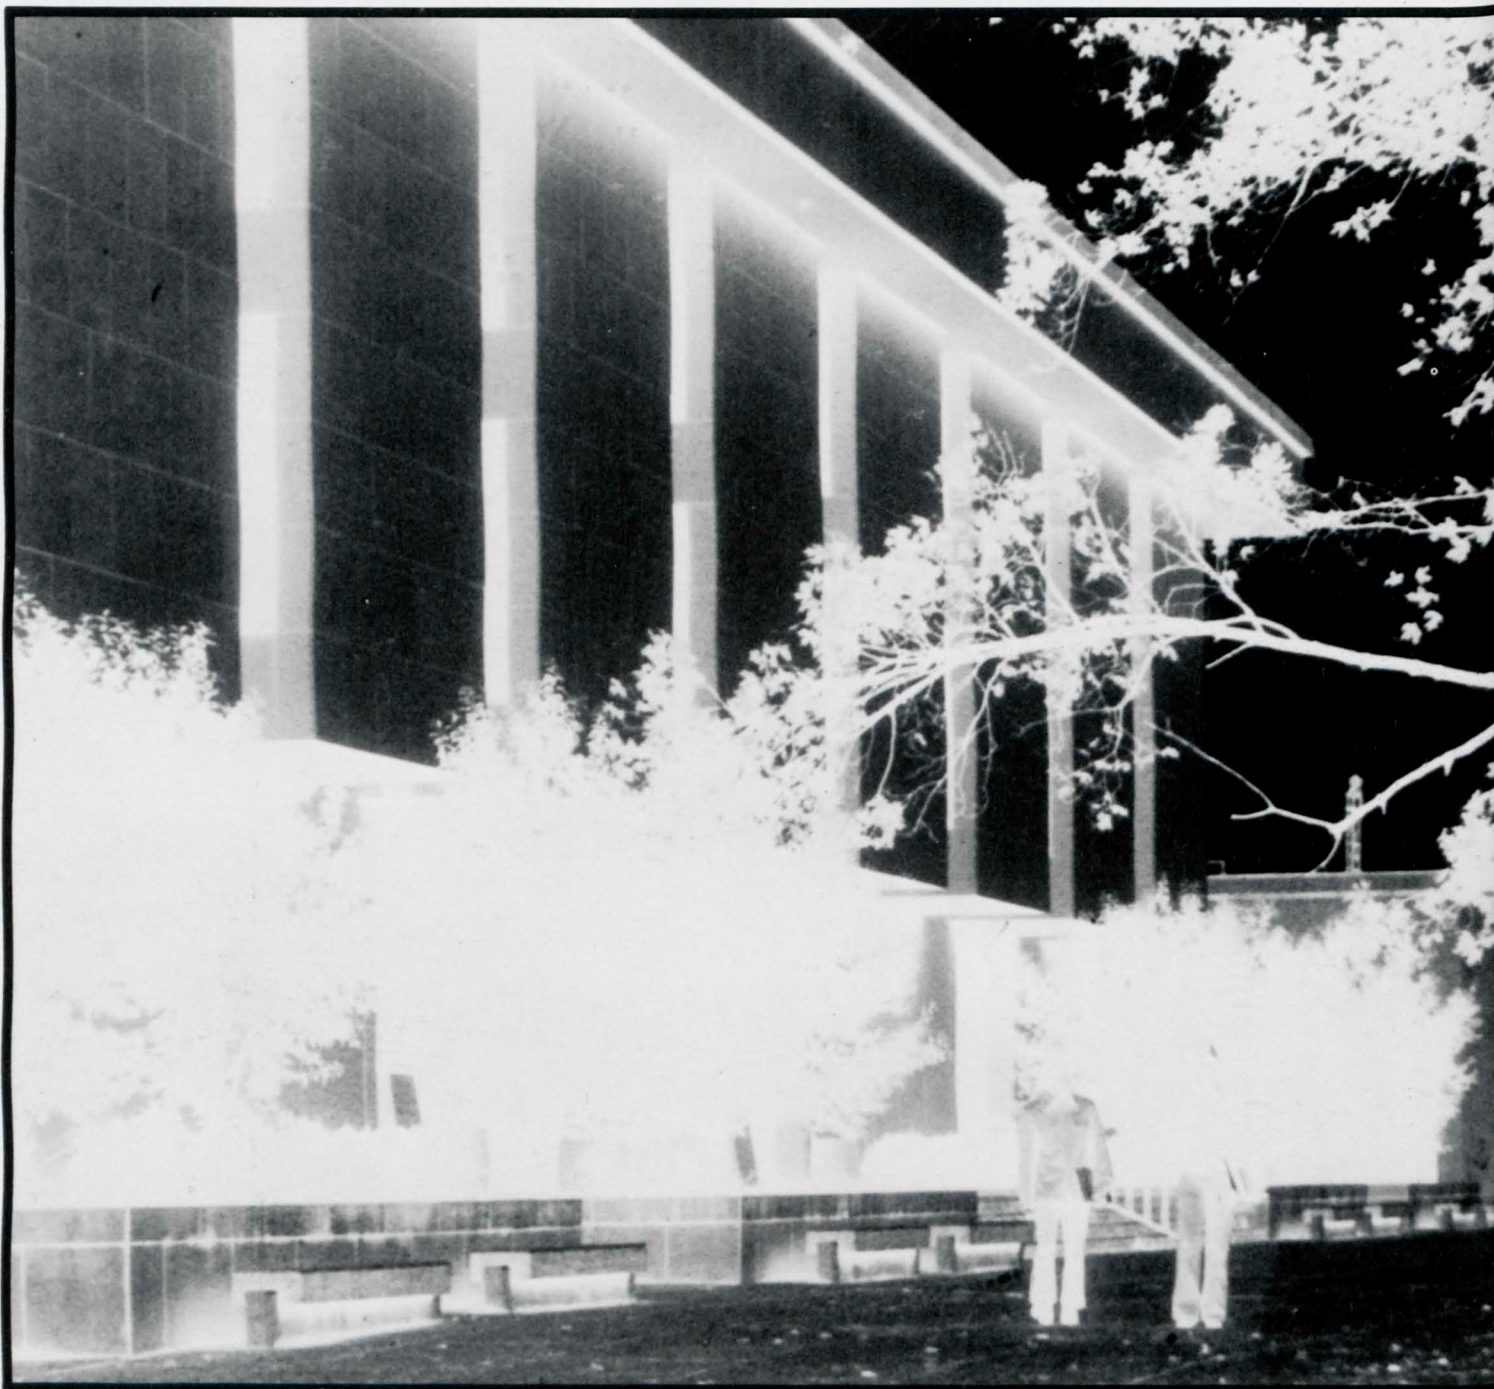

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

The School of Continuing Education through independent studies offers correspondence courses for both high school and college subjects along with other courses taught outside of the regular classroom. The school, supported largely by federal funds, has sponsored numerous community services such as workshops and training for women, teachers, and municipal government officials. "All activities of the Division of Education are directly related to the needs of the students. Academic progress is developed state-wide to meet specific student needs and this division is supportive of the various schools and colleges of the University of Arkansas." Dean Hugh Mills

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

I feel my job relates to the students very "closely." I feel we "facilitate and provide for the needs of students." There are 16 majors offered in the Bachelor of Science in Education. These prepare the students for the various fields in which they undertake. There is a placement office for graduates looking for a teaching position. Dean Fred J. Vescolani

Dean Loren R. Heiple

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

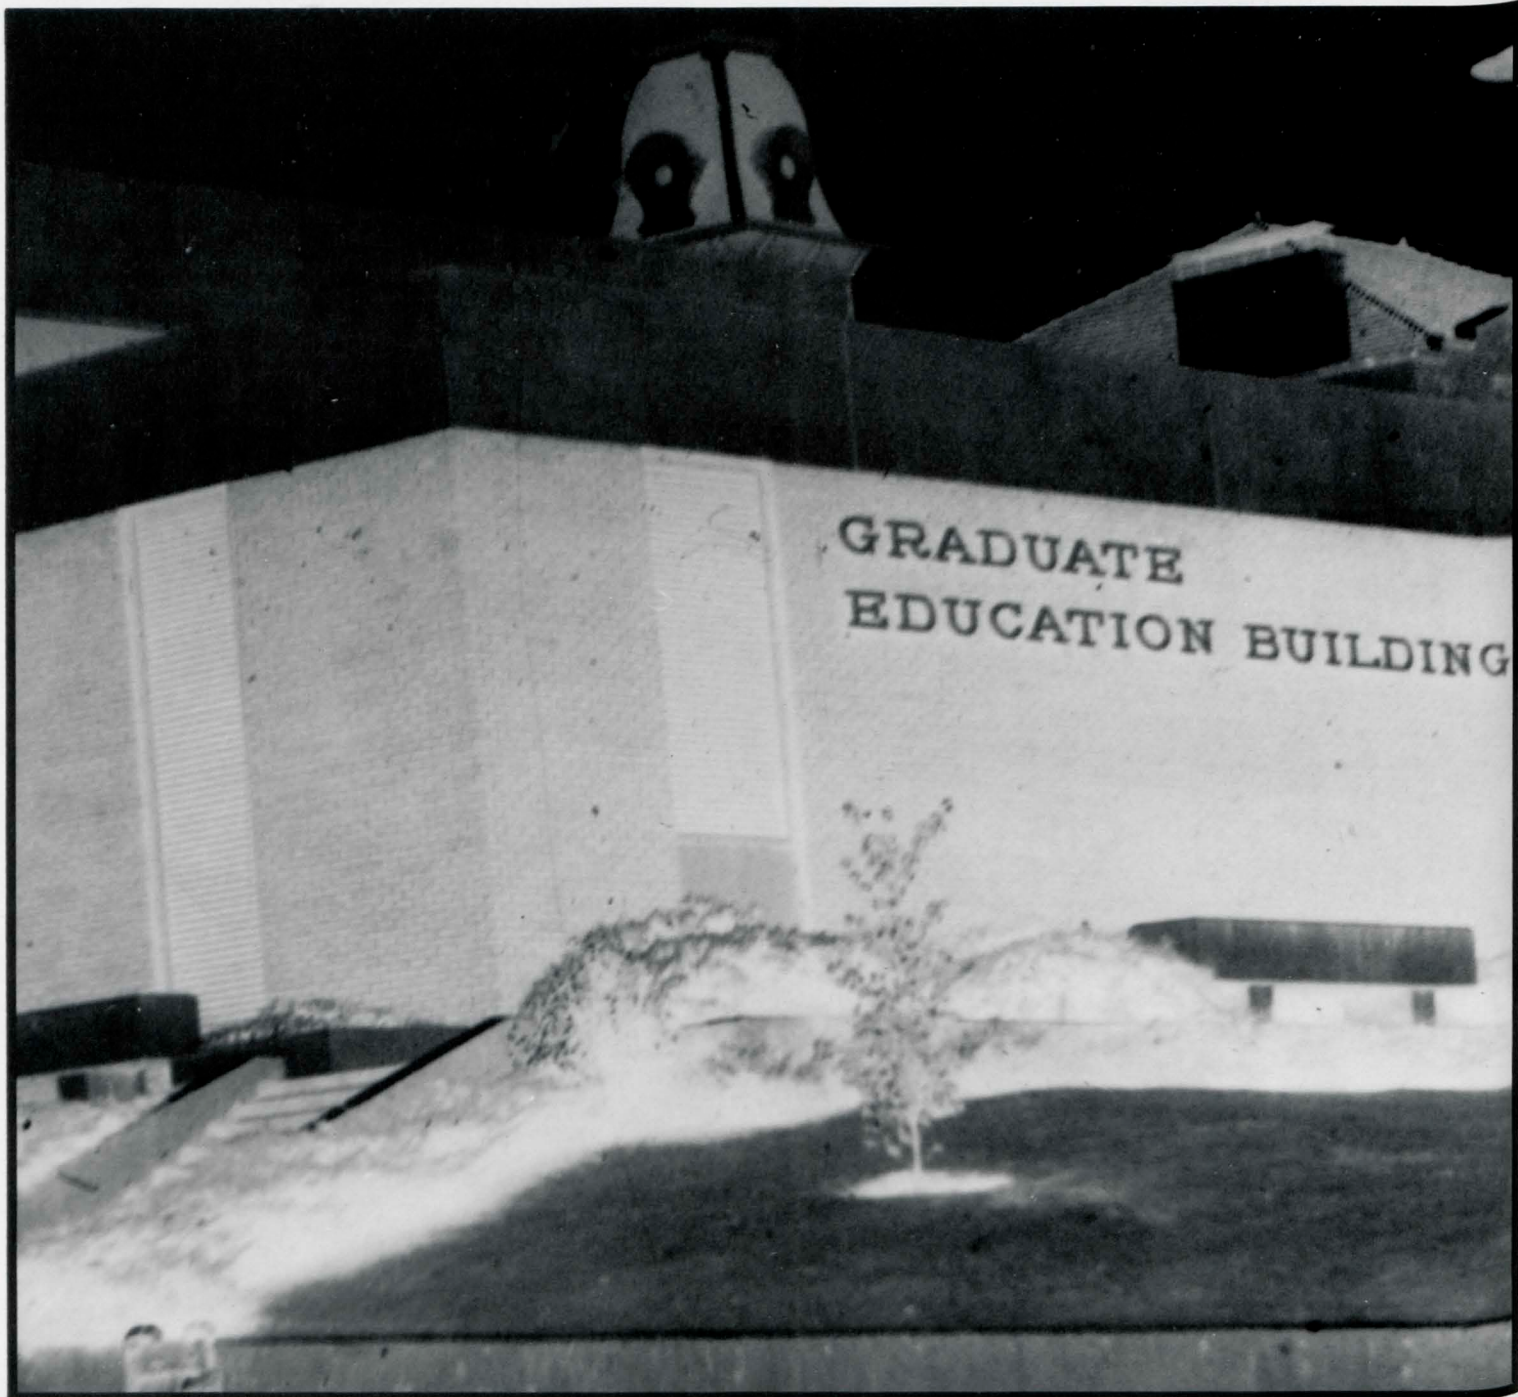

"Scarcely a decision is made without regard for its impact on our students. After all, the students are the lifeblood of any academic program. The College of Engineering has many schoolwide activities such as the sponsoring of Engine Week, Ice Cream Social, picnics and the annual Engine Rally held in the spring. There is staunch pride evident in all phases of the college's programs and various fields selected by its students." Dean Loren R. Heiple

GRADUATE SCHOOL

The main objective of the Graduate School is the advancement and dissemination of knowledge.

"Graduate Education, including research, is essential to the welfare of the states and the nation. It is a significant provider of intellectual and cultural leadership, research potential and the highly educated professional and technical human resources necessary to translate research into social, industrial and economic action. It also provides and is the source of new knowledge both historically and currently. It provides the innovators, the planners and the teachers necessary to state and national well-being and survival in the complex interrelated and technological world of the last quarter of the 20th century." Dean James J. Hudson

Dean Wylie H. Davis

LAW SCHOOL

"Since the Law School is not departmentalized, it has no department heads. Thus some of the functions of a department head in the other colleges are performed by the dean of the Law School, as well as the deaconal functions. This tends to bring the dean into more important, direct student relationships than might otherwise be the case. I relate to students in academic advisement, joint activities with the offices of the Student Bar Association, hearing of students' complaints and establishing lines of communications with all student groups. I report to the law student body each semester on the state of the Law School. The deans of law also typically teach a regular course each semester, and I have followed this tradition."

Dean Wylie H. Davis

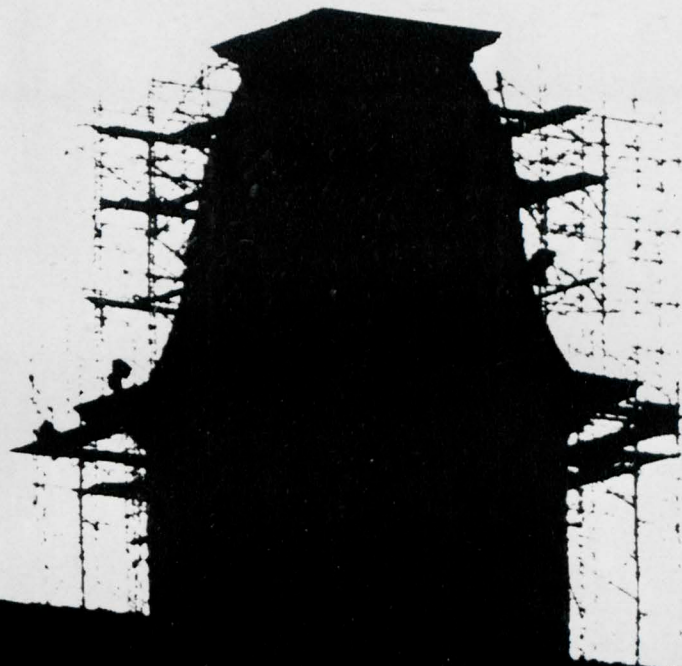

SCHOOL OF NURSING

Dr. Lynn Murray is the new Fayetteville representative for the Associate Degree Nursing program on campus. The Fayetteville department offers a two year program for a degree in Associate of Science in Nursing. The School of Nursing was established in 1975 as a college. Students in nursing go to Dr. Murray for advisement while they are here on the Fayetteville campus preparing them for their future. "As far as the students are concerned, I am trying to do the best I can while they are on campus in their two-year study." Lynn Murray. The ADN chairman is Betty Battenfield.

Outstanding Faculty

*The professor is my shepherd, I shall not study.
He maketh me to lie down in the wee hours;
His homework leadeth me through the stacks.
He restoreth my apathy; he leadeth me in the path of knowledge for my own sake.
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of failure,
I will fear plagiarism.
The professor is with me, his assignments and his staff they exploit me.
He prepareth a test for me in the presence of my classmates.
He annointest my head with trivia
(meanwhile my mug runneth over.)
Surely, after many scrolls are published while he is at the Hill,
He will wear the cloak of Holy Tenure forever.*

Who's Who

Among Students in American

Universities and Colleges

After 43 years of serving higher education, Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities exists as one of the most highly regarded and long-standing honors program in the nation, having earned overwhelming respect of college faculties and administrations. For these students, the outstanding campus leaders of the year, national recognition by Who's Who marks a pinnacle of scholastic achievement.

Selections to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities are made each fall by a student committee and an ex-officio chairman selected from various segments of campus life. The local committee are instructed by the national office on the number of students their school may nominate. The school's nominees must then be approved by the national office. This year's committee selected 28 students from over a list of 100 nominees. Although only a 2.00 grade point is required to be nominated, the 28 students grade points ranged from 2.70 to 3.98.

Hall of Fame was reinstituted after several years absence in the 1976 Razorback. Students inducted into the Hall of Fame are taken from the list of nominees for Who's Who. Students who were selected unanimous choices for Who's Who are inducted into the Hall of Fame. Jeanie Collgye, a political science major from Fort Smith and Everette Lynn Harris, a journalism-public-relations major from Little Rock were the two students named.

Elaine Ashley
Delta Delta Delta

A home economics education senior from Harrison, Elaine participated in various honoraries. She worked with the ABC Board of Governors, ODK, Cardinal Key, Chimes, Phi Upsilon Omicron and Alpha Lambda Delta. Greek activities included Panhellenic Rush Counselor and an active member of Delta Delta Delta, where she was model junior initiate, recommendations chairman and chaplain. Other commitments were UA Swim Team Hostess and Sigma Phi Epsilon Girls of the Golden Heart. "I feel very confident that I have contributed many beneficial things and ideas to the University during the three and one half years I have been here," Ashley concluded, "and even though I am reaching my last semester, I feel there are many more things to do."

Carney L. Carroll

Alpha Phi Alpha

A charter member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, "Butch" was a political science major from Malvern, Arkansas. "I feel my contributions are only significant in as much as they affect other students," Carroll remarked. An active participant in all phases of campus life, Butch served as treasurer of ASG, business manager for the 1977 Razorback, social chairman and house manager for Alpha Phi Alpha and staffwriter for the Arkansas Traveler. Butch was also a member of ASJ, Board of Publications, ABC, Allocation committee, IFC, Blue Key, BAD and a minority assistant.

Jeanie Collyge

Kappa Kappa Gamma

An active participant in student government, Jeanie served as research director for ASG during her junior year and vice president as a senior. A political science major from Fort Smith, Jeanie was a member of the Faculty Senate Council, Union Governing Board, ASG, Committee on Student Relations, ASG Election Committees, ABC, Kappa Sigma Stardusters, Omicron Delta Kappa, and ASG Administrative Aide. Jeanie feels that her main contributions have been in having a voice in helping to create student concerns in various aspects of University life. "I feel that I have contributed in a worthwhile respect if I have opened up even the slightest door for the student voice on campus," Jeanie said. A delegate to the Student Awareness Program on Southern Growth, Jeanie also served as president of her Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge class.

Joanne Dirden

Delta Sigma Theta

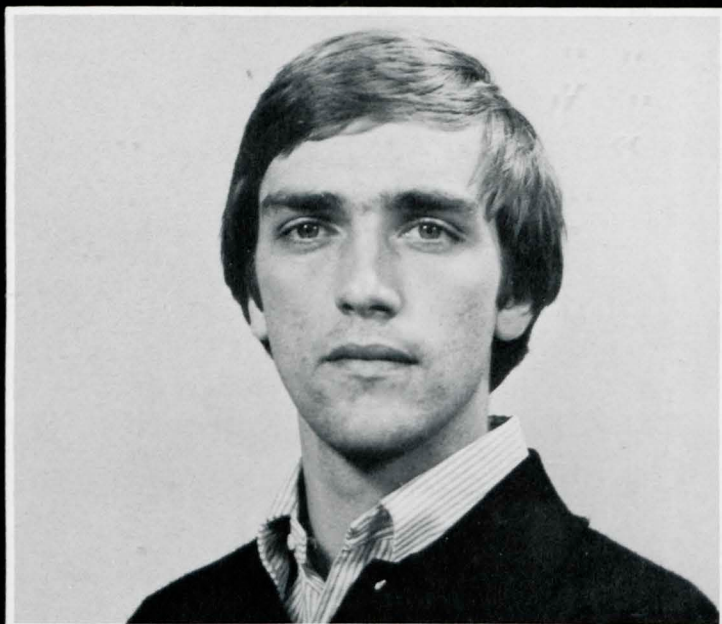

Active in minority affairs, Joanne served as secretary and president of Delta Sigma Theta sorority. A speech pathology major from Camden, Joanne was awarded the Outstanding Delta Award in 1976. A Dean's List student, she also served as a minority assistant, member of BAD, Panhellenic, President's Advisory Committee, Black Awareness Week, Student Speech and Hearing Association and the Union Governing Board. "I have tried to help in making the minority student aware of the structure of the University and the resources available to him, and at the same time, make administrators, faculty and staff more sensitive to minority students and their needs and concerns."

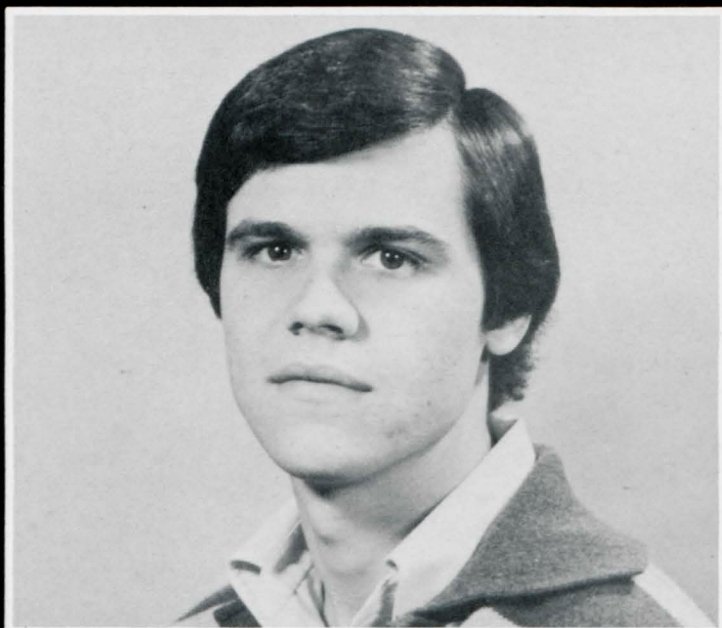

Jim Fisher
Reid

An art history major from Virginia, Illinois, Jim has maintained a 3.74 grade average. Marching with the Razorback Band, Jim has entertained Arkansas audiences as feature twirler for four years. "conveying the love I have for the talent and the God who gave it to me." A member of Kappa Kappa Psi for two years, Jim was elected chapter president, district president and served as co-editor of the district newsletter. Active in RHA, Jim served as vice president of his living group and as a resident assistant. A recipient of the Blanche Elliot Art Scholarship, he was also tapped into Omicron Delta Kappa. He has also served on several campus committees including the ASG Student Allocations Committee and the Union Arts Committee.

Ron Gardner
Phi Delta Theta

An accounting major from Hot Springs, Ron has maintained a 3.80 grade average. He was the recipient of the IFC Model Pledge Award, Phi Delta Theta Educational Scholarship, Accounting Department Scholarship and the Alumni Scholarship. He was named to Beta Gamma Sigma, Order of Omega, Dean's List and President's List. Ron has served as ASG senator, Phi Delta Theta treasurer, scholarship chairman, Beta Alpha Psi vice president and Blue Key president and secretary. He also served on the ASG Constitutional Revisions Committee, ASG Textbook Exchange Committee and Traffic Appeals Court. "I have strived in all ways to transmit to those who are younger than I the things that I have learned from my experiences and mistakes in hopes that they will be motivated to become involved in the various activities on this campus, both in and out of the classroom."

Carl Gessler, Jr.
Phi Delta Theta

Active in fraternity and service organizations, Carl served as president of Cardinal XX. A zoology major from Hot Springs, Carl also served as secretary of Phi Eta Sigma, president of his pledge class, Phi Delta Theta vice president, ASG Administrative Affairs Director and ASG senator. Selected as IFC Fraternity Model Pledge, he was also a member of Blue Key, Alpha Epsilon Delta, IFC, Union Special Project Committee, Greek Week Committee, Faculty Senate Committee and Interservice Council. A winner of several scholastic awards, Carl maintained a 3.85 grade average during his four years at the University. "I think that on-campus living and community activities are all necessary components which should be combined with a student's academic experience."

Everett Lynn Harris

Alpha Phi Alpha

A journalism-public relations major from Little Rock, Lynn was the recipient of the BAD service award, Sigma Delta Chi and Arkansas Press Association Scholarships and was named to Cardinal XX, Mortar Board, Order of Omega, Phi Eta Sigma and the Dean's List. Active in various activities, Lynn served as editor of the 1977 Razorback becoming the first black to head a publication at the UA, production supervisor of the 1976 Razorback, BAD vice president and treasurer, ASC press secretary, BAD Times, editor, Razorback cheerleader, orientation counselor, minority assistant, Board of Publications, Sigma Delta Chi and the Committee on Student Relations. Lynn also served as president and rush chairman of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity. "I've made it my goal to get as much out of college as I possibly can and encourage others to do the same. I think there is more to these years than just making grades; organizations and personal involvement gives you a glimpse at the real world that no book or classroom could even begin to touch on. I think the University has a lot to give to us, but I also believe that we as students have a lot to contribute to the University."

Hall of Fame

Tom Jacobs

Delta Upsilon

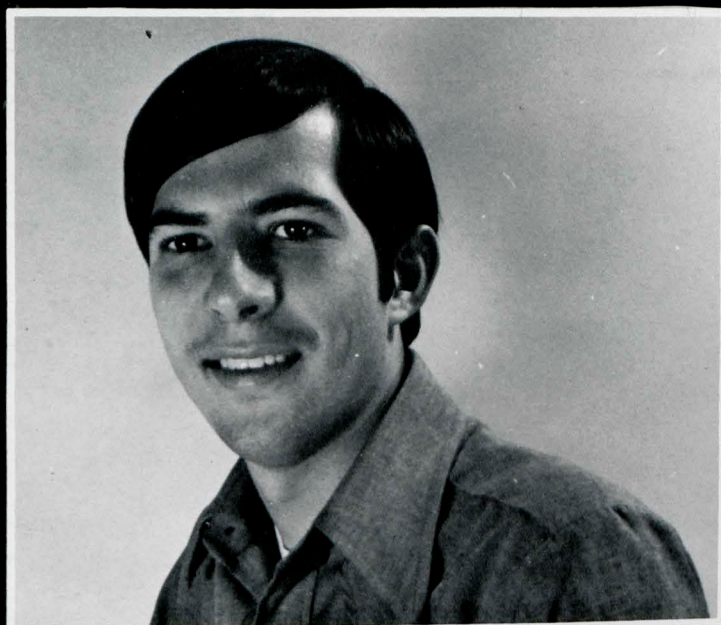

An agronomy major from Dewitt, Tom has maintained a 3.53 grade average, and was a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Blue Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, agronomy club, Alpha Zeta, ABC, Agri-Home Economics Students Association, Order of Omega, IFC rush committee, ASG and ASG Traffic Court. Tom was the recipient of the Romeo Short Scholarship Award and the Gaylon Hopson Scholarship Award. Within his fraternity, Delta Upsilon, Tom was a charter member, treasurer, rush chairman, associate trainer, judicial board, education committee, social committee, house committee and executive committee. He was also IFC president, IFC treasurer, a delegate to Delta Upsilon's National Convention and a member of Royal Order of the Red Carnation. Tom feels, "college is more than going to school. It is an opportunity to meet new people, make new friends, work with them and on occasions to serve and help them as an officer of an organization."

Ron Johnson

Gregson

Active in campus publications, Ron is a journalism major from Paris. Before transferring from College of the Ozarks, Ron was editor of the college's newspaper, sports editor of the yearbook, editor of the alumni newspaper and sports information director. At the UA, he served as Razorback and Traveler sports editor and wrote for the Arkansas magazine and Agape. "I feel many students don't take much stock in the Traveler and would as soon step on it as read it. Hopefully, I have provided a coverage they can enjoy reading," Ron said. Involved in Army ROTC, Ron served as Public Information Officer, received a three-year ROTC scholarship and was a member of the Ranger Platoon and color guard. Other activities include membership in Mortar Board, Sigma Delta Chi, RHA and Baptist Student Union.

Christy Kalder
Zeta Tau Alpha

A speech communications and journalism major from West Memphis, Christy was managing editor for the 1977 Razorback. A charter member of Pi Kappa Delta, Christy participated in many speech related activities winning various awards at state and out-of-state tournaments, and participated in Reader's Theatre and University Theatre. A member of several honoraries, she was selected for membership in Chimes, Cardinal Key, Angel Flight, of which she was archives officer, and Mortar Board. An active member of her sorority, Christy served as 2nd vice president, activities chairman and on the standard's committee. In AWS, she worked on committees for campus security, Women's Spring Festival, AWS vice president, Panhellenic Rush Rules Committee, Union Arts Committee and Greek Week Committee. Believing that extracurricular activities are important to a well-rounded education, Christy remarked, "Ten years from now, I'll be happy to look back and know I gained more from four years of college than 124 credited academic hours."

Chris Krueger
Kappa Kappa Gamma

A journalism major from Fayetteville, Chris maintained a 3.50 grade average while participating in many phases of publications work. "Journalism involves precise communication with people, (something I feel is becoming a lost art), and I hope through my work on the Traveler that I have helped make students better informed," she stated. Honors include membership in Kappa Tau Alpha, Alpha Lambda Delta, Mortar Board and the recipient of several scholarships. Chris served as president of Sigma Delta Chi and wrote for the Arkansas magazine and the Traveler. Active in her sorority, Chris served as president and was a member of the Panhellenic President's Council.

Lesa Lackey
Kappa Alpha Theta

A psychology major from Mountain View, Lesa was Miss Congeniality in the 1975 Miss U of A Pageant. As a member of Angel Flight, she served as Area Commander, liaison officer, information officer, executive board member and was chosen Little Major, Little General and Outstanding Officer of 1976. Within her sorority, she served as assistant rush chairperson, alumni relations chairperson, rush chairperson and was chosen Model Pledge. Being associated with ASC, she was Public Relations Director and community relations chairperson. "My involvement with ASC has permitted me to act as a liaison between the voice of the students and the University and State Administrators," said Lesa. She was a member of Order of Omega, AGR Little Sister, UA Sailing Club and various Panhellenic and Angel Flight committees.

Ed Lynch

Sigma Nu

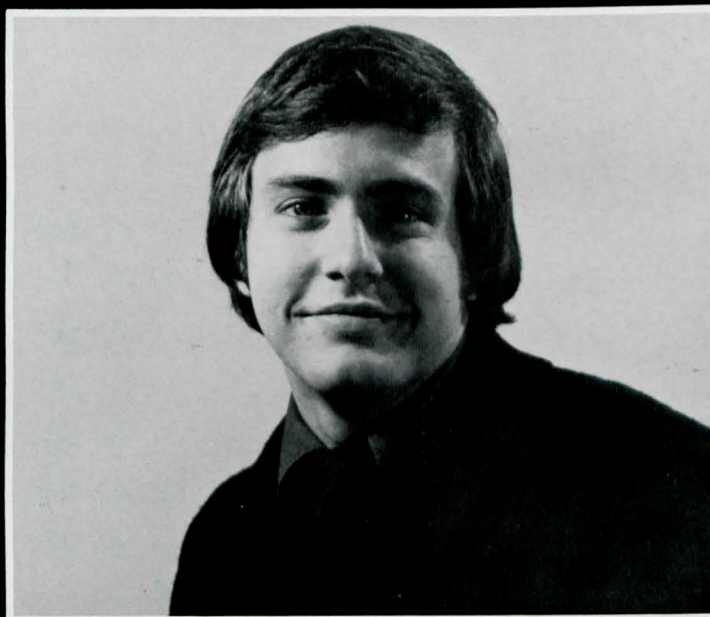

President of ASG. Ed directed activities for all phases of student government. Previously, Lynch served as ASG vice president, a member of the Student Service Allocations Commission, Public Relations Director and Administrative Affairs Director. His honors include membership in Blue Key, Order of Omega, President's List, Cardinal XX and the recipient of several scholarships. A Sigma Nu from Hot Springs, Ed worked with his fraternity's Board of Governors. Other activities were with the Arkansas Union Governing Board, Win Rockefeller Lectures Committee and the Energy Conservation Committee. In view of his interest and continued involvement, Lynch maintains, "I have tried to provide consistency and 'follow through' from year to year in my years here."

Mark McNair

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

As an active member of ABC, Mark served on the Board of Governors and as Texas Week Chairman. McNair, who was a Razorback cheerleader, believes, "The pep rallies in the past have been lacking in spirit, and I hope that some of my ideas brought some of the spirit back." His Greek activities included Order of Omega, IFC, chairman for the freshman sorority tea and vice president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. An insurance and finance major from Fayetteville, Mark belongs to Blue Key, the Finance Club and was named to the Dean's List. As a freshman, he worked with Coffeehouse and the ASG Senate.

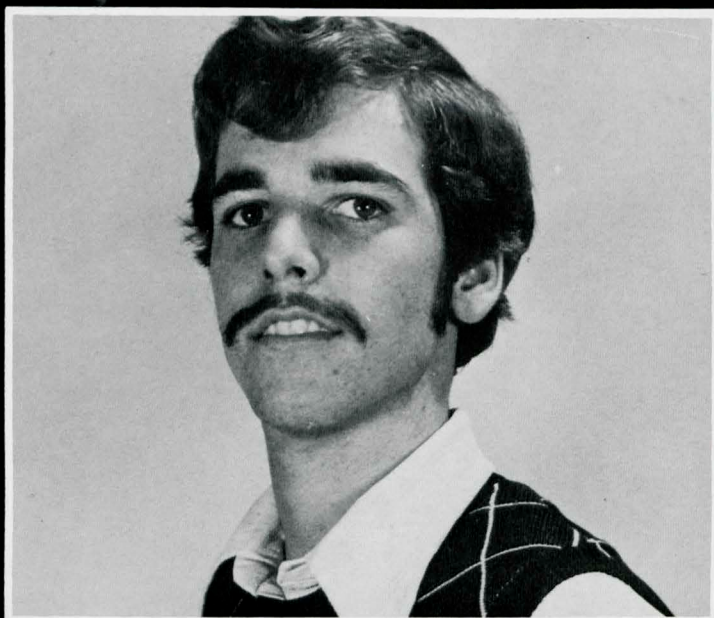

William H. Overby III

Off Campus

Transferring to the UA from the University of Maryland, Bill was a history major from Fayetteville. He was named to Phi Alpha Theta, Blue Key, Kappa Delta Sigma and received a scholarship to attend Southwestern Life Insurance Company's Student Leadership Program. He has served as chairman of the Arkansas Union Governing Board, president of Off Campus Student Association, director of Yellow Brick Road, ASG senator, Union Programs secretary, Blue Key vice president and business manager for the Great Mandala. Bill was also a member of the University Committee on Student Relations, University Title IX Committee, Faculty Senate Council, President's Advisory Council and several ASG committees. "I believe that student participation and input in the University's governing and decision making processes is an essential element in achieving a total University community," Bill remarked.

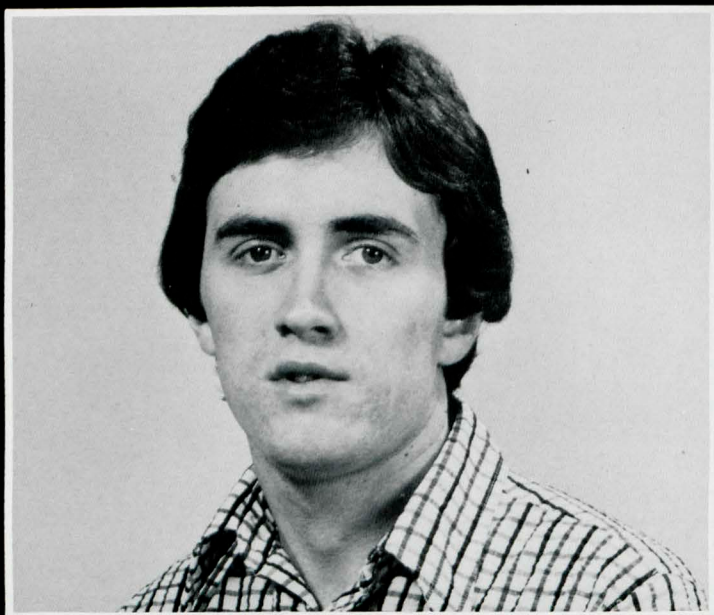

Paul Oxenreider
Gregson

Maintaining a 3.87 grade average, Paul is a mechanical engineering major. He was on the Dean's List, President's List and received the A.S.M.E. Scholarship, Tau Beta Pi Scholarship, Anna Powell Wood Award, DuPont Scholarship and the A.S.H.R.A.E. Scholarship. Paul has served as Tau Beta Pi president and corresponding secretary. "I have worked to stimulate interest not only in engineering courses and activities, but other campus activities," he said. Paul is a member of Pi Tau Sigma, American Society for Engineers, Mortar Board, Society of Automotive Engineers, RHA Legislative Council, RHA Residence Advisory Committee, RHA Leadership Conference and was president and vice president of Gregson.

DeAnn Pendry
Off Campus

A recipient of several academic scholarships and named to the Dean's List for three consecutive years, De Ann has maintained a 3.96 grade average majoring in Spanish and Latin American Studies. Serving as a study skills instructor at the Counseling Center, De Ann feels that "many people on this campus forget that the primary purpose for attending college should be academic studies." Active in campus organizations as well as academics, she served as treasurer of the International Club, Sigma Delta Pi vice president and historian for Alpha Lambda Delta. A member of Kappa Delta Sigma and the Washington County Historical Society, De Ann represented the UA at the National Leadership Methods Conference.

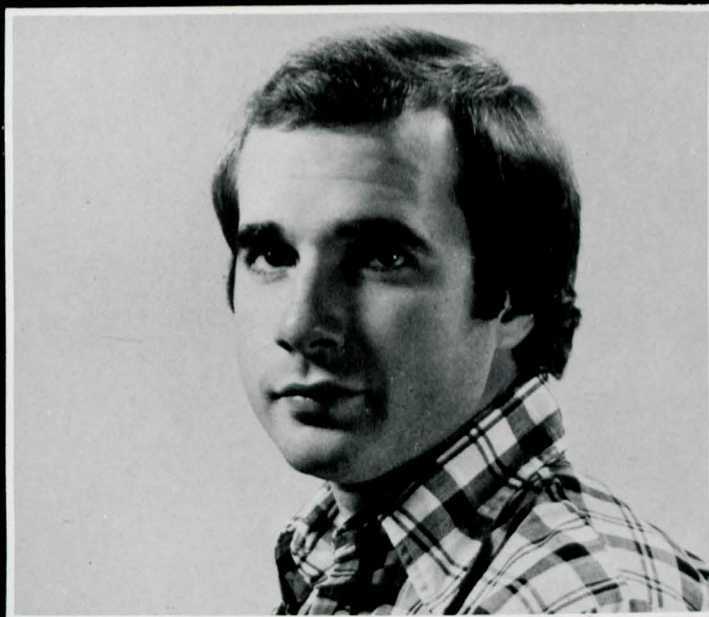

Greg Satterfield
Alpha Gamma Rho

An agricultural economics major from Green Forest, Greg has been the recipient of the Romeo Short Memorial Scholarship, Valedictorian Scholarship, Alpha Gamma Rho Scholarship Award and the David Hardy Scholarship. He was also named to the Dean's List, President's List and Phi Eta Sigma. Greg has served as Alpha Gamma Rho president and vice president, Alpha Zeta vice president, Council of Honor Societies, IFC representative and on the AGR Judicial Board. Greg is also a member of the All Student Judicial Board, Blue Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, Order of Omega, Young Democrats and Agricultural Economics Club. Greg feels "when one serves those in his immediate surroundings through leadership positions, the influences of such services are more far-reaching than often is realized."

Mark Saviers

Phi Delta Theta

Vice president of both IFC and Order of Omega, Mark worked for improvement of Greek relations. "My personal goal," Mark emphasized, "has been that better cooperation and coordination be achieved throughout the Greek system and the University community." A senior with a 3.80 grade average in marketing, Mark is from Fort Smith. He served in Blue Key, Beta Gamma Sigma and ODK. In his major, Saviers was named Outstanding Male Marketing Student, served as co-manager of the Rebsamen Trust Fund in his Portfolio Management class and won the Marketing Club Scholarship. Rush chairman for Phi Delta Theta, he also was active in his fraternity receiving a national fraternity foundation scholarship. Other involvements were with the Special Olympics, UA Human Relations Committee and Project '75 Diabetes Drive.

Vicki VanZandt Saviers

Chi Omega

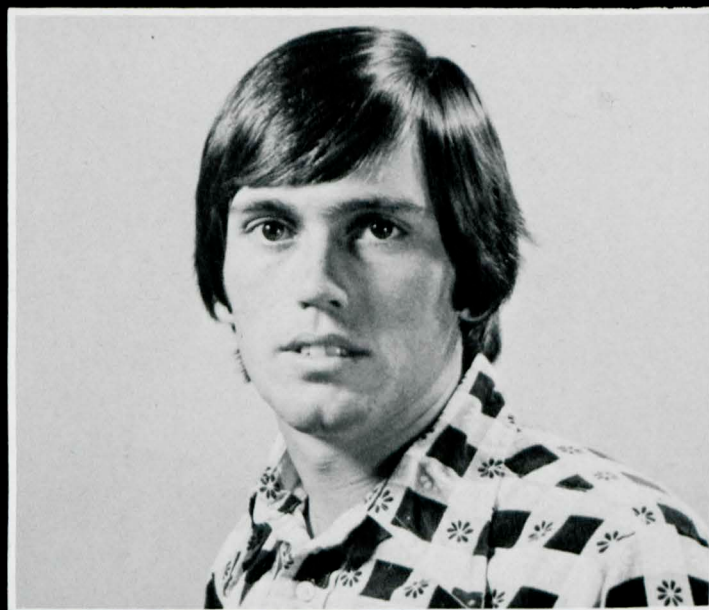

A political science major with a 3.83 grade average from Fort Smith, Vicki served as rush chairman and vice president of her sorority. Active in many service-oriented organizations including Angel Flight, Cardinal Key and Mortar Board, Vicki feels that, "by combining active participation on and off campus, hopefully I have contributed to the UA system and the Fayetteville community." A member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Order of Omega, she was also named 1st runner up to Panhellenic Model Pledge, sorority Model Pledge and Scholarship Pledge. Vicki served as assistant chairman to the All-Student Judiciary and was named to Panhellenic Rush Committee, Union Films Committee and Phi Delta Theta Little Sister.

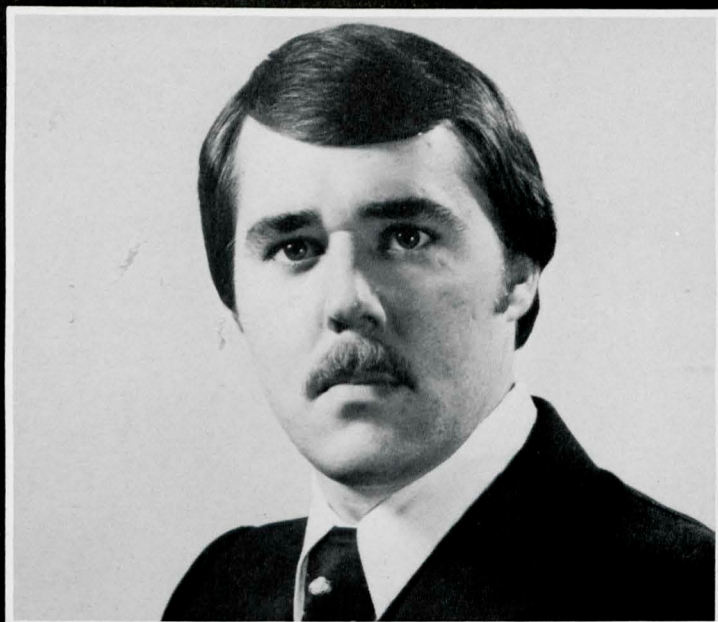

James G. Short

Sigma Chi

An accounting major from Harrison, Jim has maintained a 3.72 grade average. During his sophomore year he worked on the Student Services Allocations Committee and served as chairman of that committee his junior year adopting for the first time written guidelines for student funding. According to Jim, "I feel that in the future the allocations process will be more smooth and less open to criticism." Active in the Arkansas Union, Jim served as vice president, on the Programs Council and the Governing Board. He was the recipient of several scholarships and was named to the Dean's list five semesters and the President's List twice. Serving as treasurer of his living group, Jim was also treasurer of Cardinal XX, Blue Key, Sigma Iota Epsilon and a member of Beta Alpha Psi, Phi Eta Sigma and Order of Omega.

Greg Stidham
Sigma Chi

A second-year law student from Fayetteville, Greg feels that, "A student's most important contributions are made through campus organizations in leadership capacities to further their goals for better community life." Serving the University in this capacity, Greg was secretary of the Student Bar Association, vice president of Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, vice president of Blue Key, ASG senator and vice president of Kappa Delta Sigma. A journalism major as an undergraduate, Greg was a charter member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalists society and a founder of KUAF, serving on its administrative board. He also served as copy editor of the Traveler. Active in speech and debate, he performed in several Reader's Theatre productions and was awarded the Outstanding Contributor Award for Reader's Theatre. He was also a member of Union Film's Committee, Union Programs and Young Democrats.

Sara Stultz
Pi Beta Phi

Serving as national secretary for Cardinal Key honorary, Sara also served as president of the UA chapter of Cardinal Key. An elementary education major from Dallas, Texas, Sara served as vice president of the Union Programs Council and Pi Beta Phi sorority. Sara also held membership in Kappa Delta Pi, Alpha Lambda Delta, AWS, Order of Omega, UA Varsity Tennis Team and the Union Arts Committee. While maintaining a 3.61 grade average, Sara feels that service is an important factor in any university community. "In service and leadership, I feel that I've formed an important base for contributions to the University community."

Susan Tieman
Alpha Delta Pi

A nutrition major from Kansas City, Missouri, Susan has been on the Dean's List for three years and holds a 3.57 grade average. As president of her sorority, Susan was a member of Panhellenic and the President's Council. Believing that "worthwhile organizations depend on devoted workers to accomplish their goals," Susan was secretary of the American Home Economics Association, secretary of Razorbackers, a member of Order of Omega, Phi Upsilon Omicron and Omicron Delta Kappa. Excelling in academics, she was named the A.A.L. All-College Scholar, received the Lippert S. Ellis Scholarship and was named in the "Top Ten Students" in 1973.

Valerie Tolman

Off Campus

A journalism and English major from Gravette, Valerie served as Traveler managing editor and staff writer. "I think my major contribution has been made through my column, 'Hogwash,' which I have written for two years," stated Valerie. She was also staff writer and production manager for the Arkansas magazine. Recipient of the 1974 Springdale News Scholarship and the 1976 Arkansas Press Association Scholarship, Valerie placed 1st in the Sigma Delta Chi Best Non-Fiction Magazine Story contest. She has worked as a volunteer probation officer for Washington County Juvenile Court and is a member of ASG, Senate Advisory Council, Off Campus Students Association, Sigma Delta Chi, Publications Board and Student Service Allocations Committee.

Jean Turner

Alpha Chi Omega

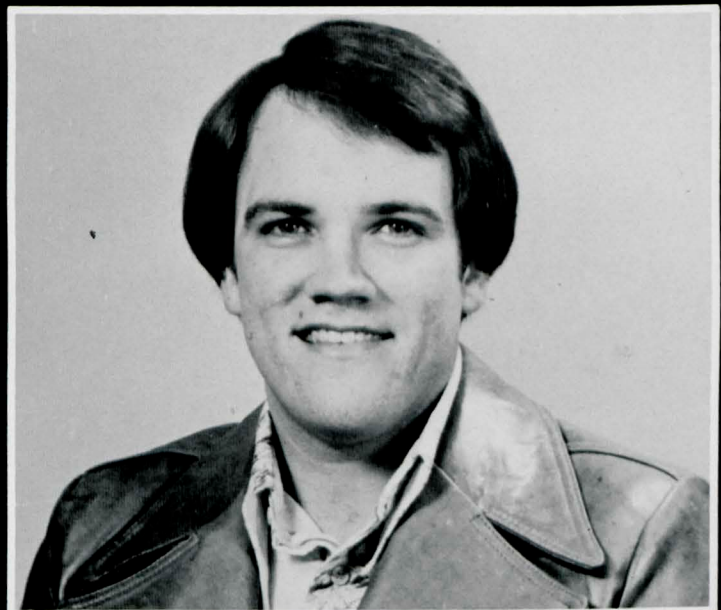

A history major from Crossett, Jeanie maintained a 3.61 grade average. She participated in ASG, Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, Order of Omega, Phi Alpha Theta, Kappa Delta Pi and Gamma Gamma Sigma. Within her sorority, Alpha Chi Omega, she served as vice president, scholarship chairman, pledge class secretary and Panhellenic representative. A little sister of Delta Upsilon, Jeanie also served on the Senate Advisory Council and was named to the President's List and the Dean's List. A recipient of the Alpha Chi Omega Scholarship Pledge Award and Scholarship Member Award, she has represented the College of Arts and Sciences as an Honors Candidate since the fall of 1975. "I have tried in my personal studies to uphold the academic standards of the University through participating in several scholastic honoraries and the Arts and Sciences Honors Program," Jeanie said.

Mark Waldrip

Alpha Gamma Rho

An agricultural economics and business major, Mark earned a 3.30 grade average in his four years at the UA. He was elected to Blue Key, Order of Omega and Cardinal XX. Vice president of Alpha Gamma Rho, Waldrip presided over Alpha Zeta, the Council of Honor Societies and the Agri-Home Ec. Student Association. He was also recognized as the recipient of several scholarships and named to the Dean's List. The senior from Moro actively participated in ASG, serving as director of the Leadership Training Program, as chairman of the ASG Commission on Leadership Training and as a senator from his fraternity and IFC. "My involvement in a number of campus organizations brought me to the realization that my efforts would go largely unnoticed as next year's 'leaders' begin where we left off. Therefore, any good that I have accomplished would be through the people that I have affected," Waldrip explained.

Unbeaten Hogs: No Big Deal 36 Years Ago

The State Senate Thursday approved a resolution "recognizing the Arkansas Razorback basketball team for one of the most outstanding seasons ever at the University of Arkansas, and extending best wishes for success in the final season games remaining." The Porkers finished the regular season at 25-1 and 16-0 in the Southwest Conference action. Their next outing will be the finals of the Southwest Conference post-season tournament March 5 at Houston, where they hope to gain a bid to the NCAA post-season tournament.

NBC's Grand Stand rated the Razorbacks as the fourth team in the nation in their "Fabulous Fifteen" rankings. San Francisco is still everyone's No. 1 team with a 27-0 record. VMI and Detroit, the other two major teams last week with only one loss, both went down to defeat Saturday. VMI lost twice while Detroit dropped a 95-88 decision to Duquesne.

Hogs Manhandle Aggies in Season Opener

A sophomore laden offensive backfield provided the firepower the Razorbacks needed to win their opening game of the 1976 football season. Halfback Ben Cowins rushed for 126 yards to pace the Arkansas ground attack. Cowins and fullback Michael Forrest scored two touchdowns each and quarterback Ron Calcagni connected on a 55-yard touchdown pass to tight end Charles Clay to complete the Razorback scoring.

Aggies Gain 'Sweet Revenge' in Cold Weather

Texas A&M scored 24 points in the second quarter to wrap up the victory that the Aggies wanted so badly. The cold weather didn't seem to hamper the A&M offense which boasted a strong running and passing game engineered by Aggie quarterback David Walker. Turnovers hurt Arkansas' momentum and proved to be the Hogs' downfall when A&M capitalized on the miscues. Ron Clagagni was injured and replaced by back-up Houston Nutt. Two Legends End Coaching Careers in Season Finale

The game was the national spotlight, as Frank Broyles and Darrell Royal ended spectacular coaching careers. Both teams suffered disappointing seasons and ended up with 5-5-1 records and were never in the Cotton Bowl picture after injuries hampered both teams at mid season. The home crowd and the return of Earl Campbell boasted the 'Horns to a 29-12 although at one point in the third quarter the score was 10-6, Texas. Ben Cowins won the SWC rushing title with an 87 yard effort.

Football Round-up

Bright prospects and hopeful optimism grew for the Razorbacks following their impressive victory over Georgia in the 1976 Cotton Bowl. Many starters returned from that powerhouse team and the Hogs were picked with the Texas Longhorns as the pre-season favorites for the SWC title. The Razorbacks opened the season with a convincing victory over Utah State but the game proved that the Porkers had a long way to come before they could be considered a great team. With starting quarterback Ron Calcagni out with an injury sophomore walk-on Mike Scott led the Razorbacks to an emotional victory over arch-rival Oklahoma St., the eventual Big Eight Champs. The Hogs did not attempt a single pass during the game but an aggressive defense helped preserve the 16-10 win. It was the first victory over Oklahoma St. by an Arkansas team in three years. The bubble burst a week later when upstart Tulsa knocked the Razorbacks from the ranks of the undefeated with a shocking 9-3 victory. Arkansas nearly pulled the game out of the bag on the last play of the game but it was not to be. The Hogs bounced back the following week and crushed hapless Texas Christian at Fayetteville. It was the 18th year in a row that the Horned Frogs had gone down to defeat at the hands of a Frank Broyles-coached Arkansas team. Arkansas bounced back in Houston and defeated the eventual SWC champions by a score of 14-7. The Razorbacks were aided with an 89-yard touchdown run by sophomore halfback Ben Cowins. It was to be the only loss suffered by Houston to another SWC team. It was a pleasant homecoming for Arkansas as the Big Red slaughtered Rice 46-14 on a cold day in Fayetteville. Nearly everyone played in the mismatch and thoughts of a Cotton Bowl position were beginning to look true. The walls came tumbling down the following week when the Hogs were tied by Baylor in Waco. A lethargic offensive showing seemed to dampen the spirits of everyone in the locker room after the game. Arkansas's only score came on a beautiful pass completion from quarterback Calcagni to flanker Bruce Hay. A national television audience watched the next week as Texas A&M completely dominated the Hogs for a 31-10 Aggie win. Revenge was in the minds of all Texas A&M fans as they remembered all too well the past Arkansas had given them the year before in knocking them out of a Cotton Bowl berth. SMU shocked everyone and ditched all hopes Arkansas had of any bowl game when the Mustangs rallied for a 35-31 triumph over the Hogs in Shreveport. It was a see-saw battle all night but the muddy field seemed to bother the Razorbacks more than SMU. Ricky Wesson of SMU had a fantastic game at quarterback for the Mustangs. Bowl bound Texas Tech invaded Little Rock and the Red Raiders galloped away with an astounding 30-7 romp. The Hogs couldn't get untracked all day and the freezing temperatures caused numerous fumbles in the Hog backfield. Rodney Allison had another good day for Texas Tech as he passed and ran circles around the Arkansas defense. Another national television audience witnessed a game that meant nothing but pride for both Texas and Arkansas. Coach Frank Broyles and Darrell Royal had both announced their retirement at the conclusion of the game so it was an emotional high for both teams. Texas struck early but the Hogs countered with two Steve Little field goals before Earl Campbell led the Longhorns and prevailed 29-12 in Austin. The season did have its bright spots with Ben Cowins capturing the SWC rushing title and many of the younger players getting a lot of playing time. Lou Holtz has a good nucleus of players that will be on hand for the 1977 season in hopes that the Razorbacks can bring the SWC title and a Cotton Bowl victory back to Arkansas.

J. Brewer

FRANK BROYLES: The End of an Era

Frank Broyles was a winner. The legendary coach of the Razorbacks resigned December 4, 1976 after a disappointing loss to the Texas Longhorns. Coach Broyles brought Arkansas into national prominence during the sixties and seventies with two national championships and ten bowl game trips. With Broyles at the helm, Arkansas became a hotbed for other schools looking for a new head coach. He tutored numerous players who became standouts in professional football or went on to become successful head coaches at other schools.

Broyles had a great relationship with the press and fans over the years and he was always available for comment on the prospects of his Razorback football teams. It has been said by many that Broyles practically built the Arkansas athletic department. Many students and friends of the University can't remember Razorback football without Broyles. During his 19 years with the Hogs Broyles brought pride to both the University and the state. Arkansas will miss him in the coaching capacity but the memories will always linger with the proud moments of Razorback football that Broyles brought during his tenure as head coach. The 1977 Razorback is proud to salute a man who made the name Razorbacks, something to take great pride in.

Hogs Arrive a Year Early!

The Arkansas Razorback basketball team arrived a year early and played championship ball all year. The 1977 edition of Razorback roundballers broke numerous records on their way to an impressive 26-2 tally, the second best record in the country.

The Hogs opened the schedule with easy victories over Air Force and California State-Hayward and won a squeaker over Southwest Missouri State. Razorback followers knew their team had the potential to win the Southwest Conference and possibly go undefeated, but there were those who had to be convinced.

Brilliant offensive play by Sidney Moncrief, Ron Brewer, and Marvin Delph sparked the Hogs to more wins, including crucial victories over Big Eight teams like Kansas at Lawrence and Kansas State — the eventual Big Eight Champ.

With an 8-0 record on the line, the Porkers hosted highly regarded Memphis State at Barton Coliseum in front of the largest crowd ever to watch a basketball game in the state of Arkansas. The Razorbacks played tough and held the lead until the waning moments of the contest when Memphis State put an effective full court press into use that proved to be the Razorback downfall in a 69-63 win for MSU.

Coach Eddie Sutton called the loss “a blessing in disguise” because it brought out weaknesses in the Hog game plan.

Arkansas’ poise proved to be a major factor in their opening win in conference play over Texas Tech when Brewer canned a 35-foot jump shot to boost the Hogs over the ever tough Red Raiders, the 42-39 win was the first ever for the Hogs at Lubbock.

After a close game with the Houston Cougars (81-70), the Razorbacks reeled off eight more SWC victories before the second encounter with the Cougs. The offensive firepower of the three basketeers and the defensive play of Jim Counce and Steve Stroud helped the Hogs bury all their opponents by lengthy margins.

The second Houston game proved to be all it was billed to be as sophomore center Steve Schall came off the bench to spark the Porkers to an 82-80 triumph. It was Houston’s first loss of the season at Hofhienz Pavilion before 10,000 screaming Cougar fans.

A day later the Big Red again amazed everyone when they were down to Tulane by 14 points with only nine minutes remaining. Brewer led the team down the stretch and it was another Arkansas victory, 76-73. Baylor, Rice, TCU, Texas, and Texas A&M all fell under the wrath of the Hogs after the Tulane game before the conference tournament.

The Razorbacks earned a bye in the tournament by going 16-0 in conference play and 25-1 on the regular season. Moncrief, Brewer, and Delph were named to the All-SWC team along with Houston’s Otis Birdsong and Tech’s Mike Russell. In addition to these awards, Coach Sutton was named the basketball writers’ Coach of the Year for guiding his team to their impressive record.

As expected, Houston made it to the finals of the SWC tourney and in a game where Arkansas was down by as much as six points in the second half, the Hogs staged another patented comeback to trounce Houston for the third time in one year, 80-74. No other college basketball team had ever done that to the Cougars and probably no one ever will again.

Delph led all scorers with 552 points on the year. He was followed by Brewer with 459 points and Moncrief with 431. Both Moncrief and Brewer finished high in field goal percentage among the major schools and the team’s defense was ranked as high as fourth late in the season.

The 26 victories were the most ever recorded by an Arkansas team. The Hogs also broke attendance records wherever they played during the course of the year.

It was an illustrious year for Arkansas basketball. Fan support reached an all time peak as the Hogs played to a sellout each home game. The renovation of Barnhill Arena is to continue and the program should only improve. With four of the starting five returning, the Razorbacks could be the next NCAA champions.

The Razorback basketball team brought recognition not only to the University of Arkansas but to the state. The team was loved by all and Eddie Sutton’s name became a household word. The 16-0 record in SWC was a Conference first and the Hogs fail to lose at Barnhill or on the road. The two losses were both on neutral sites.

Arkansas basketball was also getting recognition from other sections of the country. The Razorbacks were chosen to represent the United States in an international tournament in Brazil in April and May. Competing there, were the Russian national team that won a gold medal in the 1972 Olympics at Munich. The Hogs were also ranked in both UPI and AP polls and were the subject of stories in magazines and newspapers across the country.

If this was the year when the Hogs were supposed to be a year away then not only the SWC, but the nation should be aware that the Hogs have arrived, only a year early.

Post-Season

Tournaments

Hogs Down Cougars 80-74,

Although the post season play ended before many Razorback fans would have liked for it to, the 1977 basketball season was a tremendous success.

Post season play for the Hogs began after a 15 day layoff as the Hogs played Houston again for the right to the NCCA tournament. The six defeats had all come in the hands of the top-ranked teams.

The finals of the tournament was completely new to the SWC, as over 15,000 fans piled into the Summit in Houston to witness an epic battle between the Cougars and the Hogs.

Arkansas fans stole the hometown advantage right away from Houston, as over 5,000 Hog-callers called the Hogs all night, at times drowning out the Cougar band.

The game went along with the tempo of the crowd as the Hogs jumped out and left the Cougars, leading by as much as 12 points during the first half. But the Cougars and the Houston fans were not to be denied as the Cougs put on a show of their own and took a 36-35 halftime lead.

The Cougars came back hot in the second half leading at times by as much as six points. But the Hogs rejected the Coug's bid, as Ron Brewer and the Hogs came back to overshadow Otis Birdsong and the Houston fans to prove that the Hogs were the King of the SWC.

The next week was not quite as happy for the Hog fans. The Hogs faced a powerful ACC team, Wake Forest, in the opening round of the NCCA tournament at Norman, Oklahoma.

The Hogs were slight favorites riding on a 18 game winning streak and the Deacons were on a four game losing skid. More than 6,000 Hog fans invaded Norman with visions of Atlanta in their heads. The Hogs almost ran the Deacons back to North Carolina before the first half ended, leading by 13 at halftime. But the Deacons failed to give up and after a few quick baskets and a few questionable calls, the lead was suddenly one point and then the roof caved in. With less than five minutes remaining, Sidney Moncrief, the heart of the team, fouled out and doubt suddenly appeared. Wake Forest then converted 18 straight free throws while the Hogs failed to hit the front end of important one and one. Tears filled the eyes of Hog fans and the Hogs came back home two weeks early losing 86-80.

The Hogs left early, but many observers felt that they wouldn't be gone for long and that next year post season play for Arkansas would never end. Besides, who could cry about a 27-2 record?

Hogs!!! Hogs!!! Hogs!!!

Received National attention after wins over Houston, Tulane, Baylor, Kansas on the road and failed to lose at Barnhill. Slowly but surely the Hogs moved up in the Top Twenty ranking and were feared everytime they took to the court. It seems that the Hogs had arrived a year early. Look Out NCAA.

Track

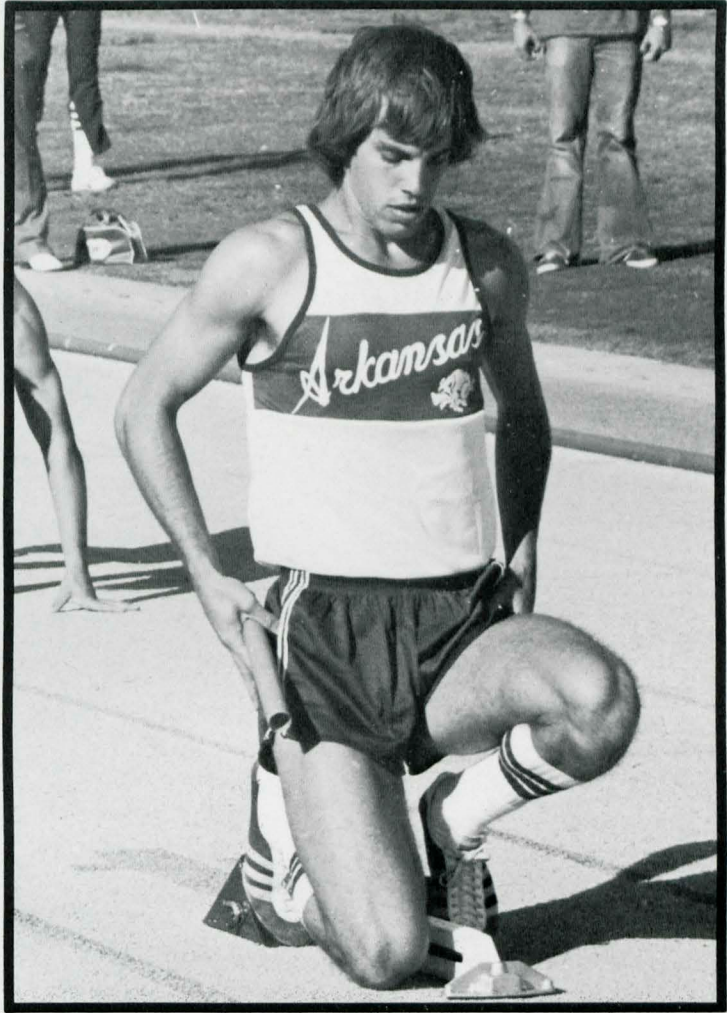

The Razorback track team was much improved overall during the 1977 track season. With the aid of members from the Southwest Conference Champion Cross Country team, the Razorback Runners were heard from in every meet that they competed in during the indoor and outdoor track season.

Cross Country star Niall O'Shaughnessy, who competed in the Montreal Olympics brought national attention to the Razorback track program, breaking record after record in meets across the country.

Freshman sprinter, Kerwin Washington and footballer Barnabus White helped out greatly in the sprints, which had always been a weak point in Razorback track program.

Bob Williams gather points in the field events and Malcom East and Steve Baker anchored the Mile Relay. Other standouts included Clark Morman in the 440 yard relay and Duane Pickert.

Hog Netters Face Top Teams

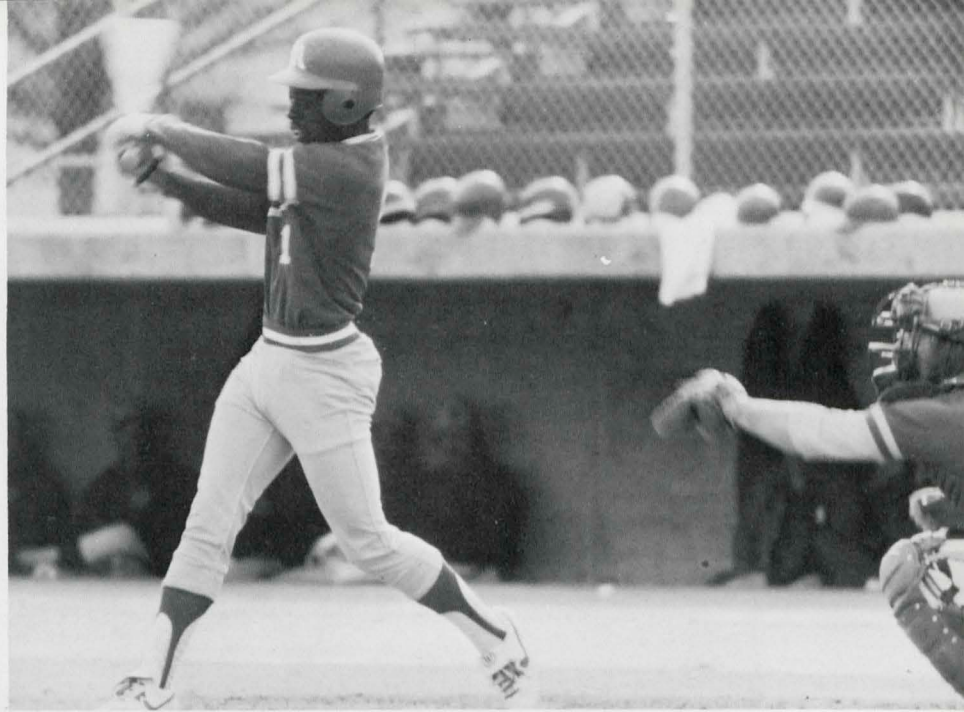

Arkansas's tennis team started the year with a torrid start as Tom Pucci's squad rolled up a 7-0 record. A tough road trip into Texas during mid-season cost the Hogs some matches but it enable Pucci's young team to gain valuable experience. The Razorbacks also competed in the Northwest Arkansas Professional Tournament where several players won their respective matches against the pros. Buddy Bowman led the Hogs to their victories throughout the season, aided by Mike Vogl, John Bailey, Ron Hightower and Peter Hawking. The Razorbacks have given Arkansas the much deserved attention in tennis that the team earned with their excellent play all year.

Baseball Team Bids for NCCA Playoffs

The Arkansas baseball team posted one of the best overall records in the school's history with milestone victories over Oral Roberts, Iowa State, Houston, and an early season eight game winning streak. Pitching proved to be a major strongpoint against the opposition. Pat Anderson, Mark McClain, Bill Bakewell and Rich Erwin continuously stifled opposing batters producing shutouts and one-hitters at a constant rate. Ralph Bradbury, Marc Brumble, Jeff Spence, Hank Thompson and Arvis Harper provided the powerful batting and the excellent fielding that is a needed ingredient for a winning team. Tim Lollar and Teddy Asbill were noted for their excellent relief work in the late innings of close games. The Hogs hosted over 30 games on their home field (George Cole Field), in its second year of use and the Hogs played the Arkansas Travelers in an exhibition game in Little Rock.

Women's Athletics

Female athletes were finally recognized in 1976-77 with the first ten women's athletic scholarships ever awarded at the U. of A. Tuition and fee payments up to $500 per year were given to those women who had excelled in their respective areas. All of the scholarship winners feel encouragement for the women's sports program as the new help Arkansas become more competitive and attract quality athletes to Fayettev

This year's tennis team changed some of its competition by adding out-of-state to its schedule. Nineteen women participated in firmly establishing women's tennis at Arkansas.

The eight-member gymnastics team excelled in competition despite the few numbers involved and limited practice time. Facing many teams from Texas, Missouri, and Tennessee, as well as Arkansas, the Razorback gymnasts showed great form and talent.

Lady Razorback basketball audiences increased this year in number and enthusiasm as the long waits for the other games prompted Barnhill to fill early. Both the team and the crowds were pleased. Basketball at Arkansas is a sport for both men and women.

Outstanding Athletes

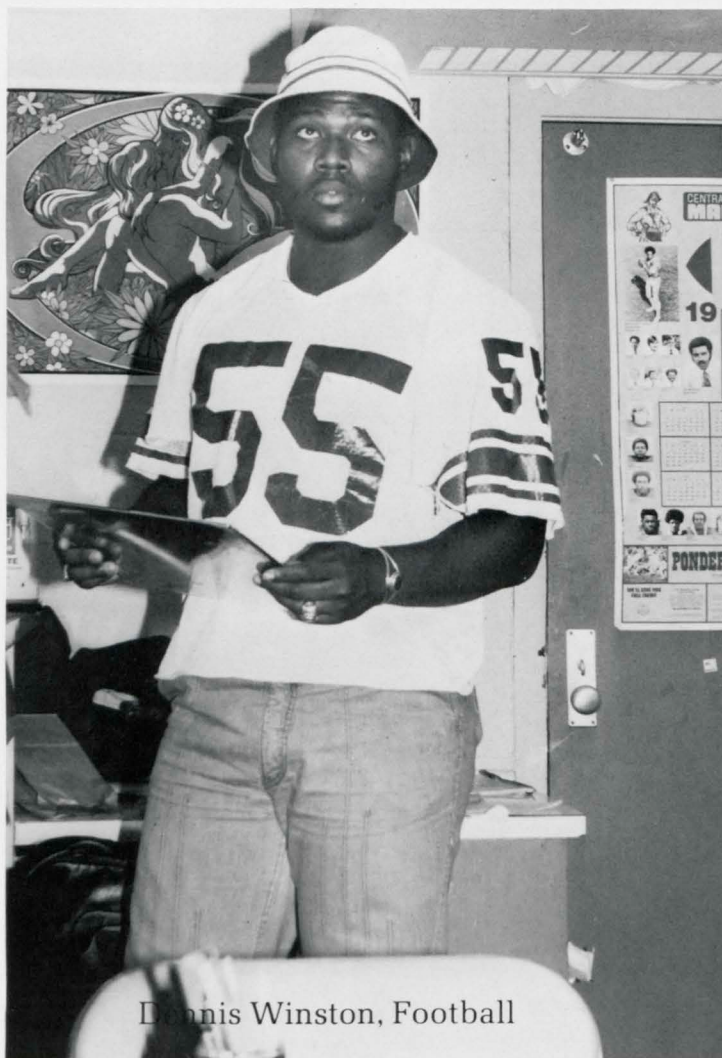

Despite a 5-5-1 record, the Arkansas Razorback football team had several outstanding players who were not only recognized locally but nationwide. Steve Little (left) was named All-American by the Kodak Coaches poll. A junior from Overland Park, Kansas, Steve holds all kicking records at the UofA and Steve is only a junior. R. C. Thielmann (lower left) was a four year letterman for the Porkers. A senior marketing major from Houston, Texas, R. C. was named to the all SWC team and was considered a prime pro prospect. Cited by SPORTS ILLUSTRATED for his play against Houston, Dennis Winston (lower left) was named SWC player of the week and AP national player of the week twice during his career as a Porker. The senior from Marianna, Arkansas was also selected for several post-season games.

Outstanding Athletes

Ben Cowins (left) proved to be the runningback he was billed as out of high school as the sophomore from St. Louis powered his way for 1,162 yards to win the Southwest Conference rushing title. Cowins averaged 105.6 yards a game and an almost unbelievable 6.3 yards every time he touched the ball. Cowins ran for 186 yards against Houston including an 89-yard touchdown romp. Cowins was a unanimous all-Southwest Conference player for the '76 season and was chosen most valuable offensive player.

Harvey Hampton (bottom right) was the winner of both the Crip Hall Award and most valuable defensive player. His never-give-up attitude and his emotional outbursts became somewhat of a trademark for the four year starter from Forrest City. This past season, Harvey had 40 unassisted tackles and 30 assisted tackles. He had sacks for a total loss of 46 yards to the opposition and was named SWC player of the week for his play against Houston.

Niall O'Shaugnessy (bottom left) brought the Arkansas track program into the National spotlight this year with outstanding performances against world-class runners at prestigious track meets. O'Shaugnessy, a former Montreal Olympian from Ireland, was clocked at 3.55.4, the second fastest indoor mile ever recorded, at a quadrangular meet at the University of Missouri. The talented Irishman also represented Arkansas at an Olympic Invitational meet in New York's Madison Square Garden and finished a strong third behind winner John Walker of New Zealand. O'Shaugnessy returned to New York to compete in the AAU Championships and ran a 3.57.4 mile to finish a close second behind Tanzania's Filbert Baye. Niall also anchored the SWC champion cross country team for Arkansas.

Outstanding Athletes

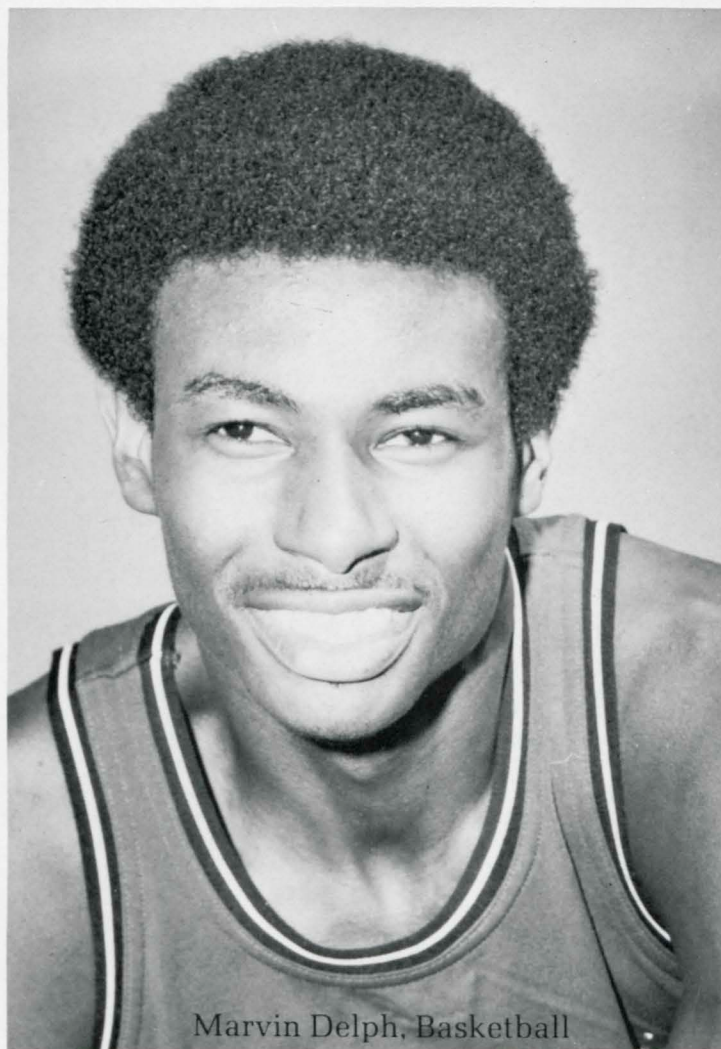

Prime reasons for Arkansas's sudden rise to basketball fame were three young men, all from Arkansas who became known all over the country as the three basketeers. A junior from Fort Smith Northside, Ron Brewer (left) was termed by many as one of the best guards in the country. An all SWC player, Ron (or Boo) brought fans to their feet several times during the season with his ball handling and shooting. Named SWC Freshman of the Year in 1976, Sidney Moncrief (right) was named All SWC in 1977. A sophomore from Little Rock Hall, Sidney led the team in rebounds and was second in the nation in shooting percentages. A three year (lower left) letterman from Conway, Marvin Delph was the leading scorer for the Hogs, popping in 30 points against SMU. Delph was also an all SWC selection and amazed the crowd with his shooting accuracy.

Outstanding Athletes

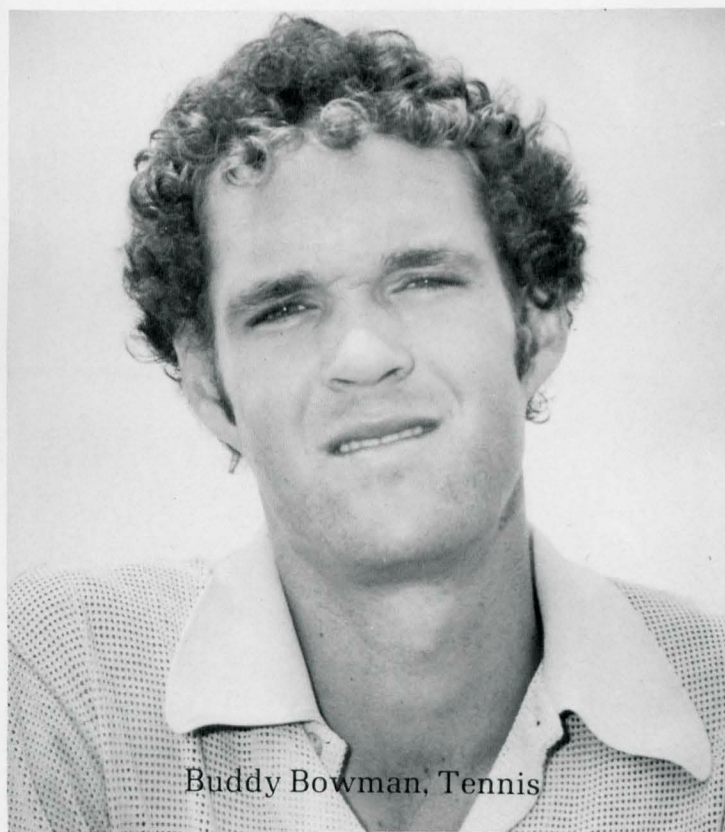

Doug Wilnes, Swimming

Mark McClain (lower left) was one of the most effective and consistent pitchers on the Razorback squad this past season. The senior hurler, from Houston, Texas, chalked up several important victories for the Hogs early in the season. Mark transferred to Arkansas from San Jacinto Junior College. There he helped pitch his team to the semi-finals in the juco world series.

Doug Wilnes (left) has probably done as much for Razorback swimming as any former athlete at the University of Arkansas. Doug capped his successful career at Arkansas this year in the same fashion as he had in the past three years — a winner. The senior out of Lincoln, Nebraska was a main force in the shorter sprint races for the Hog swimmers. Wilnes competed in the NCAA swim tournament, which is quite an accomplishment since not many Razorback swimmers have enjoyed that privilege.

Buddy Bowman (bottom right), for the second year in a row, was the number one seeded player on the tennis team. The Little Rock native, only a sophomore, and the top player in the state. Several times during the schedule, Bowman was the only Razorback player to win his match or consistently look good. Bowman has two more years of competition facing him and that is nothing but good news to Razorback tennis fans.

Outstanding Athletes

Barnabas White, already a noted runningback in football, utilized his blinding speed for the indoor and spring track seasons this year. White was clocked at :09.6 in the 100 yard dash and :21.5 in the 220. His most memorable feat was tying the meet record at the USTFF Championships at Champaign, Illinois. White, a junior from Marion ran a :06.1 60-yard dash to win the event and represent the University of Arkansas at the NCCA indoor national finals in Detroit.

Majoring in physical education, Marsha is a junior from Eufala, Oklahoma. Representing the women's tennis team, Janan Trimble is ranked the number one woman tennis player in Arkansas. Janan is a junior business major from Little Rock. Donna Williams, a member of the gymnastics team, is a junior from Fayetteville majoring in physical education. Donna was selected this year to receive one of the ten scholarships given to women athletes for the first time on this campus.

"The Union is really the hub of the campus," Bill Farmer explains. As President of the Arkansas Union Programs Council, Farmer serves the university community as no other student leader does. His organization offers recreation, space, symposium facilities, and a talent-rich staff that somehow stays ahead of U of A demands. "It's where people go for their meetings, for entertainment; it's where they go to eat; it's where to go for financial aid . . ."

Smooth operation for the complex results from a solid organization structure. Three executives oversee the workings of a dozen committees, the heads of which serve on the Council. Travel Committee organizes inexpensive, quality trips for interested students.

lin was a new experience for us. She was a comedian, not a show. We didn't break even on the show; we didn't make money. But we found people enjoy not only a concert but a comedian. It was different." Behind the entertainment came special cooperation to put the show across. Lily Tomlin involved the co-sponsorship of another organization, AWS, and work from Celebrity Showcase, Special Projects, and Programs Council itself.

"One of the things we did this year — it was more accidental than not — was to develop our programs to include not only entertainment but academics. We did plan on academics," Bill continued, "but we didn't realize how much we would overlap into academics." The Union has been complimented by administrators because of the academic, cultural and educational content in Union Programs.

Aside from the programs each committee offers, the Arkansas Union gives learning experience and training for the committee chairmen and members. Over 150 students are directly associated with the Council, most of whom participate in other campus activities. "I think that this year we have created experts."

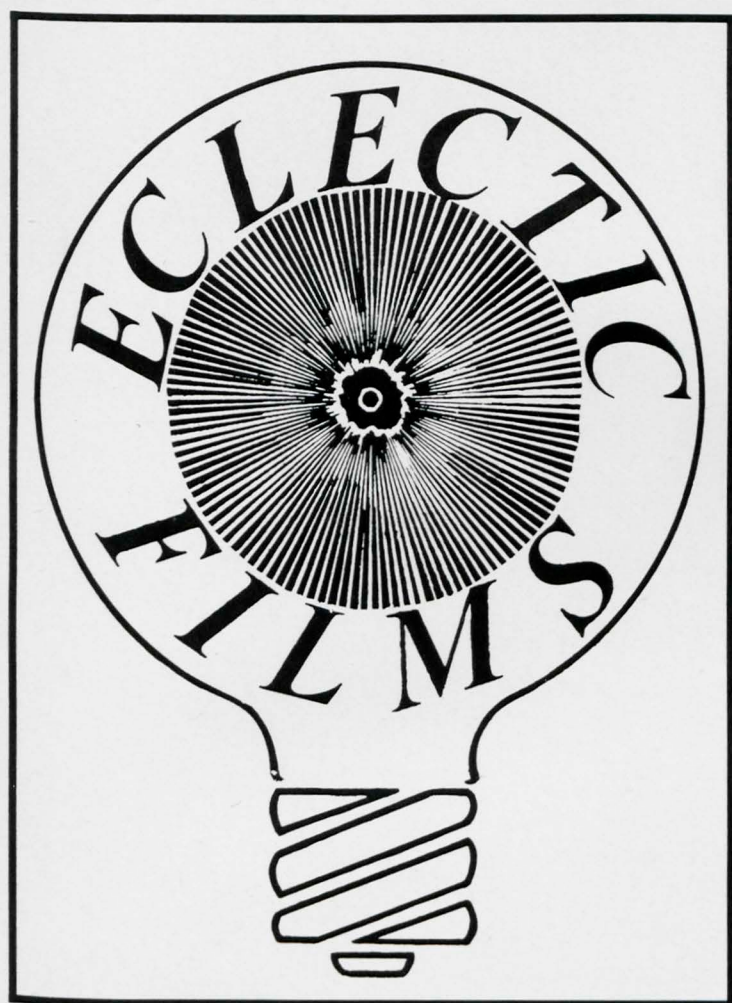

Farmer discusses the people he relies on with the ease that leaders who head successful organizations must feel. "It's surprising — They don't know they're experts until they confront someone else with their problems."

Along with the individuals involved, the Arkansas Union becomes more expert. Overall they do what they do well: A $180,000 annual budget serves 105,000 persons, according to Jim Short, AU Vice President.

Governing Board, which Bill Overby chairs, acts as the board of directors for the Union. The staff has help, too, with guidance from three advisors: Anne Kittrell, Don Burke, and Terry Muse.

Union workers often find a self-satisfaction in their jobs. A proud president asserts, "I've never seen people as dedicated . . ."

Besides, it looks like fun.

Acapulco hosted three dozen enthusiastic, tan U of A-ers on a more-glamorous-than-usual spring break. Pop Films schedules first-run films along with Hepburn classics in the Union Theatre, while turning a profit this year to subsidize other Union projects.

Celebrity Showcase experiments with a talent field not often recruited for campus lectures. Bill Farmer emphasizes: "Lily Tom-

Students "On the Hill" Find Rewards

The majority of students at a campus of several thousand disassociate themselves from school organizations. Others enjoy campus news and the many outlets for involvement. A few, however, find themselves at the apex of the syndrome, holding leadership positions others consider formidable. At Fayetteville, these are the students On the Hill.

Often misunderstood, these student leaders and their actions reflect a multitude of motivations and incentives. Their dedication to activities traces to their high schools, where not a few earned statewide offices in similar organizations. Four schedule-weary years later, the presidents and editors find themselves with some goals met, accomplishments compiled, and usually a place in Who's Who.

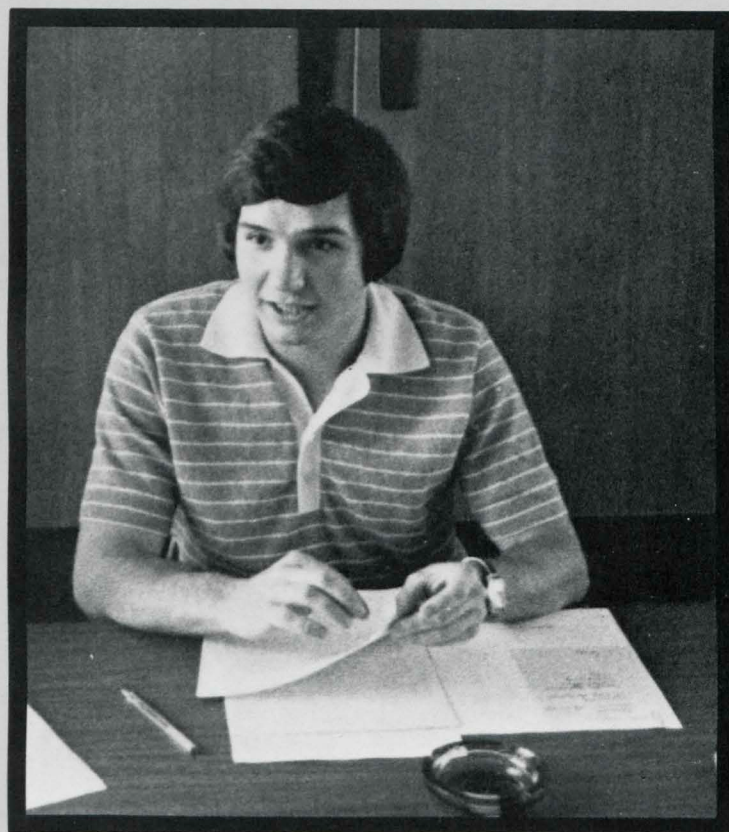

ASG President Ed Lynch puts a full work week into his office. Demands include appearances at conferences and attendance at meetings unfamiliar to most, who would probably not appreciate them anyway. Lynch finds the job expectations high. "People expect you to be an administrator." The role-playing seems to plague him, as Lynch asserts, "Student leaders are students first." A good-natured senior from Hot Springs, Ed laughs at the impact time demands have had on his lifestyle. "I cannot plan my total week and then plan a social week with it, not like other students do. You can't just leave that office at work . . . But if you didn't like it you wouldn't do it!"

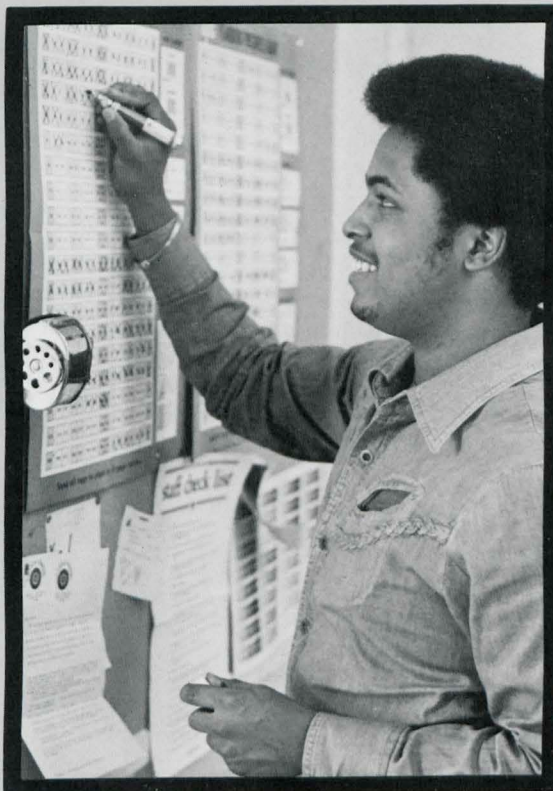

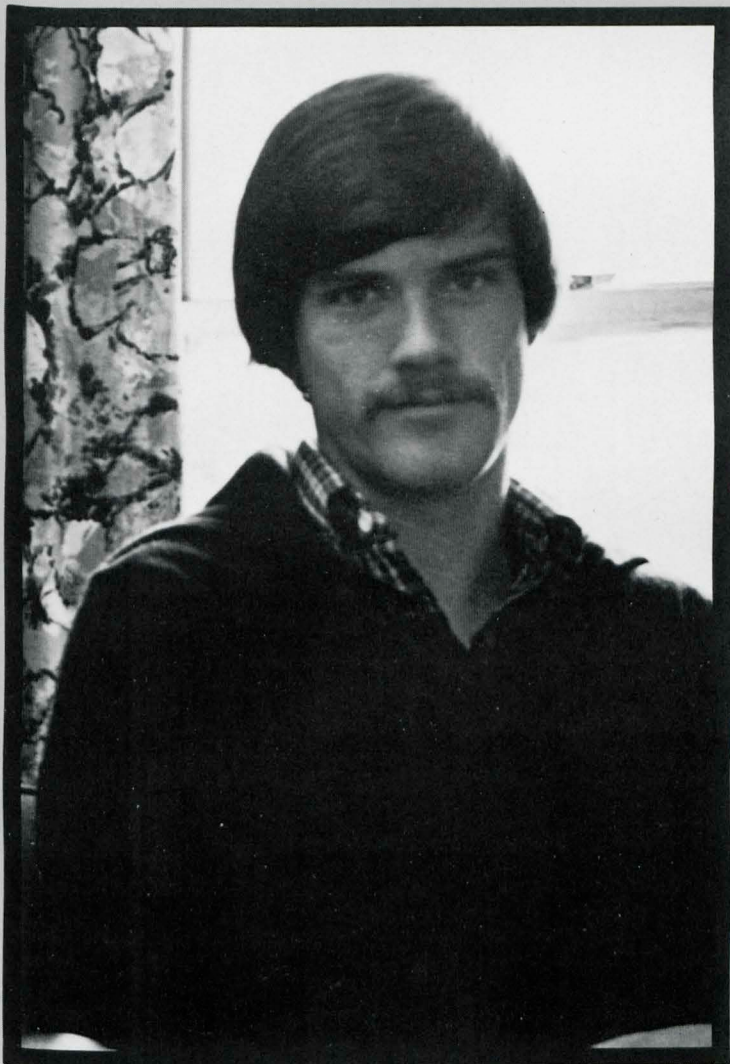

Others found themselves making a choice early in college. Lynn Harris knew his options: either to be academic or be involved. A Razorback cheerleader and yearbook editor, Lynn confesses, "I wouldn't be happy if I were a strictly academic person." Rewards for his efforts seem to be as multi-faceted as are his interests. The publications experience is easily explained for a J-major. Cheerleading, however, is "a way to get out the ham I think is in everybody . . . It's fun, and exercise." Aside from the lighter aspects, Harris has found lasting advantages to his work. "Achieving goals helps to build more character and instills confidence in yourself."

Jeanie Collyge describes her devotion to extra-curriculars as an "addiction." A senior from Fort Smith named to Hall of Fame, Jeanie directed her energy into the ASG office this year as Vice President. A tremendous sense of organization guides Collyge: "The more involved a person is the more conscious they are of their time." With priorities, she explains, "Everything seems to fall in place."

On being involved: "It's affected me positively. Through involvement I've seen other facets of the University . . . No regrets. I look back and see it's done so much for me." The academics seem a bit removed, however. As a result of whatever incentive triggers fear, Collyge insists, "I scare myself into studying every semester. I keep going and going and going . . ."

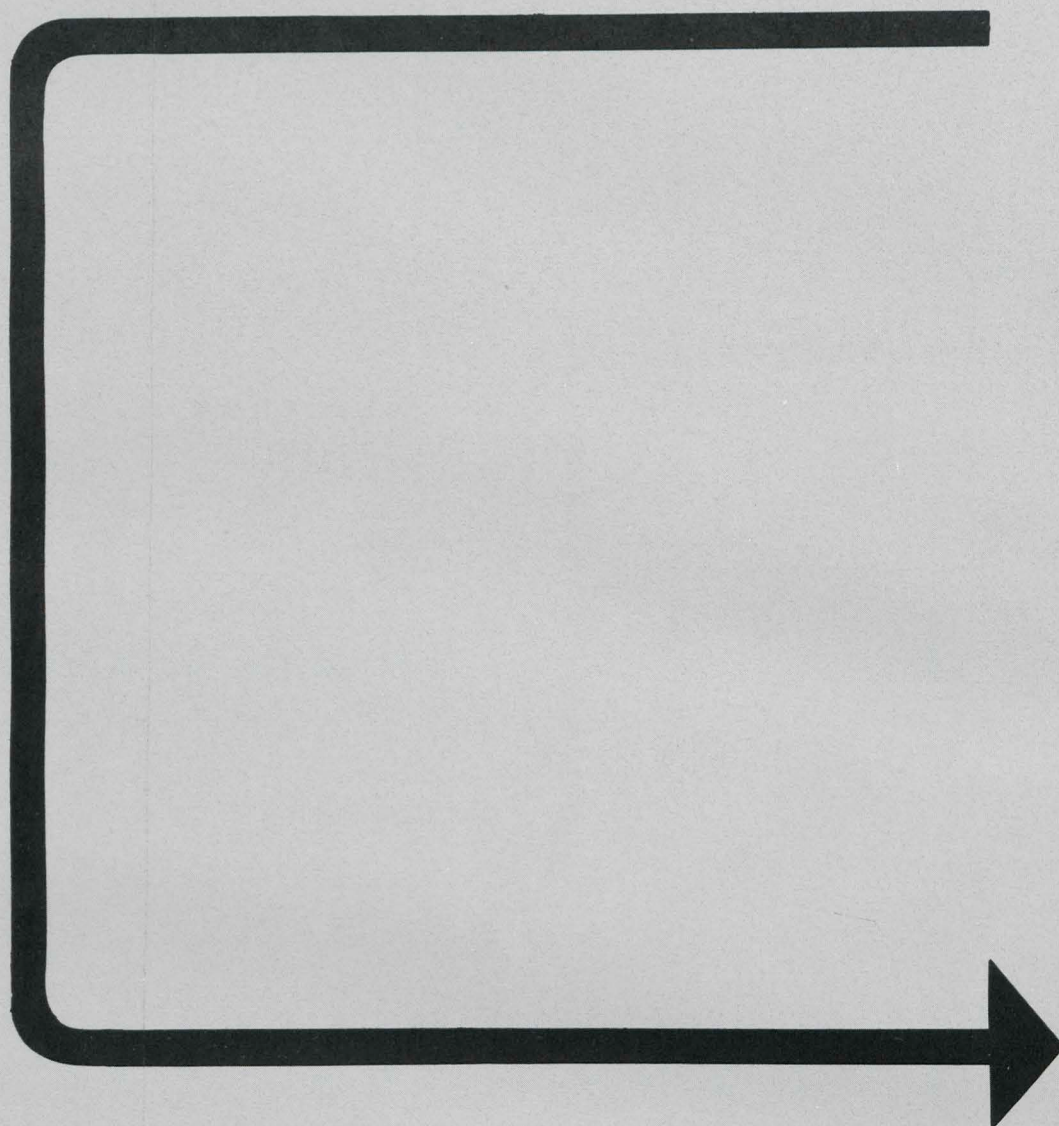

Another prime spot for developing leaders rests in living groups and their respective organizations. RHA President Ken Carter began his work with dorms as a freshman concerned with a particular issue in his hall. As this interest led to his present position Ken says, "I wanted to be a part of student government and wanted to help students." Soon after he realized somebody had to do the things to be done Carter saw the opportunity. Still a junior he finds himself more aware of things on campus. "I've been exposed to different attitudes and opinions that I wouldn't have had I not been in this position."

DEPARTMENT OF AEROSPACE STUDIES
UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS
AFROTC DETACHMENT 30
FAYETTEVILLE, ARKANSAS 72701

To All University of Arkansas Students:

This year has been the most productive and successful for Air Force ROTC at "the University." We have continued to expand our enrollment and increase the number of officers we commission. We have achieved the enviable position of being the strongest, most viable Air Force ROTC detachment among the 20 detachments in the 5 state area of Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Noteworthy among the many achievements of our cadets and angel's was raising $16,000 for the American Cancer Society, the support given to the Richardson Clinic in Fayetteville, being selected as Area Headquarters for Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight; having one of our Angels compete for National office and having 65% of our Juniors and Seniors on Scholarship.

This is my last year as Professor of Aerospace Studies at the University; as I leave I would like to express my appreciation to the administration, students and faculty of the University for your support and cooperation. Your efforts are helping provide a most valuable part our country's defense - the Air Force Officer.

Sincerely,

William E. Chatfield

PARTING THOUGHTS

It's early Monday morning, the first day of spring. What a more fitting time than now to sit down and jot down my thoughts on the year and the 1977 Razorback. This is a moment I've waited for since my first week at the University. For it was then that I realized that the Razorback was the tradition at the University that I wanted to be a part of, to improve on and make it a lasting tradition. In less than a month the 1977 Razorback will no longer be a dream but a reality.

The year began with several goals. Right now the staff and I have a good feeling about what we've done this year because so many of our goals were accomplished.

We wanted to be the first staff in a long time to meet every deadline and insure that the book would be back before finals. We've had several close calls and at times even the most optimistic staff members looked worried, but somehow we always pulled the coals out of the fire. We wanted to produce a book that every person at the University of Arkansas could find something in the book that related to them. We wanted you to be able to say "Yeah I can dig that."

Yearbooks are special books, so it's important that the readers are able to find that something special in "their" book. We wanted to produce a book that would be considered the best Razorback ever, one that students, alumni, staff and administrators could be proud of and that journalistically the book could compete as one of the best in the country. We as students and those directly involved with the University have a lot to be proud of, a yearbook such as this can reflect this. Sure some may say that it's a rah-rah, joe college, yea hogs, type of book, but we invite you to take a closer look, there is a bit of you here. We also hope that the '77 Razorback will encourage future staffs to each year try and produce a book better than the year before. That they won't settle for second best and will work to make this tradition not only get older but better.

Although the staff was relatively small, we were all from different walks of campus life. We actively sought the advice of students and staff outside the confines of hill hall. As a staff and as individuals we made ourselves open for comments and ideals and were of the opinion that each individual at the U of A had something to offer in helping us to keep a tradition going and in producing the near-perfect book.

As a staff we realized that no matter how hard we tried that mistakes would be made and critics would appear. Critics are good in that they help you to realize some of your weak points, but this criticism must be constructive to have any type of meaning and value.

It's so much that can be said and said again about yearbooks, especially the '77 Razorback, but with the fear of sounding over dramatic I will go on with the purpose of parting thoughts to thank all the people involved in helping to make this the best Razorback ever.

So on with the show. First I'd like to thank you, the students, staff, administrators, and alumni of the University of Arkansas. You gave us smiles, comments, ideals, frankness and a special appeal that leads all the rest. Most of all you gave yourself as a part of the tradition rich University of Arkansas. Without you, these pages would be blank and a tradition would have died.

Then there was the staff. The people who spent endless hours working because they believe in the institution that the Razorback is and the tradition that it holds. Without the staff, this moment and this book would never exist. I feel guilty in being able to sit here and write down my thoughts in the book when everyone on the staff worked just as hard as myself.

Cindy Carroll started the year as secretary of the staff and we really missed her the second semester. Cindy did a fantastic job in keeping the office going and brought with her a special inner beauty that spread throughout the office.

Cathy Winfrey, Brenda Allen and Bennie Hopkins did all the busy work, the jobs nobody else would do and they didn't seem to mind a bit. They joked about it, made it enjoyable and kept me laughing the whole afternoon. I looked forward to each afternoon when the trio would come to work, leaving me with never a dull moment.

I must also thank some friends who helped with the book, but due to other commitments (namely school) limited the amount of time they were able to spend in the office. Joanne Mazur, Michelle Adcock, Cathee Crain, Elizabeth Puddefath and Vicki Harris all added so much into making the year go so good and really added a lot to the book.

Our sports section is one of the strongest sections in the book. Jim Chaffin did a great job with the copy and combined with both of our loves for sports, I made a lasting friend. Jane Hopkins, Debbie Holland, Becky Brewer, and Debra Wilson handled the job of associate editor, copy editor and production manager with a professional approach. They were never too busy to give a helping hand to someone else on the staff even when they had tons of work to do themselves. They proved to be remarkable young ladies with special talent to do nothing but great work and I wish them love, luck, and thanks in their future endeavors.

Photography makes or breaks a yearbook. As you can see, the photography in the '77 Razorback is outstanding. With the additional use of color, the photography became even more important. Chuck Cunningham headed the staff of photographers. Although we didn't see eye to eye on some issues, Chuck did a great job with the photography and had earned my respect as a photographer and as an individual. Rex Guynn turned in top quality work all year and I knew that I could always count on Rex when a deadline arose and that the work would be super. Although Chris Hagler was the head photographer for the Traveler he was around to help us whenever we needed him. I have really enjoyed getting to know and work with Chris in student publications over the last couple of years. Leroy Schafenberg came on late in the year but he couldn't have come at a better time. He too turned in top quality work and future student publications at the University will benefit from Leroy's talent and knowledge of photography.

I must also thank Tim Ernest and Phil Ezell of Photographs Unlimited. They helped us so much during the year and did a fantastic job with producing the color in the book. They always gave us fast service and never turned us down when we asked some almost impossible favors. I can't thank them enough for helping us to reach our goal of top quality in color photography.

Brooks Swink was a photographer too, but in a completely different sense. The artwork throughout the book is Brooks's photography and as you can see he did a superb job. Brooks combined his super personality and his artistic talents to help make the artwork appear as a special type photography. He also kept us laughing on the trips to Dallas.

While I'm on photographers I couldn't write my final thoughts without making mention of Carl Hitt, The University photographer. Carl became a good friend to all the members of the staff and became our unofficial advisor and would work overtime without compensation to help us make our deadlines. Added with the fact that he was an outstanding photographer his great sense of humor and personality cheered us up during even our dullest moment in Hill Hall. I know the staff feels the same way I do when I say that we've made a lifetime friend in Carl.

One of my best friends proves to me that you can always count on friends. Carl Gessler came to us during the spring semester to see if he could just help out. We gave him a job that nobody else wanted, selling ads. Of course Gessler being Gessler did a great job. I can feel lucky in having friends like Carl.

On every staff there are always people who you think that somebody knew you would need so they sent them to you. Well, somebody sent me three. Sharon Morgan served as production supervisor and spent every afternoon in the office doing whatever she could to make sure that the book was the best. She brought with her a special warmth that made everyone on the staff respect her ability as a leader. She was an expert when it came to busy work and never complained. Her creative mind helped to make the layouts in the book the best in years. The year never would have gone so smoothly without the help of Sharon.

Butch Carroll served as business manager and all around good person. Sometimes we didn't know what was going on in the business office but Butch did. He brought his knowledge of being able to organize and his personality and helped this book in more ways than he will ever know. Butch denounce the ideal that good friends make bad employers.

This next person will always have a special place in my heart. I must admit that her good looks had a lot to do with me hiring her, but it's a move that I've never regretted. Christy Kalder was the editor. I never had to fear what would happen to the book if something happened to me. Christy provided the leadership, talent and personality to make her the favorite of everyone on the staff. If it was one person on the staff that I could not have made it without, then Christy is the one. I searched deep into my vocabulary to find the words to thank Christy for her wisdom, friendship and love. I only end up at my heart with the words "Thanks a million" and I love you madly.

There were also other people who were indirectly involved with the book that I must thank. Dennis Chappell in the business manager's office and Dr. Harry Marsh in journalism. They were always available to help in matters that I knew nothing about.

This was the second year with Taylor Publishing Company. The first year I'd like to forget, but this year will always linger in my mind. Jud Thurman and Nancy Jones helped us so much in making our dream come through. They were always there when we needed them, and made us feel as though we were the only book they were doing. I also must also thank another Christy, who helped us so much during our visits at Taylor with our mixed up ideas.

And then there were friends. The ones who always asked how the book was going or was there anything that they could do to help. They were always there to help with a problem or just to let me cry on their shoulders with my many problems. These people during my years at the university have taught me the true meaning of friendship and I will never be able to find the words to tell them what an important part they have played in my life. So I must mention them in something that will always be very special to me, the book. Thanks a million Harvey, O.V., Hugh P., Cindy, Bridgitt, Kerwin, San, Butch, and the brothers of A Phi A. I could have never enjoyed the University as much without you and at least not be sane at the end.

I could not close without mentioning my family. They have given me the encouragement, love and guidance throughout my life and the confidence for me to believe that I could do anything. Moma, Aunt Gee, Grandma, Uncle Charles, Jackie, Kennie, Uncle James and Aunt Hattie, I can't tell you all how much you have helped me in going through this trip called life. I am only where I am today because of you, and I can't thank you enough for always standing behind me. There are also other unofficial members of my family I have to mention. Chris Hinton and Randall C. Ferguson were always there to give me the inspiration of a big brother and sister and their wisdom and love have made such an impact on me.

So there you have it. The year has ended and the Razorback is now history. So many times the job has been quite lonely and Hill Hall quiet but I never felt alone. God gave me an inner strength to go on and he gave me all the people I've mentioned. People who made the job an experience that I'll never forget and will always cherish. God also gave us "You." Thank you all for making this dream a reality.
